Portraits of the Master

The Empty Canvas

Empty canvas waits
before the Painter

It waits to be the painting it must be

Unto this end it has rightfully been created

To reflect rightfully what the Painter sees

A beauty that will surely find it's life within its dying

So another might be born again

And in this constant death constant beauty is created

Within a constant love that never ends

Jesus is the Master Painter

And the Holy Spirit is the Master's Brush

So an empty canvas waits
before the Painter

An empty canvas destined to be hung

Within the gallery once it has been created

Will the canvas bear
the beauty of the Son.

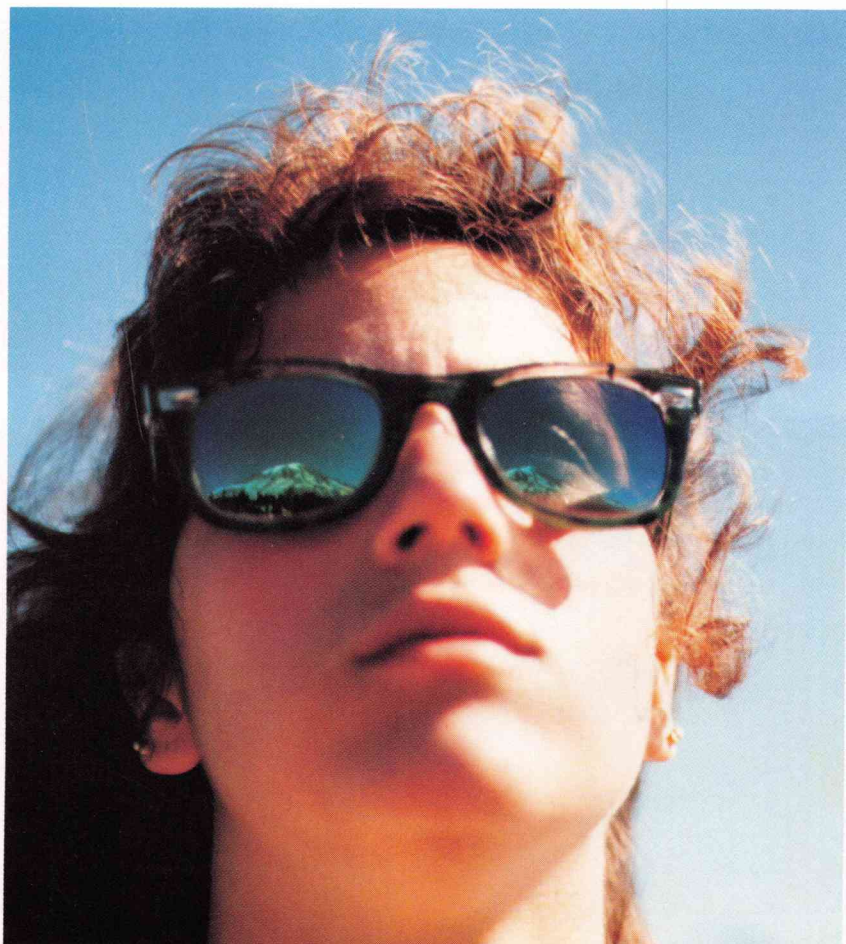

Faces . . . they're all so very different. Each is an expression of the person wearing it. Often a face is a window to the emotions, displaying a clear view of the person's mood or disposition. Just by looking we see such feelings as joy, excitement, satisfaction, confidence; or we may see anger, disappointment, pain, weariness. By seeing moods we learn to interact with each other more sensitively. Can you imagine trying to relate to someone without a face? Faces, however, do not reveal the true person.

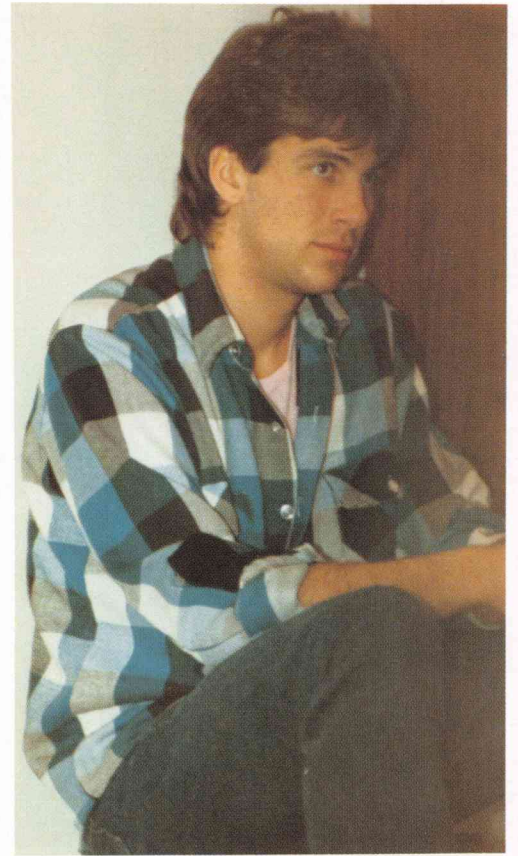

"I want to know Christ and the power of his resurrection and the fellowship of sharing his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, and so, somehow, to attain the resurrection from the dead."
Phil. 3:10-11

If we want to know someone we must know his character. The character is who we are. It is much deeper than just feelings, and much more difficult to detect at first glance. Unlike emotion, character neither changes as quickly nor as often; but it does change. When it does it usually involves a long period of time and many different people and experiences - both pleasant and unpleasant. Our character is how we think and understand; how we behave; our attitudes and philosophies; it is how we relate to God.

