

Northwest Passages

FOR FRIENDS AND ALUMNI OF NORTHWEST COLLEGE • FALL 2001

New Masters Degree in Counseling

The first Masters Degree offered by Northwest began this fall. It is a Master of Arts in Counseling Psychology.

"This new degree is unique in nature," states Dr. William R. Herkelrath, the Director of the Graduate Psychology Department. "Utilizing a creative blend of traditional and innovative courses, students will receive an education in the mental health field that combines the highest academic standards with a passion to help hurting individuals around the world."

The faculty is comprised of skilled clinicians and researchers. Classes will meet as cohorts, or groups, to help students develop valuable and trusting relationships with others, sharing thoughts and ideas.

The beginning of a new semester is a time to renew friendships with alumni... and meet their children, who will become, in a few short years, new alumni! Above, Professor LeRoy Johnson helps Angela Skogstad move in, with her parents, Larry and Linda. Angela is a freshman; the Skogstads also have a son, Shawn, attending Northwest. He is a junior. At right, Nicole Benningfield gives her mother, Linnea, a break from helping her move. Linnea is the daughter of long-time college board member R. L. Brandt.

The View from Ground Zero

By Dr. Don Argue
PRESIDENT

Meetings that were planned months ago took me to New York City and Washington, D.C. in recent weeks.

I am still processing the sights, smells and sounds; my thoughts have been dominated by the destruction I witnessed and by the conversations I had with our leaders.

At The Pentagon

My first visits were at the Pentagon. The damage there is sobering, and the mood in D.C. is very tense.

I had a 40-minute meeting with the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Vernon Clark. (He is the son of E. M. Clark, a great man and mentor with whom I served in the 1970s.)

Vern has a total of 186,000 people under his command!

We had an in-depth time of prayer and scripture reading.

I believe his heart is still heavy: he lost 42 staff in the Pentagon attack.

At The Justice Dept.

Attorney General John Ashcroft invited me to the Justice Department for lunch.

(He and I have been friends since we were young boys. Our friendship grew when I was at Evangel College where his father, J. Robert Ashcroft, was president. Our friendship has deepened significantly in the last 15 years during an annual retreat we attend.)

We spent a meaningful hour together. Despite the pressure of his position – or perhaps because of it – John has grown tremendously.

In fact, The Washington Times, on October 11, 2001, carried an article that took one-quarter of a page and had a headline that read, "John Ashcroft has become a Statesman."

John and I had a powerful time of prayer together.

Are We Ready?

Here is what struck me most after my time in D.C....

Both the Admiral and the Attorney General caused me to wonder if our nation is really ready for a War on Terrorism.

I was left wondering if we will forget about this tragedy.

I was also left wondering about what continues to happen behind the scenes. I'm wondering what further tragedy our military, FBI, and other government agencies have already averted.

In New York City

A week after my trip to D.C., I found myself in New York City, including three hours of work alongside ministers and counselors at Ground Zero.

Here are the things that struck me most in New York:

• The vacant sky.

I have flown to New York City scores of times over many years.

(Right after I finished college, my wife Pat and I served at Teen Challenge in New York with David Wilkerson; I've been there many times since.)

Seeing the skyline has become natural to me... but this time it was very unnatural to see the gaping hole in the skyline where the WTC once stood proud.

• Vulnerability

If two non-military planes (no guns, no bombs) could cause this much destruction, how vulnerable are we?

• Rubble

Although there is a great deal of rubble, it seemed miniscule to what I expected from these immense buildings. I thought I would find a piece of concrete to take with me as a reminder of the tragedy, but there was not a single fragment to be found. No glass. No concrete.

Just mangled steel, ash and dust... lots of dust.

The glass, concrete, and plaster were all reduced to a cloud of ash and dust in mere moments.

We cannot forget our many blessings!

Even as I was saddened by the devastation in Washington, D.C. and New York City, there were incredible blessings as well!

Our newest grandchild, Christina, is an answer to prayer – literally. She was in serious jeopardy at birth, but she is now doing fine.

Our new duplexes are now fully occupied with staff and faculty. These beautiful units – 14 in all – are the first new buildings on our campus in nearly 20 years!

• One Place; Two Purposes

The work is going very slow because Ground Zero is both a crime scene and a sacred burial ground.

During my time there, only two dump trucks left the site.

And it seems eerie.

I'm told that it continues to burn below the surface, a furnace heated to over a thousand degrees.

