CHAMPIONS!

“Mr. Basketball N.C.”

Mark Haines

Dr. Hurst congratulates Eagles' captain.

Mark Haines is a basketball floor general. As guard, he sets the plays and starts them moving. Players must be alert when working with Mark, because he often passes in a direction he's not looking. It seems he can see the whole floor at once! And he has spirit, too. The spirit of N.C.!

Mark came to N.C. four years ago and started immediately as a guard when the season began. He had three years of high school ball behind him at Charles M. Russell High in Great Falls, Montana.

Mark showed himself a great competitor who needed discipline and training. To those who have seen him develop and “come on” so strong, it is clear he has had just that while taking studies as a Christian Education major. Mark was elected Team Captain the past two years and has shown himself to be a leader on and off the court. He speaks for the fellows whether as a basketball team or Gospel team, as they also serve.

Assistant Coach Professor LeRoy Johnson was quoted as saying, “Mark is the kind of quarterback every team needs to set up and run the offense and to keep things moving both offensively and defensively.

Mark, himself, looked at the year after the Eagles had taken the League Championship and said, “Our league this year was competitive enough to allow us to lose twice and still remain in first place. Coach Kinney did a fine job of molding a talented group of ball players, led by the individual performance of all-league, M.V.P. team and league-scoring leader, John Brown.”

The spirit of the Eagles, who flew high this year, and the reason why they went so far, is found in that statement. And that's something of the spirit of N.C.—whether the students are in Chapel, in class, at camps as public relations groups, in ministry outreaches, or on the basketball court.

Mark, like so many others before him, has caught the spirit of N.C., and has found here a place to learn, grow and mature—and a place to develop ministry potential.

All of us at N.C. are proud of Mark, and all like him!

Flying Seminar to Visit Galilee

“Blue Galilee” is a theme of a song that captures the imagination and the veneration of many Christians because of its hallowed associations with the life and ministry of our Lord.

The Sea is 13 miles long and 7 miles wide cupped into a volcanic basin 680 feet below sea level. The hills which surround it rise up on the average of 300 feet. Its narrow shore averages about half a mile except at the northwest corner where the Plain of Gennesaret moves out to a width of four miles. The Jewish historian Josephus describes its shores as teeming with population with ten cities of not less than 15,000 each and an almost unbroken line of buildings. Its hills were once forested.

The western shore was extremely fertile. Its mild winter climate produced tropical crops of all kinds the year around. Today it is planted largely with bananas and other tropical fruits.

Fish abounded in the Sea in Roman times and were exported throughout the empire. The sparkling blue waters of this delightful place mirrors in silence the sacred history that hallowed its shores. The north end of this beautiful lake was “hallowed forever as the place where God, clothed in human form, walked among men; the story of which is the most beautiful thing in the annals of mankind” (Henry Halley).

One of the highlights of the itinerary of the Northwest College Flying Seminar March 25-April 6 will be experienced here in the beauty of this setting once touched by the feet of our Lord as He ministered to the needs of men.

CHAMPIONS!

The College Eagles captured the Pacific Northwest College Conference Basketball championship with an 8-2 league win record. They had a total game record for the season of 18-6.

The team won a second championship in regional playoffs of the National Little College Athletic Association (NLCAA) in Portland and gained the honors of representing the Pacific Northwest Region in the National Tournament in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, March 5-7. There they won their first game handily by a score of 95-57. However, they were eliminated in the quarter finals, their second game, by a score of 107 to 97.

The high-flying Eagles not only worked together as a basketball team but as a Gospel team, holding services in churches on Sundays when on the road. Coaching the Eagles were Coach Carl Kinney, and Prof. LeRoy Johnson, Assistant Coach.

NC Alumni Adopt Three-Pronged Events

Alums turned out in modest numbers, the gas shortage notwithstanding, and have established what is viewed as a successful calendar of campus alumni events so far during the 1974 calendar.

January 19th saw a couple of hundred alums and guests congregate in the college chapel for the Association's first and successful Musicale. The Musicale, which featured Alumni Vice-President Bud Tutmarc and the Calvary Temple musicians, was met with an enthusiastic response from alumni and guests who were present. Special guest at the concert was Swedish pastor-singer Svante Smedman.

Second in the triad of campus events was a modified revival of an event that has become somewhat familiar during the past several years, the alumni chapel service on February 15th and the alumni homecoming basketball game on February 16th. In the absence of Alumni President A. Baungard who was out of town, the service was led by Vice-President Bud Tutmarc, featuring special music by him and a message from former alumni president Pastor Walter Buck of Evangel Temple.

Queen Linda

The alumni homecoming game was prefaced by a buffet dinner in the college cafeteria and was followed by the game, marked by a performance which saw the College Eagles take and hold a commanding lead over the Puget Sound College of the Bible Anchormen. Traditional homecoming pageantry blossomed at half-time when 1974 Homecoming queen Linda Pearson, daughter of alumni parents Rev. and Mrs. Burton Pearson of Colville, Washington, was crowned and presented together with her court.

The third and capstone event of the alumni campus series will be the Homecoming Banquet set for Friday, May 24th followed by the Strawberry Breakfast on the morning of May 25. The Alumni Executive Committee is planning around the theme "Forty-Years Ago." — a theme which commemorates the college's completion of its fortieth year of history this year. The occasion will feature alumnus-of-the-year and scholarship awards at Northwest.

Rev. and Mrs. Pearson, parents of "royalty".

The annual business meeting of the Association will follow the Strawberry breakfast on Saturday. Special interest in the Alumni Banquet by the College's Board of Directors is evidenced by the fact that the Directors have changed their meeting dates for the annual Board meeting in order to be present for the Homecoming Banquet, College President Dr. D. V. Hurst announced.

Charismatic Week Series

Featured in the chapel ministry at the College Feb. 26-28 was a Charismatic Week series during which time leaders of the Charismatic Movement in the Greater Seattle Area were pulpit guests of the College. This scene shows Father Dennis J. Bennett, who may be called the "Dean of the Charismatic Movement" as he addressed students and faculty during the series. Fr. Bennett is Rector of famous St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Seattle, a parish