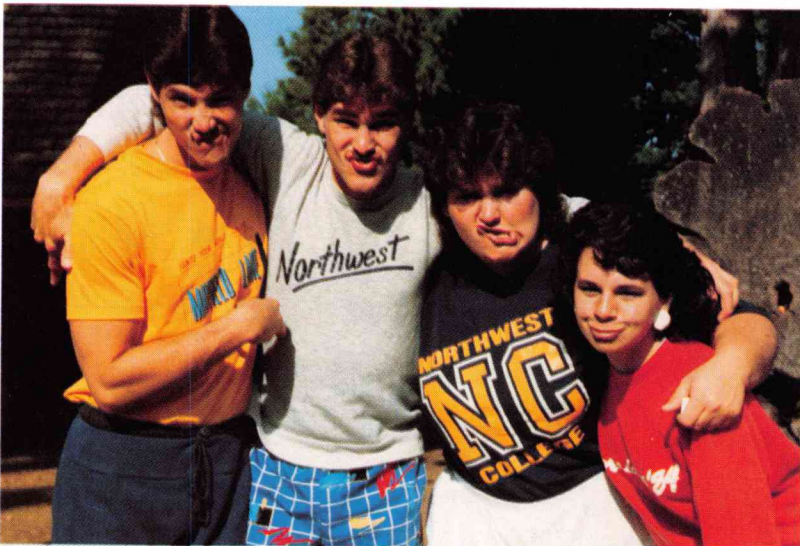

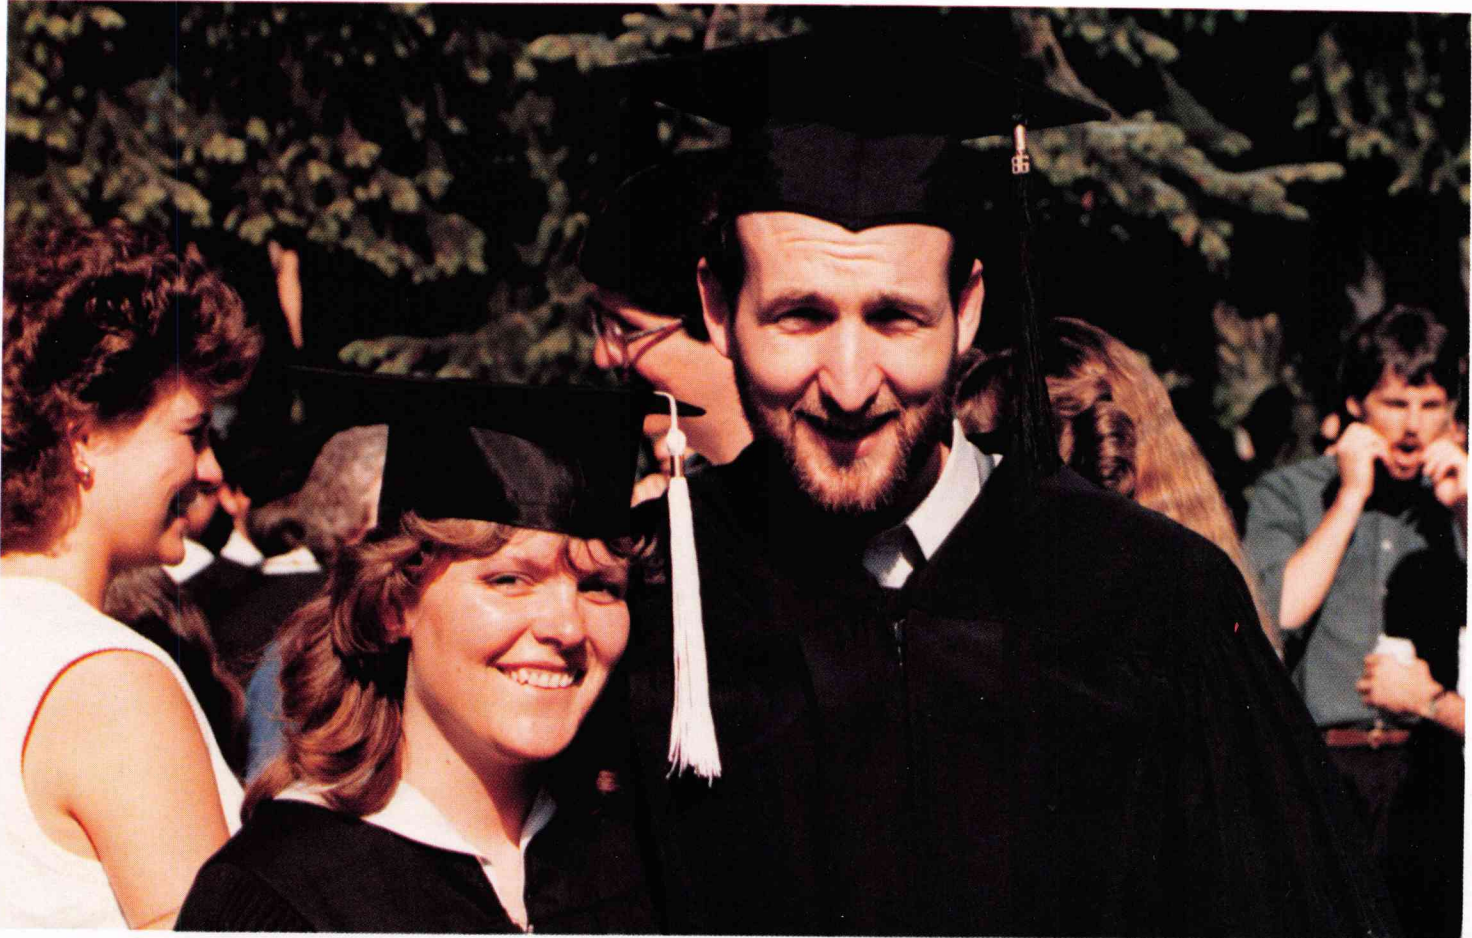

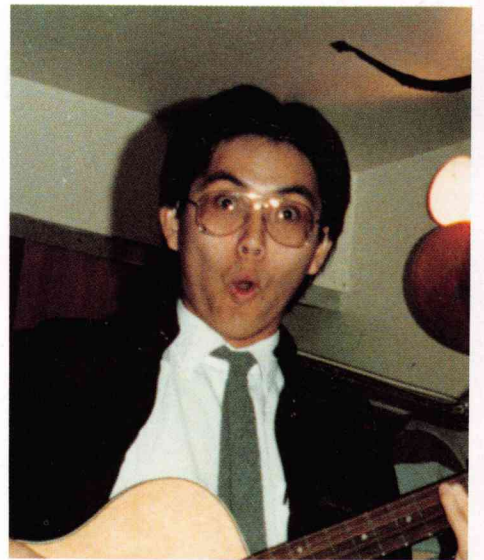

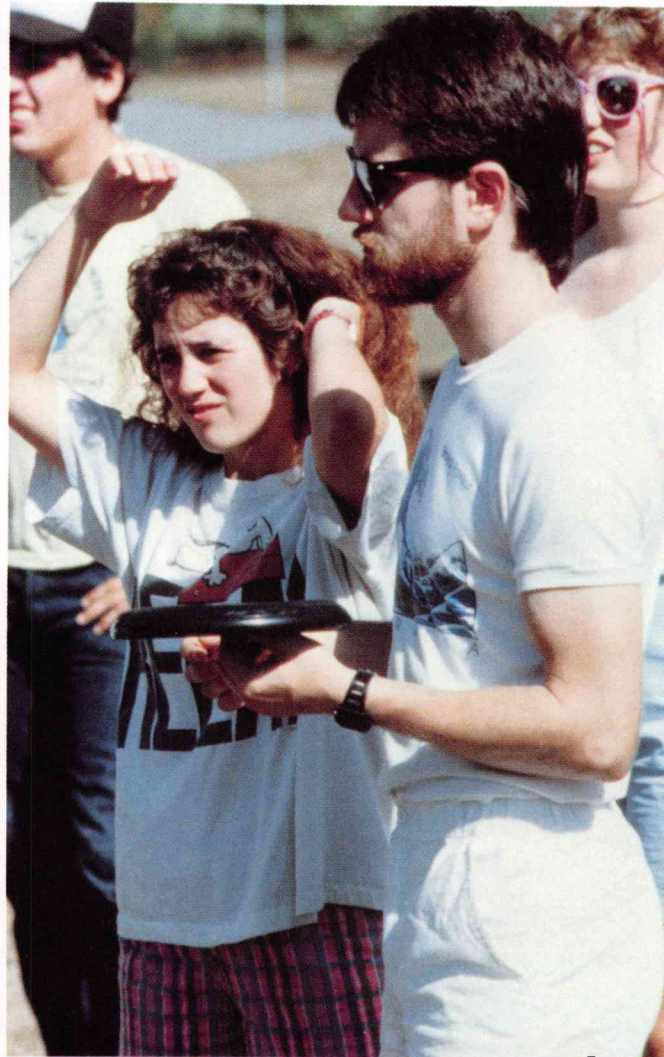

"Not that I have already obtained all this, or have already been made perfect, but I press on to take hold of that for which Christ Jesus took hold of me." Phil. 3:12

It is God the Father who develops our characters . . . much like a painter develops a portrait. It requires much time, much skill and care, much patience. Often our characters become hard and unworkable, just as the painter's paints become dry and brittle. That is when God - The Master Painter - has to break us in order to continue perfecting us in His image. As we submit to God and he continues to form us, we continually learn how to better reflect the character of Christ in our lives. We become "Portraits of The Master".

"For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do."
Eph. 2:10

"LuAnn ... your'e the greatest! God bless you"

The Karisma staff would like to express a sincere "thank you" to all who were involved in producing this annual; in photography, journalism, layout design, art work, add sales, and editing. We especially thank the administration of N.C. who made this project possible through their support.

DEDICATION

Congratulations, Professor Dennis Leggett; on behalf of the student body of Northwest College, the Karisma annual staff of 1986-87 have chosen to dedicate our college annual to you. This is simply to express our appreciation for your being such a clear, personal example of true genuineness to us all; for sharing your personal experiences both in and out of class; for taking the time for students who desire personal or academic counsel; for joining us in the cafeteria with your family occasionally; for playing intramural football; for being such a good sport when the Raiders lost to the Seahawks 37-0; for attending college activities; for leading worship so sincerely in chapel; for reminding students that you have as much to learn as they; and for teaching so well what you have already learned. We especially thank you for consistently encouraging us to learn and grow to be all that God desires of us, and challenging us to set goals and meet them in order to fulfill our God-given potential for life. Most of all, thank you, Dennis, for effectively modeling the character of our Lord Jesus Christ to us, and being so very faithful in ministering His Word to us. The following is an interview with Anne Leggett concerning her husband, Dennis: Q. What is Dennis's ideal or philosophy of teaching? A. "Dennis believes very strongly that his occupation as an instructor here at N.C. is nothing short of a vital ministry: Preparing students to effectively meet the challenges of becoming youth pastors and workers. He feels that his responsibility is not just to inform students about youth ministry, but also to train them in the practical and spiritual aspects as thoroughly as possible. In doing so, Dennis makes every effort to share as much of his own personal character and experience as he possibly can. Dennis believes that the discipling and character development in students is an essential step in preparation for their ministries." Q. What does Dennis find rewarding about being a teacher? A. "Dennis especially finds reward in seeing his students actively involved in youth ministry. The fulfillment comes in knowing they have been well trained, both spiritually and practically, for their work. He also receives satisfaction from students returning to talk with him and seek advice. In this respect, he is able to continue the ongoing process of discipleship that was begun in the classrooms of N.C." By Scott Cherry

DENNIS LEGGETT

"For God did not give us a spirit of timidity, but a spirit of power, of love and of self-discipline."

SPECIAL HONOR REV. OWEN HODGES

Generally unseen by the students on campus, Business Manager Owen S. Hodges maintains genial oversight and management of the Northwest College business operations and non-instructional staff. For some twenty years he has faithfully performed the many tasks involved in his job, insuring that NC students are housed and fed and have an attractive campus and comfortable buildings for their daily learning experiences.

Mr. Hodges is an ordained minister, former beloved pastor and district secretary in The Montana District of the Assemblies of God, and still a popular preacher who supplies for vacationing pastors and speaks in camps or special institutes. His zeal, his knowledge of God's Word, and his warm wit endear him to his audiences. The adult Sunday school class he has taught for so many years at Neighborhood Church, Bellevue, smile in anticipation when he announces "recess time" to share the latest joke or a humorous tale. Also an Elder in the church, he provides wise counsel and prays with compassion for the sick and needy.

Mr. Hodges is a gardener who likes to share his harvest with friends, a jogger who keeps fit and trim, a sympathetic listener to tales of woe, and encourager and lifter of spirits, an imperturbable solver of minor crises, a lover of people — and of God. In short, a model Christian. No wonder N.C. loves him.

By Dr. Frank Rice.

The first time I met Mr. Hodges was this spring under basically the same circumstances many students have contact with him. I have met with him many times since that time, and each time I have felt his care and compassion for myself as well as for other students. He has a hard job — I don't think it would be an easy one by any means — but he has a job to do and his care and compassion underlie his position. I want to thank him personally for all he has done for me while I have been here. May God bless you richly, Mr. Hodges.