While I was there a large shaft of orange flame burst from the rubble, accompanied by thick, acrid smoke.

Yes, the site was sanctified by those who were murdered there... but it also seemed like Hell on earth.

A Time to Refocus

My experiences of the past few weeks have caused me to refocus on what is really important.

So what is important?

This is a great day for the gospel. This has been a wake-up call to our nation, and many are finding their way back to God.

People are realizing that their lives are built on shifting sand; we can invite them to join us on The Solid Rock.

Invest in People

Buildings and other emblems of our prosperity won't stand.

Thankfully, most will fall to time and normal wear, not terrorism. But fall they will.

Our focus must be on people.

For example, are you praying everyday for our leaders (1Timothy 2)?

Invest in Eternity

Some say that the American people invented philanthropy.

We have demonstrated that again with the outpouring of support for the families of the 9/11 victims.

Many friends close to the College have been telling me that recent events have caused them to reprioritize.

We must invest in what matters most; we must invest in eternity.

A Good Investment

Northwest College is a good investment.

God is doing a profound work in the lives of our students as they prepare to Carry the Call.

These times present a fantastic opportunity for our graduates to show Christ's love through hands of compassion.

Pray for these students, and support your College financially, as they prepare to invade every walk of life with the Gospel.

Faculty Focus

Brenda and Phil Rasmussen

MUSIC INSTRUCTOR | DEAN OF THE CHAPEL, DIRECTOR OF OF CAMPUS MINISTRY PROGRAMS

Phil and Brenda Rasmussen have returned to the northwest to join Northwest College's leadership team! Phil serves as Dean of the Chapel and directs the College's chapel and campus ministry programs. Brenda serves as a music instructor and director of The Choralons.

Previously, Phil Rasmussen had served as the Assistant National Youth Director for the National Youth Ministries of the Assemblies of God. He also served as the Director of Student Development, which gives oversight to the areas of Fine Arts, Bible Quiz, and Discipleship. He has been in the denomination's headquarters since December 1997.

Phil served as youth pastor at Shoreline Community Church in Seattle, WA, for eleven years. He then served as the District Youth Director of the Northwest District for two years prior to his appointment in the national office. Phil grew up in Oregon, where his parents served as pastors for nearly 20 years. He is a 1986 graduate of Northwest College.

Brenda Rasmussen previously served as the Fine Arts Festival Coordinator at the National Youth Ministries Office. Brenda graduated from the Royal Conservatory of Music in Piano Pedagogy and from Northwest College with a Bachelor of Arts in Biblical Literature and Music. She served as the music pastor at Shoreline Community Church in Seattle, WA, for 12 years and for two years as a music instructor at Northwest College.

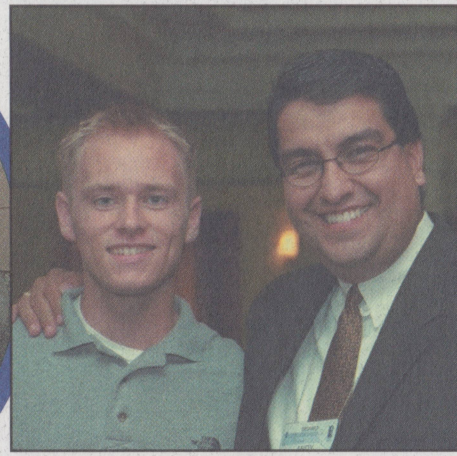

Brenda and Phil have been married for 16 years and have two children Kramer (11) and Kaitlyn (8). They share a true passion for students: "We are committed to help students develop their personal relationship with Jesus and help further the gifts God has given them."

Kansas City lived up to its name as COW town during General Council in August.

The city was filled with life-sized sculptures, decorated by various "artists."

There was a great turn-out at our Alumni Reception on August 10, and everybody seemed to have a good time!

Justin Keeler, ASB President, and Andy Rosas.

Darrel and Gail Johnsen and family.

Gary Cox and family from Muldoon, AK.

Karen and Jon Stanford.

Steve and Cheryl Jamison and family.

You know the old saying, Drive for Show... and Putt for Dough!

That was just the case August 13 as more than 120 golfers (including Professor LeRoy Johnson) played to help raise funds for scholarships for students at Northwest College.

Doug Young tried hard on this hole—an "ace" won a new car!

Rudy Patrick (right) of the AG Foundation

There were literally some medal winners during our Alumni & Friends Weekend, Sept. 28 & 29.

