NEW TESTAMENT COMMENTARIES

Purpose: To highlight the best two or three commentaries on the New Testament books.

Divisions: Commentaries may be classified roughly into three groups: (1) Critical, (2) Exegetical, and (3) Expository. (These may appear in combinations, i.e. a critical commentary is frequently exegetical.) These classifications generally answer the following questions: (1) Critical--What is the best text, and what does it say? (2) Exegetical--What does it mean? This will involve context, history, grammar, etc. (3) Expository--What does it mean to me or, How may it be applied to a life situation?

Terms: Greek text means that the Greek text is used as a basis for comment. English text means an English translation, either standard or the commentator's own, is the basis for comment. Frequently, however, the English text is used, but it is based on knowledge of the Greek.

English and American editions: American editions are usually more expensive and always better in quality. The print will usually be larger; the binding stronger; the format more presentable; and the paper of better quality. But the English editions are less expensive! English editions may be purchased directly from Great Britain by writing to:

Blackwell's Booksellers
Broad Street
Oxford, England

or James Thin, Booksellers
53-59 South Bridge
Edinburgh, Scotland

American editions may be purchased from local retailers. Publishers are mentioned so that books out of stock may be ordered. Many Christian book stores will allow some kind of discount (usually 10%) to ministers. These discounts are not figured in the listed prices. Prices are for new books only. Those out of print may be available on the second-hand market either in Great Britain or America. Used books may be purchased from:

Academy Books
Rippleside Commercial Estate
Ripple Road, Barking
Essex, England

Alle'son's
Napierville
Illinois

-- CONTEMPORARY THEOLOGY

Henry, Carl F. H., The Protestant Dilemma. Grand Rapids, Michigan: Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, 1948. A good analysis of contemporary theology by a noted Evangelical theologian.

Clark, Gordon H., Religion, Reason and Revelation. Philadelphia, Pennsylvania: Presbyterian and Reformed Publishing Company, 1961. A recent work by an outstanding Evangelical thinker.

Carnell, Edward J., The Theology of Reinhold Niebuhr. Grand Rapids, Michigan: Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, 1951. A good analysis by an able evangelical theologian.

-- PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION

Orr, James, The Christian View of God and the World. Grand Rapids, Michigan: Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, 1947. This book is somewhat out of date but it is still a great and inspiring presentation. Basically evangelical in viewpoint.

Clark, Gordon H., A Christian View of Men and Things. Grand Rapids, Michigan: Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, 1952. A very valuable work by one of our outstanding evangelical thinkers.

Carnell, Edward J., An Introduction to Christian Apologetics. Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Company, 1948.

_____, A Philosophy of the Christian Religion.

Eerdmans, 1952. An excellent work.

Warfield, Benjamin Breckinridge, The Inspiration and Authority of the Bible. Philadelphia: The Presbyterian and Reformed Publishing Company; one of the most able defenses of the inspiration of the Bible ever written.

Burtt, Edwin A., Types of Religious Philosophy. New York: Harper and Brothers Publishers, 1939. A valuable examination of various types of religious philosophy with a very able summary of the basic assumption of each position. However, it must be noted that this man is a Humanist.

Bronstein, Daniel J. and Schulweis, Harold M., Approaches to the Philosophy of Religion. Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey: Prentice, Inc., 1954. An interesting presentation of a diversity of viewpoints on problems of great importance. Selections are taken from noted thinkers, past and present.