DRAMA CLUB: makes a play for

The 1986 school play, "The Cross is Mightier than the Switchblade", was an action-packed, musical production. The play was adapted by Clinton Byrd, the director and producer, from the story, "The Cross and the Switchblade", by David Wilkerson. It told the story of David Wilkerson (played by Ghyrn Wakefield) who went to New York City to minister to the street gangs. It centered on his relationship with Nicky Cruz, a young street punk, played by Brent Brumbaugh.

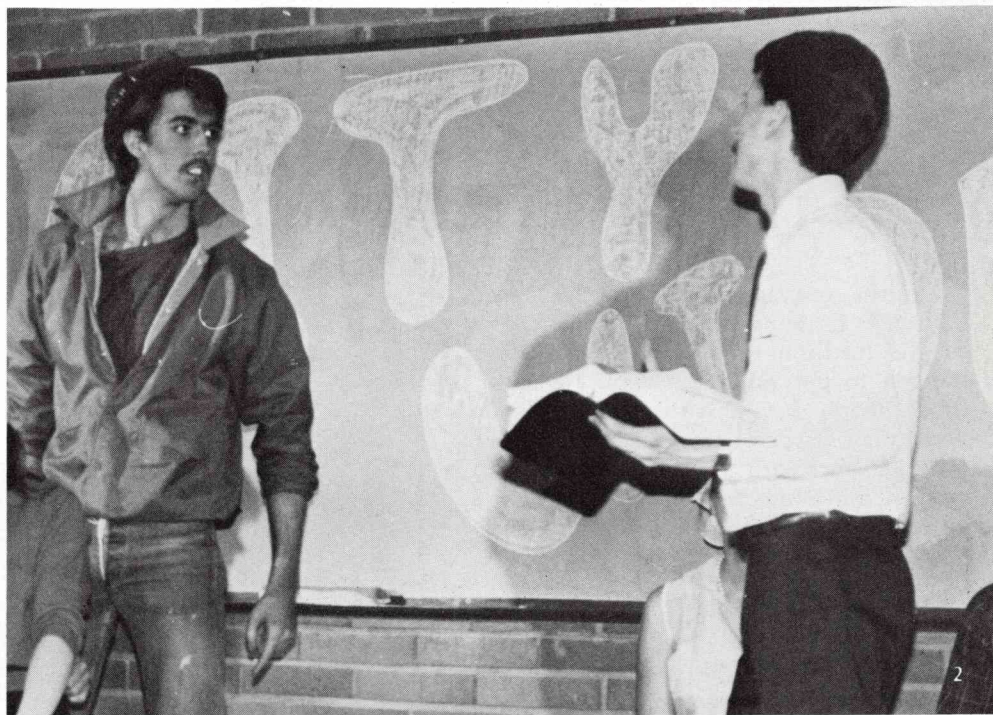

"The Cross is Mightier than the Switchblade" was a play for all our hearts. A variety of emotions were stirred within all those who viewed the play. The audience cringed in fear as gang members flashed their knives. They were next shocked by the dancing of street girls. Then they were moved to tears by Nicky's final repentance. All in all the play was very realistic and well done.

The school play made an impact not only at N.C., but also within the community. It was performed by the cast at Teen Challenge in Seattle. It was especially meaningful there, because it was David Wilkerson's work in New York City that began the Teen Challenge centers. An altar call was given, and many came forward to talk with the cast about Jesus Christ. The cast also performed excerpts and songs from the play at Central Assembly of God in Seattle.

The school play has always been known to be a great opportunity for the involvement of many talented students, and this year was no exception. Karen Heuser was assistant producer and the stage director was Rhoda Lee Miller. Ghryn Wakefield, the assistant director, also wrote "Wandering", the ending song of the play.

A TIME OF FELLOWSHIP AND RELAXATION

On the canvas of life, the Master-Painter is drawing my portrait. He uses as His medium those experiences that happen to me along the way. He uses those people I talk with, sit with, eat with, play frisbee with, and sometimes even get hurt with. He uses those times when I am alone with Him, and those when I am with others.

He even uses special days in my life — like the all-school Spring Picnic — on Friday, May 14, 1986. The food was nourishing, but the refreshing time of relaxation and fellowship was even more so. God uses times like that, when I can relax, to remind me of His goodness to me. To remind me that I need to treasure fellowship with friends. And someday when my portrait's finished, I will look back and remember how precious it was to have known others who were also having their portraits painted by the loving Master Painter.

Last year's annual spring banquet shone once again as a memorable evening for the students at N.C. on April 25th. The Seattle Westin Hotel became transformed by the glitz and glitter of our all-star evening as beautiful gowns and starched tuxes graced the elegant dining hall adorned with lace and roses. Ron Parker and Russel Dickoff provided the quiet atmosphere of chamber music. Entertainment came from among our many varied talent groups on campus. Angela Bowdre, Shelley Aepla, Brenda Lentz and Linda Brooks formed Celebration, creating through their music a festive air reminiscent of their name.

As the mood turned slightly more serious, Skip Bennett was honored by the ASB in appreciation for his many years of dedicated service. The senior class presented their award of appreciation to Professor Francis Thee. LeRoy Johnson and Darrell Hobson regaled us with quips from "That'll Be the Day" in prelude to the now infamous Northwest College annual slide show.

We were privileged to be witnesses to one special crowning moment as Kyle Rasmussen flashed his proposal of marriage to JoAnn Radnich across the slide screen. Sighs and smiles amid the roses lighted the room as the lovely couple was presented to the student body, as well as the numerous other newly engaged couples, crowning an already exquisite evening.

GRADUATION: A TIME FOR LOOKING BACK AND LOOKING FORWARD

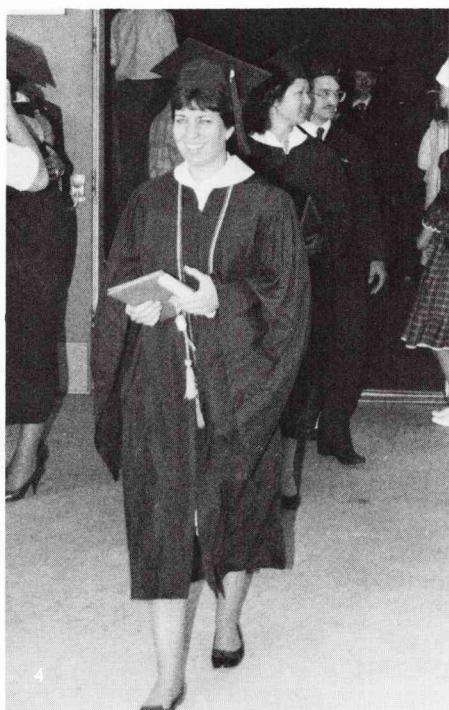

"Do you have any bobby pins?" "Is my tie on straight?" "My hat won't stay on!" It was Sunday June 1, 1986, and the fiftieth commencement of Northwest College had begun. Dressed in their black robes, mortar boards and tassels, the 121 BA graduates and 66 AA graduates marched the long road from the chapel to the gymnasium. It was somehow symbolic of the long road of schooling they had taken to get there. There were looks of jubilation and victory, mixed with tears of happiness and nostalgia on each face. This was the final step. The finish of all the years of studying, taking notes, and collateral reading. But really it was just the beginning. The start of ministries which would take them to churches, mission fields, elementary schools, and for a few . . . seminary.

As the King's Chorals sang, and Dr. G. Raymond Carlson, General Superintendent of the Assemblies of God, spoke, anticipation and expectation stirred in the hearts of the graduates. When they were handed their diplomas, they knew that this was only the first step of many which would carry them to great heights."

This year's annual is a classic memoir of our character growth among Karisma staff. Few of us knew each other when we began to work together, . . . nor did we foresee all that was ahead of us. I think a common fear we shared was, "What am I getting myself into now?"

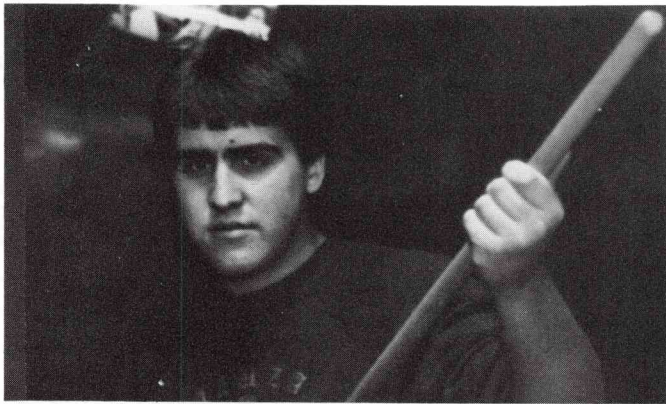

For the first several weeks there seemed to be constant tension in the office as we struggled to put pictures and pages together, sometimes till early in the morning.

In time, though, we realized we needed to respect each other more. We became less demanding and willing to work hard to do a good job.

Personally, I think it's as important to mature and grow as to have a good yearbook.

Thanks to all who have sacrificed your time and energy for Karisma. And thanks to the Lord for this experience. We hope that your school year has been just such a growth experience, as reflected in this annual.

OF DIRECTORS

If one word could be used to describe the basic function and ministry of the administration at Northwest College it would have to be the word "service". The Bible speaks of "differences of administrations." Administration means "the ministering of one who executes the command or serves the needs of another."

The key to this service of different administrations lies in the continuance of this scripture passage, "... but the same Lord." This is the source of strength that makes the administration of Northwest College effective. Unity in the same Lord brings commitment to the work of the Lord, which includes educating students here at N.C.