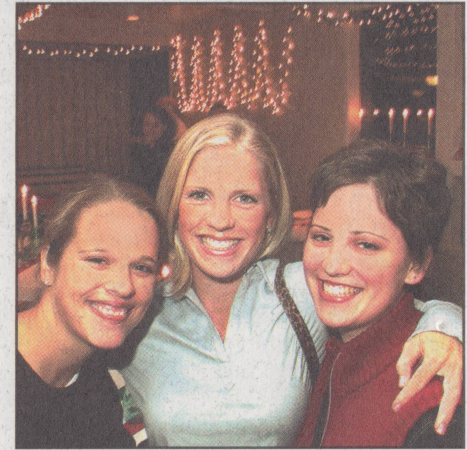

These special medallions honored the 50th Anniversary Class of 1951.

50th Anniversary Class: Stanley Jacobsen with his wife Evelyn.

Professor Francis C. R. Thee received the Didaskalos Award.

Tanya Hebert, Sandy Smith, and Alicia Duchemin at the Young Alumni Coffee House.

Brandi and Chuck Dorsett with Christian Lindbeck. Brandi was the speaker in the Alumni Chapel, with 700 students.

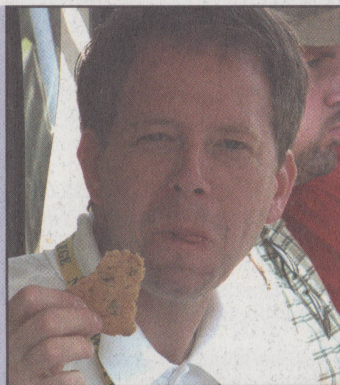

Howard and Ann Hoskins, with Pres. Argue. Howard was named Alumnus of the Year.

Alumni President John Fox, Alumnus of the Year Wes Davis with his wife Kari, Alumni Couple of the Year Kristen and Ben Waggoner, and Christian Lindbeck, Director for Alumni.

...all smiles, at least before they hit the links.

Alumni President John Fox had a cookie, which helped him make it to the buffet.

Cheryl Hansen with a door prize.

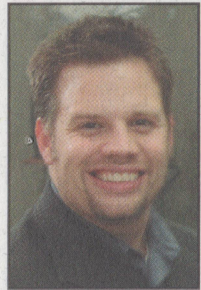

Door prize: a Reuben Mays football.

When Northwest College is the host, everybody helps!

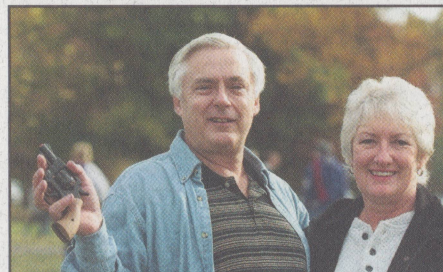

Danyel Longmire, Christina Offer, and Kim Stone celebrate the win.

When Northwest College hosted the NAIA Region I Cascade Conference Cross Country Championships, it seemed like all of the faculty, staff, and administration showed up to help out!

Whether it was brandishing the starter's gun, holding the tape at the finish line, helping runners during and after the race – or just cheering – the event was filled with Northwest faces.

It was a great day at the Lake Sammamish State Park in Issaquah, Nov. 3. The weather cooperated, and the women's team won the event!

They then went on to the national competition in Kenosha, Wisc., on Nov. 17, where they finished seventh, for their best season ever!

Dan Schimelpfenig (with wife Sharon) didn't shoot the competition; that's a starter pistol.

VP Marshall Flowers, PR Director Tiffany Self, and Athletic Director Bruce Brown.

Dana Brown (wife of NC Athletic Director) helps keep the runners in order at the end.

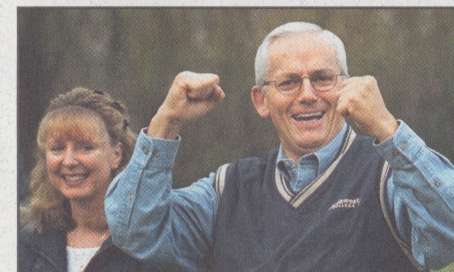

Coach Bill Taylor keeps score.

The "Elmes" gather maple leaves.

Women's Basketball Coach Kathy Langston and Assoc. Prof. Kristi Brodin greet finishers.

President Don Argue was on the sidelines, cheering runners and chatting with parents.