Secretaries at Northwest College enjoy some fringe benefits, however, that are not always available elsewhere: a feeling of "family" as warm relationships are built with students, faculty, administrators and staff; an awareness he or she is involved in an important part of a total ministry reaching out with the life-changing Word; and the pleasure of seeing alumni come back to campus with reports of how God is using the training they received at N.C."

MODELING CHRIST

Through the faculty at Northwest College, God has formed and molded precise tools with which to create His personal portraits. Our professors reflect the finest quality of intellect, but even more apparent is the mark of the Master in their personal lives. It is this finely cultivated blend of rationale and faith that allows the faculty to be approachable on a personal basis, humanly modeling the character of Christ. And because they are approachable in this way they influence and shape our lives subtly. With each stroke of the brush they are creating what will become, at it's fulfillment, a portrait of the Master in us.

BOOKSTORE

The N.C. bookstore is primarily a service to the students. It's the place to browse, or a place to buy educational tools and texts for classes or for personal enjoyment.

The main emphasis of the bookstore is to help build personal reference libraries.

All customers are considered "special" by the warm, friendly staff; managed by Esther Pecota and assisted by Jeanne Snook and student workers Karen Keyser and Rick Parsons.

Great effort is taken to be sensitive to the "needs" of customers. The work of the staff is considered a "ministry" endeavoring to minister to the students in Jesus' name. The bookstore is the place with the "happy atmosphere".

"A library is a service organization where materials are purchased and classified and made ready for faculty and student use.

Much of the librarian's time is spent ordering books, supervising, attending meetings, answering mail, teaching reference classes, working with statistics and budgets, and doing individual reference. Sometimes being a librarian is part detective work in getting the right material to the right person at the right time.

The most rewarding area is getting to know and help students. It is very gratifying to know that you are helping people prepare to be laborers in our Master's Vineyard."

DEANS & RC'S "MODEL . . . STEWARD DISCIPLER . . . FROG- 'KISSER'

"... these are a few of the ways of describing a Resident Dean. Our purpose is reflected in our lifestyle, ministering the love of God to every student living on campus. Our desire is that each student is treated as a whole person who grows to become more like Christ as a result of living in the dorms. At times, it's like living in a glass house, but the reward of strong and meaningful relationships with students outshine any hazards of the ministry, such as frog bites!"

FALL PICNIC & BONFIRE

NEW FACES-NEW FRIENDS

The fall picnic was the climax of new-student orientation week. After standing for hours in long registration lines, laboring to set up "home" in the dorm rooms, and sitting through intense instructional periods, the new students were quite ready for a break. They were finally unleashed to have some fun.

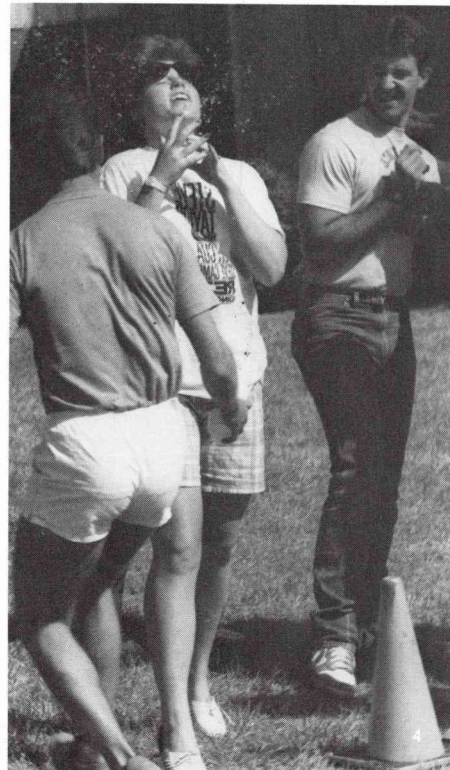

Although the orientation program was a great success at getting students acquainted, there's nothing like a good ol' picnic to get crazy and laugh with each other. It's an opportunity to begin making friends who will add the joy of campus life.

Meeting and making good friends is one of the most important concerns for all of us, especially for new students. Sure, our prime objective is to study and learn, but it's the close friends who help us make it through.

REVIVAL AT NORTHWEST

1) Vern says thanks! 2) I'm talking to YOU! 3) Practicing what we preach! Opp. pg. 1) Dave talks seriously to NC students 2) Debbie Lamm 3) A normal day in chapel 4) Anthony Willey.

Spiritual Emphasis Week was time of refreshment and confirmation for me. The Lord reminded me of His love and presence in my life and showed me that He's teaching me and preparing me for what is in store. And that He'll never give me a task to complete without the measure of His grace I'll need to do it.
by: Debbie Lamm

Spiritual emphasis week was held at N.C. from October 6th through the 10th. The guest speaker was evangelist Dave Roever. The emphasis: commitment and true holiness.

Any artist will tell you that the first step to a successful painting is the atmosphere. Without the proper setting the work will be slow and tedious. So it is with the Master Artist. Before He started His work at N.C., He created an air of expectancy. Moreover, His spirit was preparing hearts, making them pliable and open to His touch. As one visitor said, "This campus is an oasis in the middle of a dry world."

Next is the brush to be used. It must be a responsive tool, an extension of the artist Himself. Such was Dave Roever. He didn't come to N.C. at the invitation of a man, but by the command of the Master. Without the command the invitation would be fruitless.

Finally, there's the canvas. It must be free of spot, and ready to absorb what the Artist applies. It must reflect the Artist Himself. What was fit for a human artist was not for the Master. He demands perfection, and the canvas fell short. As the brush became a cutting tool in the Master's hand, the atmosphere became one of repentance. Lines were drawn, tears were shed and commitments were made. By week's end, the canvas was ready for the Master's touch, ready to mirror His glory.

by: Tim Buckley

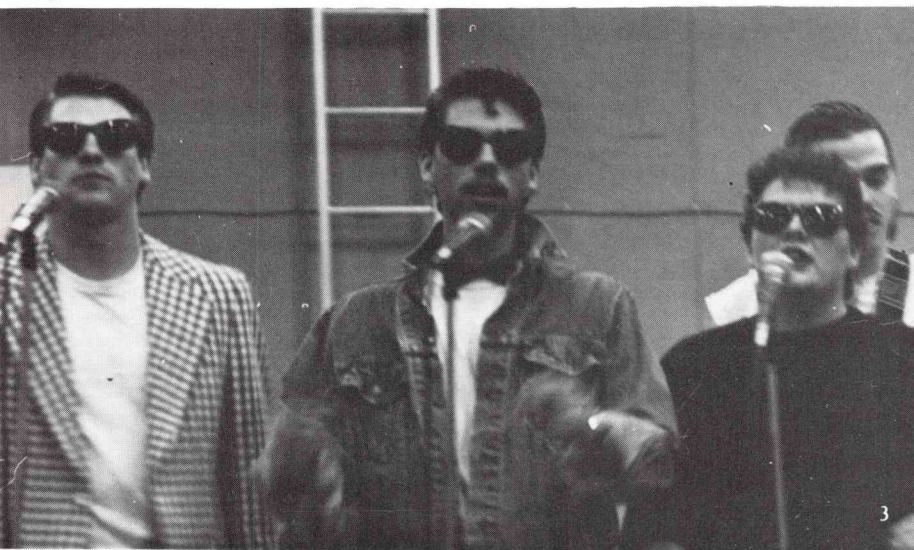

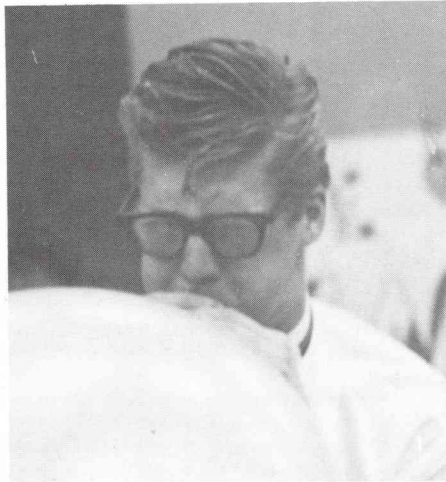

Hearing Dave Roever during Spiritual Emphasis Week was a turning point in my life. It happened at one of the revival meetings. Dave preached about compassion; about caring when it was not convenient. I prayed silently that God would give me an opportunity to do this . . . He did. A person who was hurting asked if he could talk with me. We talked and we prayed together. When we prayed God gave me the words he needed to hear to be healed of his hurt. God used me despite myself, and my "head faith" became "heart faith".

HAPPY DAYS FUN & FROLIC

...AND

Fun, fun, and more fun was to be had at this year's Harvest Time Social presented by the Sophomore Class. Skirts swirled and poodles yelped as the ladies frolicked 50's style amid those blue jean clad, t-shirted, cool-slicked Fonzi-ites.

Dareld Chittim and Darrel Weise, well known for their oldie but goodie dumb jokes, co-hosted the evening's entertainment. Russ Jorgenson from Beatty 300 and Kim Grindstaff from Guy 200 were proclaimed winners at the 1986-87 AWS Olympic Games. Better be getting in shape for next years' event!

CAMPUS DAYS OR DAZE

ON OUR BEST BEHAVIOR-HA!

This year Northwest College played host to approximately 900 high school students. Campus days broke away from the norm and held the 3-day event in the fall to accommodate the new semester schedule.

Students from all over the Pacific Northwest tasted college life here at N.C. They sat in on the classes, became our room guests, and attended chapels here. Prominent youth evangelist, Rick Enloe ministered. In addition they partook in special events planned for them which culminated on Friday night with a special performance by contemporary Christian artist, Steve Archer.

With their presence accompanied the usual long cafeteria lines, crowded rooms, and cold showers. For some it was a lesson in perseverance. But despite the minor inconveniences, a lasting impression was made on our guests.

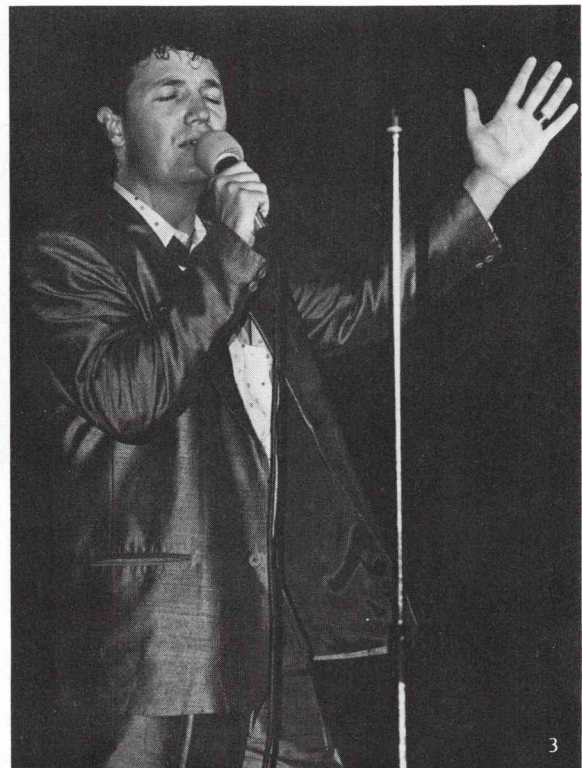

By: Troy Baxter

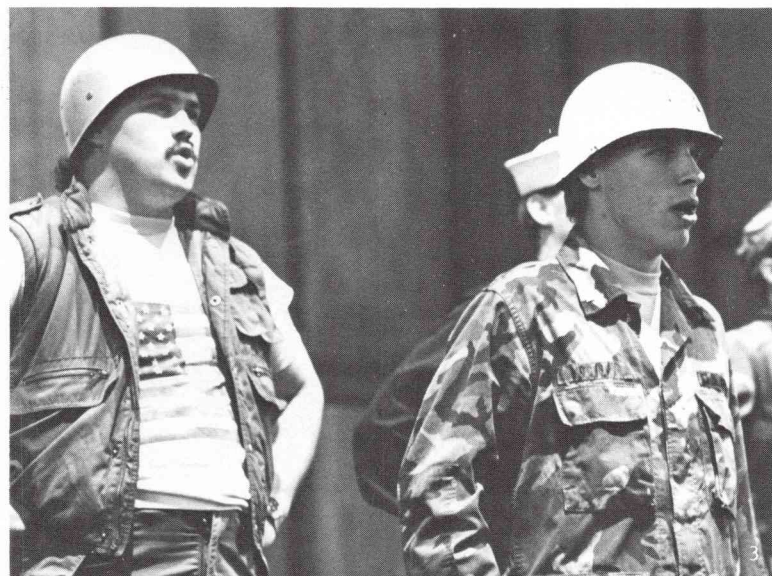

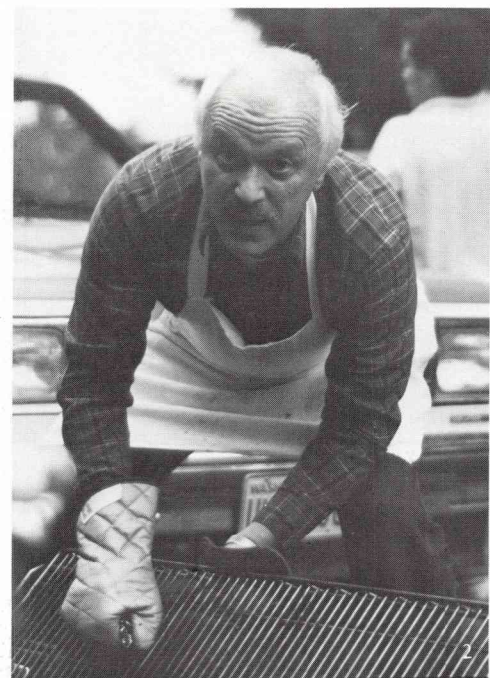

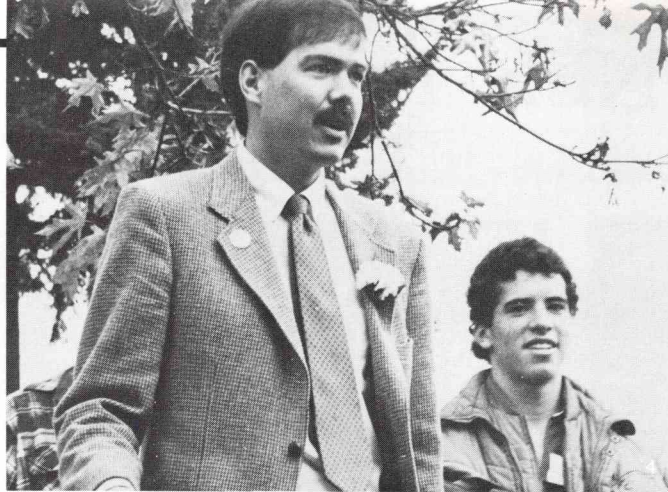

"My soul finds rest in God alone; my salvation comes for him"

Psalm 62:1

1) What? time to go already? 2) "Having a ball, wish you were here" 3) Steve Archer ministers in song.

1) Rick Enlow speaks to the N.C. visitors 2) Doc Pecota; "Where's the beef?" 3) Mark Moder; "You're in the army now!" 4) And right down here is our S.U.B., the only original building left.

DINNER THEATRE—"A STITCH IN TIME"

1) The cast from "A Stitch in Time": Tom Clifton, Jenny Sherlock, Karen Heuser, Dave Strepka, Daren Strong, Heidi Kimball, Jane Andrew, LeAnna Baty, Kelly Kuest, Mark Moder. 2) "Ah sir, an honor to have you visit our humble but happy little factory." 3) "Would you, could you, will you be my wife?" 4) "Get out of my way you ugly leaches!" 5) "Anything two men can do, a woman can do."

"To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."
Ecc. 3:1

"Cut!", came the demanding cry of our fearless director for what seemed like the 750th time that rehearsal. "I need from you guys more enthusiasm, more power, more flow, come on, work together now!"

It wasn't hard work all the time, though. The fun we had putting so much of ourselves into this dinner drama, and the lasting friendships we formed will be remembered by this drama club for a long time!

We always began our rehearsals by praying that God would bless us in whatever "little" ministry value we had. I think He did! We ministered to each other with our helpfulness, friendship, and patience in a very big way.

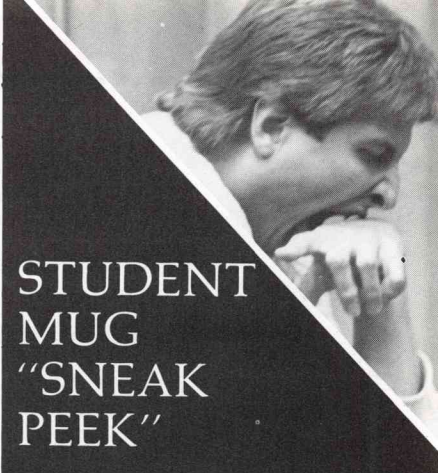

"For all of you who had an opportunity to see us, Thanks for coming."

OPEN DORMS & LIP SYNC

MUG
PEEK"

Open dorms 1986, being the weekend before finals, came as a nice study break for the N.C. students.

From taking a "Christmas Cruise" to "Candy Cane Lane", and going through a "Jungle" and the "Streets of Seattle", there was much excitement in the dorms. The winning floors were Guy 300 "Shekinah" with "Mansions in Heaven", and Beatty 300 with "Changing Seasons".

After touring the dorms, students made their way to the L-building for the second annual lip-sinc contest. Tying for first place was Gray 400 "Grandma Got Ran Over By a Reindeer", and Beatty 300 with "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer".

CHARACTER EXPRESSION

In November, Karisma sponsored an essay contest to find two expressions of character growth.

From the essays we received we have chosen to honor this special student as one of the winners.

This past year has been a year of many changes in my life. It has been a year of examining and re-examining priorities and motives. At Bible camp in 1985 I decided to give God control of all the people and circumstances in my life. This meant a major change in a personal relationship and a decision to put ministry before everything else in my life. I found out that as soon as a person commits himself to God, there will be trials and tests to see if his determination is strong. I gave my boyfriend to God, and God took him out of my life as a boyfriend, but is slowly bringing us to a very special friendship in Him. Soon after I gave my parents to God, they separated. But now my mom is growing everyday in her new-found walk with Jesus. As for my own life, I am here at Northwest College to major in Behavioral Science because God wants to teach me about His character, myself and others through classes, people and experiences here.

I have had some trials in my life, and I have learned and grown through them. But I am finding that once we are willing to be broken of our own wills and desires, and we give our expectations to God, He blesses us in many exciting ways.

God has brought many new people into my life who have really helped me to grow. My boyfriend, Walter, has been a real inspiration to me with his positive attitude and loving heart. I also had an opportunity for a close fellowship with a small Bible study group last summer, and I saw lives changing as people accepted Christ, were physically healed, and grew in knowledge of the Word and love for each other and God.

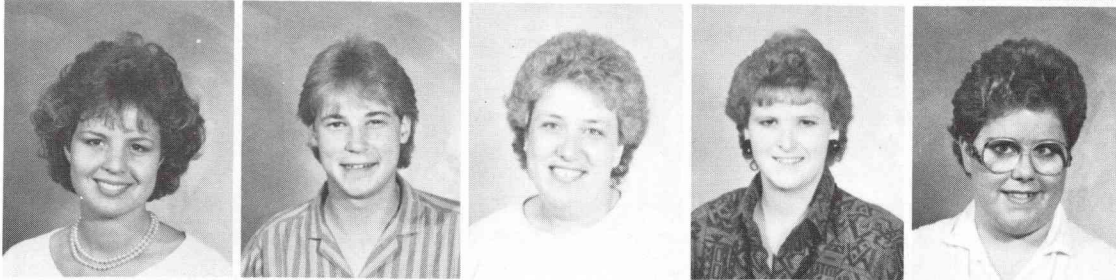

I look forward to getting closer to the people here at Northwest College, and to the great miracles God has in store for me. I still have a long way to go in my Christian walk as I overcome fears and doubts, and learn how to let God handle my life. I know it will not be easy, but God will get the glory, and that is what it is all about. Romans 8:38, 39.

Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. # N.C. SOCCER: PRIDE IN PROGRESS

EAGLES DEVELOP NEW WINGS IN '86

"Our 1986 soccer season was headed by Greg Wingard ("Winnie"). He shipped us-almost literally-into excellent shape with the help of Mr. Malcolm whose favorite saying is, Okay, on the line guys! Using a German style of play we developed into a team that worked well together by tournament time at the end of our season.

"It was very encouraging to see each player develop his skill as the season progressed. Charlie Drury and Ed Bechtold had never played before this year. But they showed incredible improvement and became key members on the team. Those of us who had played more could also see an improvement in our soccer techniques. We learned each others' various styles and how to play effectively together.

"Due to injuries and lack of substitutes we had to work extra hard. This showed our true team spirit as we encouraged each other and never gave up whatever the circumstances. But even in all the tough work and sweat, we still had a lot of fun and shared some good times as we worked to make our goals (no pun intended) we had set before us. Our attitudes toward each other and the teams we played showed true Christian character. When things got heated in games we kept our cool and didn't allow ourselves to what we felt like doing-namely put somebody on the ground with a nice little uppercut to the jawbone!

"I am proud to have been a member of the 1986 NC soccer team. Each member of the team is a special individual. The friendships made during the past season are true and longlasting. Well guys, I just have one thing to say . . . We so bad!

N.C. VOLLEYBALL REWARDING

EAGLES GO 6-0 IN LEAGUE-"THANKS"

"For those of you who came to see the volleyball team play this year we thank you! You might not have been aware of what we go through to prepare for a match. Since you're in the cafeteria enjoying your dinner and sitting around talking with your friends, we're hard at work in the gym.

"Ask just about any person who plays volleyball and they will tell you that nothing can compare to a perfect "pass-set-hit" combination, a blocked hit, or when you dive to the wooden floor and make a save. Our volleyball team is somewhat different. We like winning but more important we've become good friends-we have fun, encourage each other, pray together, laugh a lot, give the Rookies a bad time, and even some of us burp together. All of these things make playing volleyball rewarding to me.

"Over all our season was a success. We went 6-0 in league and 9-9 out of all our games. Thanks for supporting your volleyball team."

N.C. BASKETBALL: PERSISTENT PURSUIT

Men's Basketball at Northwest College is more than winning basketball games and conference titles. It's the training of Christian athletes to be the best they can be. Our athletes learn the value of discipline and persistence in pursuing an objective and controlling one's objectives in emotional situations.

Spiritual goals are also a part of the objectives of the coaches. We discipline ourselves to spend time in prayer and in the Scriptures. We feel that an athlete that has his priorities in order can attain not only spiritual goals, but the goals that we have set for a basketball team. Coaching basketball at Northwest College is a privilege that we as a coaching staff value very highly.

N.C. BASKETBALL: THE TRUE VICTORY

"Women's Basketball at NC has established a winning tradition in more ways than one. It is true that we are accustomed to winning ball-games. However, the victories we value most are reflected not in a win-loss column or a stats sheet, but in the lives of the girls who participate. As we commit our every effort to God who enables us to play, basketball becomes a tool in His Hand. The discipline we learn here extends to other areas of our lives. Strong friendships are built through hard work, sharing and praying together. Doors for witness are opened through the sportsmanship, team unity and attitudes displayed before opposing teams, fans and officials. We are also blessed with a lot of fun along the way. We enjoy our victories on the court, but it is these latter successes which truly are the measure of a winning season and program."

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

BLOOD, SWEAT, & TEARS

The intensity and competition seemed to have an interesting effect in the lives of the men I was fortunate to play with and against, and that effect was unity. The desire to win seemed to shape totally different personalities into one singular mold. There were guys who were quiet, loud, preppy, levi-fashioned, older, younger, super spiritual, and some not quite so spiritual; but the same thing happened Saturday after Saturday . . . people lived in an intense team concept for an hour out of the week.

Even though everyone wasn't fortunate enough to play on the Ducks' championship team, everybody always played together. We had the attitude that our teammates depended on us so we wanted to perform for them as well as ourselves.

"Andreas, I was wondering whether you would consider being an R.A. this year! I looked at Dean Mick and said to myself: Why, I can't take this position of responsibility: I've been at N.C. for one quarter; I'm inexperienced and unaware of what it involves . . . But that's just it . . . where we are weak and unable He makes us strong and able.

"So, at the end of this semester I look back and recall times I've had meetings with Deans, R.C.'s and fellow R.A.'s, but most of all the times I've spent in getting to know the guys on the floor, sharing our joys, fears and burdens, the floor meetings and impromptu midnight prayer meetings! God has truly formed and developed my character, allowed me to mature and taught me many valuable lessons, both through frustrations and rewarding experiences."

STUDENT MINISTRIES

"When I came to Northwest as a freshman, I wanted to get involved in some type of ministry, and I soon found out that Northwest had different ministry groups. After much prayer and seeking God's direction, I felt led towards the evangelism ministry.

Throughout the year we went out from time to time, and sometimes it didn't seem enough. That year the leader of the group couldn't continue his role as head of the group, and I was able to take over the position. I was leader for 3 years in a row, and was also involved with the children's ministry on occasion. It was then the burden began. I felt the need to go out at least once a week or two times a week.

Now, being the Vice-President of Student Ministries is a big task with being the overseer of all the ministry groups. The main task or goal was to get people involved in ministry. My dream was always to see every student involved in a church or school related outreach.

This past year has been a year of growth, change, and development. First of all, many hours of prayer from various groups rang out toward heaven which started the true "burning". We really tried to be sensitive to God's leading for direction. Secondly, many different types of outreaches have taken place, and when you work for the Lord you just seem to grow, change, and develop.

I would like to see for future leaders and groups a renewed emphasis on discipleship. We have been strong on evangelism, but I feel that we still lack true discipleship. We need to train up leadership from within the groups so that the vision and work will carry on.

Furthermore, when we have effective evangelism and effective discipleship, we then have ministry. We are all called to go, what we need to do is find out where he wants us to go, and then go.

EVANGELISM MINISTRY

"REACHING"

Evangelism; there are many different definitions and philosophies about it; various types of books, articles and tracts have been written to encourage it, but very few people truly understand what evangelism is all about. Basically it is one beggar telling another beggar where to find food. This definition may seem very simplistic, but the truth it holds takes on so much meaning.

We really don't realize it, but we were all once starving people seeking to fill the void in our lives, we indulged ourselves in a lot of sin resulting in a lot of unnecessary heartaches and pain. Life would have been hopeless and meaningless, but someone took the time to share the love of Jesus and how life has new meaning. This is what the evangelism ministry is all about. Pointing people to Jesus and telling them about his love. The world may try to satisfy that hunger deep in your soul but they will never succeed, because only Jesus can satisfy your soul.

By Atapana Mamea

"It was he who gave some to be apostles, some to be prophets, some to be evangelists, and some to be pastors and teachers."

Ephesians 4:11

COMMUNITY MINISTRY

"SHARING"

"... to share God's love with our community by meeting and ministering to people precisely where their needs are." That statement, by student leader, Tom Fox, summarizes the goal of this year's community service ministry group.

The group's focal point of ministry was to the elderly at a nearby nursing home. Those involved enjoyed a variety of group activities including bowling, bingo and devotion times. One-on-one activities, such as letter-writing, gave some the opportunity to get to know the residents in a more personal way.

All involved agree that this ministry was a blessing to them as they shared in the lives of these people whom God loves so dearly.

By Kelly McCormick

"And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity."

Colossians 3:14

Mark Chamberlin, Kelly McCormick, Susan Schandl, Bonnie Brooks, Tom Fox

YOUTH MINISTRY

"LOVING"

As Youth Ministry Group leader, I learned a lot about God's love for young people and His power to work through even the most unworthy vessels.

I began the year with many exciting plans for the YMG. As time passed however, I lost track of those exciting plans, or so it seemed.

As I spent more time in prayer, I felt impressed to quit dreaming of what could be and concentrate on the fantastic ministry God had already opened up for the YMG in the form of Echo Glen Children's center.

Through the caring dedication of the fantastic people who joined the YMG, many hurting young people were touched by God's love.

By Beth Hartz

"Remember your Creator in the days of your youth."

Ec. 12:1

CHILDREN'S MINISTRY

Twyla Steinberg, Mary Arriola, Susie Bade, Sally Barrett, Heidi Gustafson

"CARING"

The children's ministry is geared to present the gospel message to young children in a way that they can visualize the events of Jesus' life and the reasons for those events. To do so we must "think as they think" and creatively communicate God's love for them. Of course, children respond best of all to simple but genuine caring.

The group ministers mostly in churches, but also in some day care centers and orphanages. We use creative tools such as skits, puppet shows, and games.

As we minister to kids with our love, the rewards, we know, will be eternal . . . for them, as well as, for us.

"Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it."

Proverbs. 22:6

SERVICEMEN'S MINISTRY

"SERVING"

During Jesus' ministry, He encountered several soldiers. One of them was a Centurion who came to have Him heal his servant. Jesus was amazed at the faith of the Centurion and healed his servant. This story is not too far off from the situations facing the military today. Many military members face difficult circumstances, from separation from loved ones to moves at a moment's notice. The Servicemens' ministry is an outreach to these men and women. Just as Jesus reached out to the Roman soldiers, so we should follow His example and minister to the military. We can minister through their difficulties encountered in military life by sharing the love of Jesus with them.

By Bob Christenson

"To rescue us from the hand of our enemies, and to enable us to serve Him without fear."

Luke 1:74

PRISON OUTREACH

Here at NC we are in the process of developing a new area of ministry . . . prisons. In Matthew 28:19 & 20, Jesus has commissioned us to go and make disciples of all nations . . ." The prisons are a nation within a nation that are in desperate need of volunteers to share the love of Jesus Christ with many who are spiritually, as well as physically, imprisoned; to share with them the forgiveness and hope of new life found only in Him.

By Fred LeFever & Ed Bechtold

"I, the Lord, have called you in righteousness; . . . to free captives from prison and to release from the dungeon those who sit in darkness."

Gospel teams . . . ministering in song the gospel, the Word, the Son of God, Jesus Christ. In all we do, we strive to present Jesus as our reason for ministry. The team is not just the visible people, but the invisible also: The friends that pray; the administration that helps us put services together; and Jesus Christ, the one hope they will see through us.

By John M. Brewer

"I will sing of the Lord's great love forever."

Psalms 89:1

CAMPUS MINISTRY

3) Joani Brothers and Dave Hancock

"HELPING"

Campus ministry is an important part of Northwest College in that it centers around the Hands program, which helps foreign students with their school work, so they may understand and further their education better. Campus ministries also puts together the foreign missions banquet, which is to bring together the foreign kids for a time of fellowship and culture. Campus ministries centers all-in-all with the interaction of foreign students and Northwest College.

By Dave Hancock

"May the nations be glad and sing for joy, for you rule the peoples justly and guide the nations of the earth." Psalms 67:4

KCNC is a station of action. It is youthful and it is fast. There seems to be no limit for its potential to actualize itself. It is like waterskiing in the raging Yellow River; somewhat dangerous and yet a whole lot of fun. But above them all, I believe the reason for our being is to serve God and to minister to you.

Pulley delivers a dramatic interpretation.

Someone said that actor, Richard Burton could recite even the telephone book and make it sound exciting. Most of us have ideas and feelings much more interesting than a list of phone numbers, yet we are unable to get other people excited about them. NC Forensics is in the business of making your thoughts interesting to people around you — having a lot of fun in the process.

Your career as a Forensics team member begins when you ask director Gary Gillespie to tell you more about the program. He'll show you plenty of helpful speaking techniques. The work is worthwhile when the van heads out for the first Collegiate Speech tournament! You'll find that NC speech involves traveling to large college campuses, making new friends, multiplying your speaking skills through competition, and enjoying the team meal on the way home.

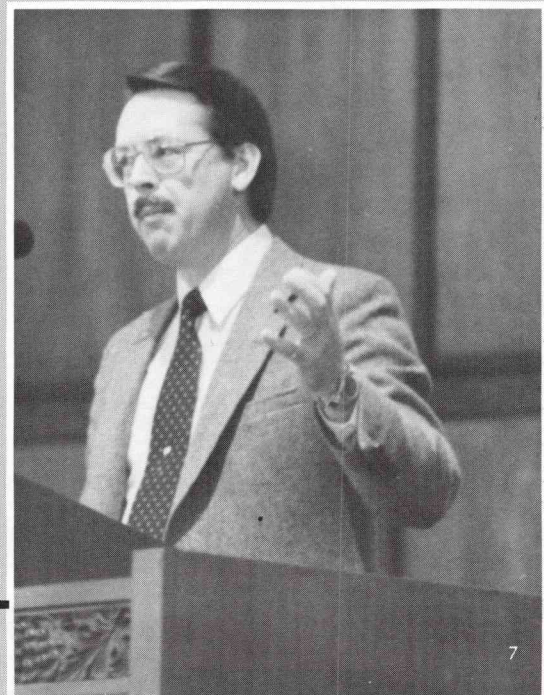

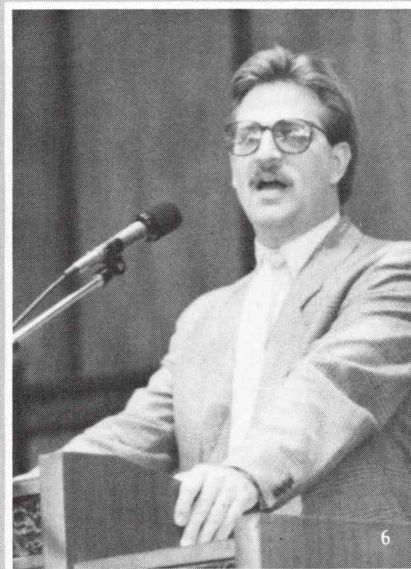

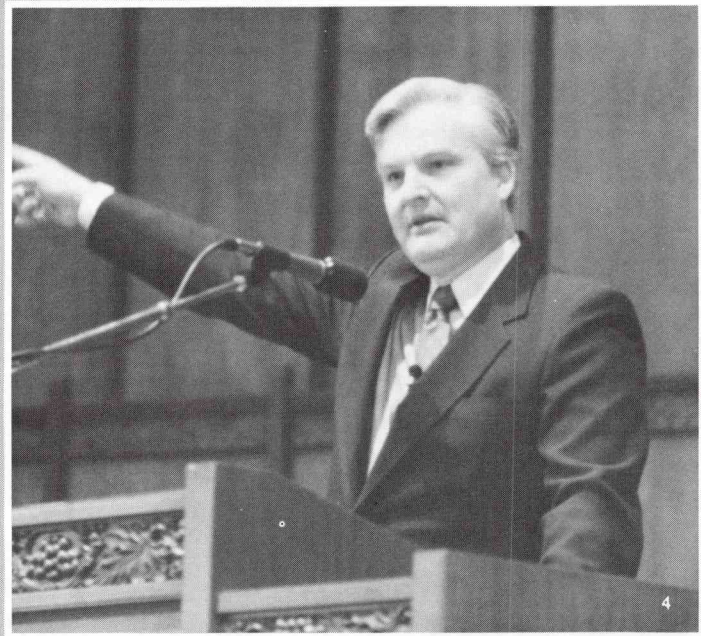

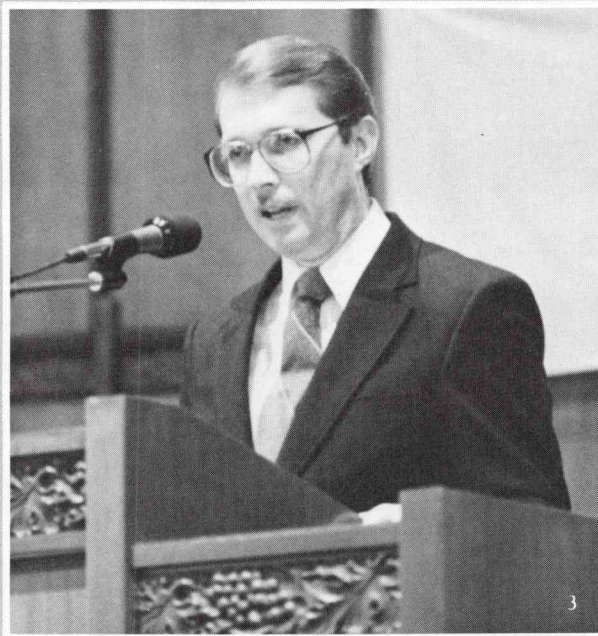

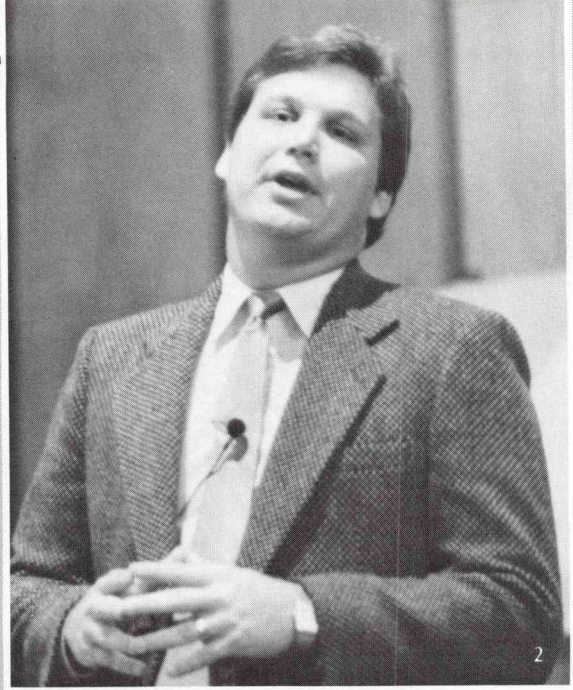

Those of us on the team know that it was worthwhile. It developed clear thinking and ability to speak, and we brought home several awards! Although we now can compete at events as different as impromptu speaking and debate, there is one skill we didn't pick up: Gary never did explain how to make interesting reading out of the phone book.

FOR OUR EDIFICATION

Chapel at Northwest College is a primary spiritual growth function for students. It is within this body of worshipping believers that we endeavor to maintain our focus upon the author and finisher of our faith, Jesus Christ our Lord. In doing so, we continually strengthen our commitment to Him, both as a united body and as individuals. We develop our sensitivity to the Holy Spirit and His call upon each of our lives. And, we learn to love and obey God our Father as we prepare for ministry in this world.

Guest speakers in chapel are vessels, used by God to challenge us and provide us with the edification that we need to become like Christ.

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to these fine men and women of God who have made themselves available to us.

PEP BAND & A'CAPPELLA CHOIR

The Northwest College Pep Band is an on-campus performing ensemble which is open to all qualified instrumentalists. The group has been active for quite a while, and for the last several years academic credit has been offered on a year-around basis to those involved. A primary function of the Pep Band has been to provide entertainment for the basketball games. This year the band has also been able to play on a regular basis in the chapel services. Those in the Pep Band enjoy the fun and comradery in the group, and also appreciate having the opportunity to continue to improve on their instruments.

By Dr. Cal White

The A Cappella Choir was first organized in the Fall of 1978. It was felt at that time that our students needed more variety of expression in musical experience. The success of the choir since that time has been gratifying, and each year seems to improve in quality.

Although this type of choir specializes in unaccompanied choral music, there is none the less an underlying desire to minister the gospel in music to the community around the College. Besides our concerts and chapel appearances on campus, the choir sings in local churches, at shopping malls, and for community service groups.

MARRIED STUDENTS

After five years of marriage and a comfortable life in Salem, Oregon, God began to speak to our hearts and we became dissatisfied with the direction our lives were taking, especially when we both knew that God wanted us in full-time ministry. So we made the big move. It was the hardest thing that we've ever done, but through it all God has blessed us. He has caused us to grow in every area of our lives. Being married while in school or having a spouse in school is not easy. The call of God on our lives, though, has never wavered. Even in the hardest of struggles there was a peace in knowing that Northwest College was the place that God wanted us to be. Living in the "Firs" is the greatest! The friends we have made here will last a life-time. We'll never forget the late night get-togethers that involved everything from snowball fights to "deep theological discussions". Living in the "Firs" makes you feel like a part of the school. There aren't many apartment complexes where everyone is a Christian, although that doesn't make them any more quiet at times. Having a bird's-eye view of the Hawks inspires all the guys to get up and play those early morning intramural games. The Married Ladies' Fellowship group has been a neat time of sharing and activities. It's especially good for the wives who don't attend school to have a chance to meet other wives, to make friends and feel a part of the school. It's a support group. Most all of the married students are basically in the same situation - very busy, not rich (under statement), fairly newly married, and some in the process of starting a family. Our marriage has gone from two people building separate lives to two people committed to one common goal, committed to one another, loving and needing each other, and getting an education in the process. What a deal! Leaving NC will be very hard, but there is no fear (most of the time), only excitement. Our years at NC will always be fondly remembered as some of the greatest times of our lives. We want to thank the faculty and administration for all their love and concern.

Mark:

"Daren and I have been friends since the beginning of last year. This year, when we decided to room together we were a little worried that it might put a strain on our friendship. Well, it did. We've had to make many adjustments in order to live with each others' idiosyncrasies, but the fact that we have adapted to each other has greatly deepened and strengthened our friendship. I confide in Daren and he confides in me; we trust each other, and though the difficult times we have proven true the verse of scripture which says:

"Iron sharpeneth iron;
so a man sharpeneth
the countenance of his friend." Pr. 27:17

Daren:

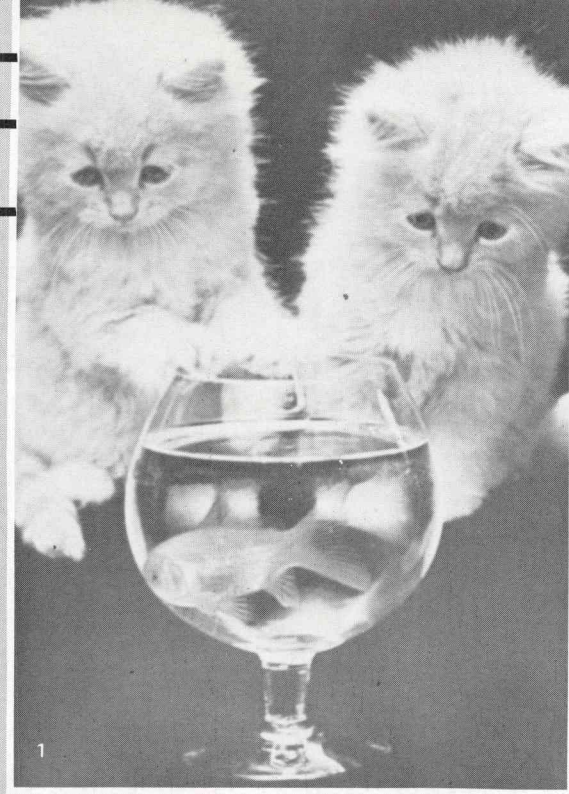

"I met Mark last year through my roommate. I'm not really sure what caused us to be friends, but I'm just glad that we are. We shared our lives over salty popcorn and thick hot chocolate (we still do on occasions). We would go to Denny's and have theological discussions over coffee for hours. We are very much alike, but yet so different at times. I guess our goofy humor will always be a link between our personalities. The most important things are the many things God has shown me through Mark. In the person of Mark Lucero, God has given me a life-long friend of the closest kind."

The Lord has allowed me to really enjoy my last year at school because He gave me a room to come home to and a very close and special roommate along with it. It is so rewarding to have such a friend in my own home. I can see such growth in her life."

Theresa: "Rena cares so much. The love of Christ shines through her more and more each moment I am with her. She is such an encouragement to me. If I ever need someone to talk to, listen, laugh with, cry with, hug, or stare at the walls with she is always willing to set herself aside for me. I love her for who she is, and she will be a friend forever."

CHARACTER EXPRESSIONS

In November, Karisma sponsored an essay contest to find two expressions of character growth.

From the essays we received we have chosen to honor this special student as one of the winners.

The summer of 1985 was the hottest Washington State forest fire season in twenty years. I was a two-year-old Christian on a ten-man fire crew, sent east of the mountains to fight fire.

As the twelve-to-eighteen hour work days dragged by, I started questioning God's wisdom in my being there. The men on my crew were irritable, swore, and told crude jokes. They also ridiculed me for my faith in Christ. I resented them.

And the work! Hand digging miles of trail around fires, carrying hundreds of feet of hose up and down mountains, and packing portable water bags on my back until I became exhausted. I was hot, smelly, and black; I felt like a half-charred presto-log.

Then there was the danger. Already, a helicopter dropped 500 gallons of water on me; furthermore, I was almost crushed by a rolling log, and there were rattlesnakes and cliffs. "Surely you've made a mistake, Lord!" I would whine.

However, one afternoon as I stood overlooking a beautiful valley, I began to praise God for His creation. I saw an eagle, a deer - and what a variety of insects! Oh, how I loved God's creation!

But my heart called me a hypocrite. How could I say that I loved God's creation, while I rejected the men on my crew, the epitomy of His work!

"Were those scales, blinding pride, the broken Saul of Tarsus cried?"

I repented, quite literally, in dust and ashes.

From then on, God opened doors of witness for me to the entire crew. In the midst of tribulation, He worked His heart for the lost into mine.

Do you recognize this portrait? Truly, this is a portrait of the Master Painter Himself; Jesus Christ, the Son of God, our Lord and Savior. To Him we offer all glory, honor, and thanksgiving for the inspiration of this annual; for providing those who produced it with a measure of skill and creativity; and most of all, for taking the empty canvases of our lives and painting them with godly colors, continually adding more detail each day as we submit our lives to Him.

Do you know this painter? Have you allowed Him to paint your life? Have you given Him the canvas of your life that you, too, may become His beautiful workmanship unto eternal life? If you have, you are most abundantly blessed, for no other artist can create in you the life that Jesus so freely gives by the stroke of His brush. You've become a living painting by the hand of the living God, and many who behold you will long to know your Creator; to be touched, also, by His brush.

If you haven't you shall know no beauty, no life; only the emptiness of the canvas, untouched by the Master Painter.

Consider your relationship with Jesus, the Painter. Consider the canvas of your life.

Jesus so desires to fulfill you, to make you reflect His beauty by His loving touch. He longs to share sweet communion with you and change you into His image; to give you His pure and holy character.

Remember, it was this Painter who sacrificed Himself on the cross so that you may experience His beauty and joy, now and forever.
