A Year of Action

One quarter is behind us. It's an exciting year, a good year, a Year of Action.

Almost everywhere we turn, things are happening. The enrollment jump of 75 last year was retained — and one more! A total of 628 for the fall, and the winter quarter looks strong.

In curriculum there is change. There are 43 enrolled in the new Sacred Music major and another 20 in the minor. There are 88 in the Counseling minor and 28 in the Christian Education major. 35 in the Missions major and 218 in the Biblical Studies major, with 26 in the Religion and Philosophy major.

Further curriculum development is under study at this time, as is the possibility of summer school.

The campus is more commodious than ever with the new Library in full swing and the new Music Center nearly completed. It will be ready just after the opening of the winter quarter — two music classrooms, a choir room with recording control room (doubling for radio class production), thirteen practice and teaching studios, four offices and a conference classroom. With the new Music major and new facilities, Sacred Music will be stronger than ever at N.C.

We have been able to purchase adjoining small parcels of land to consolidate our campus borders and serve as buffer.

Further campus planning is under way — an update of the Master Plan, a complete Administrative Complex, a new entrance and revised road system, and other plans — all looking as far as fifteen to twenty years ahead. Some exciting and challenging ideas.

Internally things are happening, too. We have new auditors with expanded services, the possibility of some accounting automation, a job classification, a top level "Efficiency and Preservation" Board of Directors Committee Study, a revised Pension Plan for long term personnel, and a new Fund raising Promotion Committee — a new face and a new thrust to fund raising. We're tooling up for the future.

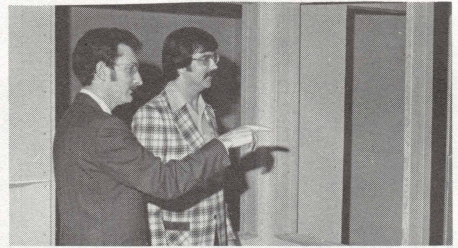

Faculty development continues with Amos

Millard in a Doctoral program (now candidate for degree), Jack Dorwart in a Second Masters program (almost finished), Cal White and Darrel Hobson almost finished with their Master's program.

A broadening of faculty involvement in Missions has proven an enriching development — Dan Pecota in a FEAST, on site session in Malaysia; Frank Rice and Jack Rozell in I.C.I. writing; Maxine Williams in Bethel Institute in Alaska for a summer term. Several of the Bible faculty will be touring the Holy Land. I believe these growth experiences aid the faculty member in the classroom.

So, it's a year of action, a year of development — doing all the things that normally comprise parts of a good year, and more. Doing the things that build for the future and insure an even greater contribution of Northwest College to the work of God's Kingdom in the days ahead.

I hope you catch the excitement of what is happening at N.C. Pray with us, support the College with your dollars, speak to prospective students, and encourage growing church support at every opportunity!

An elated Dr. Swaffield, on the left, and Calvin White look over features of the new music facilities. The total program of the Music Department will be housed in this facility during the Winter Quarter.

One of our new faculty members this year is Dan French. He teaches in the area of Speech and Communication and part of his responsibility is KCNC, our campus radio station. Pictured with Mr. French is Doug Holtry from Olympia, station manager, who announces over the station. Classes are conducted in various facets of radio work and the station gives opportunity to put classroom teaching into experimental situations.

CAMPUS HAPPENINGS

Mike Irving, a student from Guyana, S.A., thrilled the chapel as he ministered in song. Mike is a senior at Northwest and plans to return to his home and minister for the Lord upon graduation.

"Going With The Gospel"

Professor Mel Ming is excited. The reason: his Missions course, #141, students are excited about the results of their projects in a course which is specifically designed to train in winning the lost to Christ. The name of the course is Personal Evangelism.

Prof. Ming reports that from among his class of 75 students there was nearly a one-to-one ratio of conversions as a result of student activity in what he designated as "Project No. 2" in the course. The project called for each student to "share the gospel on a one-to-one basis. The students did and they come back with the report," "It works! I won someone to the Lord last weekend."

Where did they go to share the gospel? Prof. Ming said about 50% went to the Seattle Center and to the University of Washington district in Seattle, but the other half went to their friends, neighbors and work-mates.

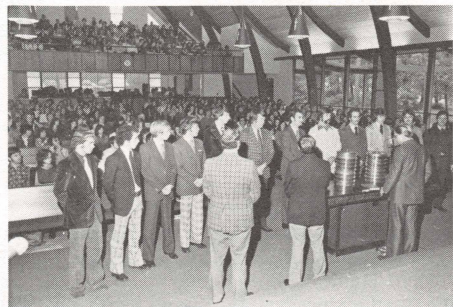

Professor Ming, in updating his report at the conclusion of the quarter, said that the class shared Christ and their personal testimony 305 times during the quarter and from this, 62 people accepted Christ.

This was not the only assignment in the course. Mr. Ming said the students were to share their personal testimony as one project, and to participate in a student evangelism team group effort as another.

"Going with the Gospel!" has ever been the thrust of the Pentecostal movement. The circuit-riding Methodist minister of frontier days would find a counterpart in a modern Mobile society of college students such as these, who are interested in the practical expression of theology. "How shall they declare (the gospel) unless they be sent, as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach (declare) the Gospel of peace and bring glad tidings (gospel) of good things." (Romans 10:15). In the ultimate conclusion, this is what theology is really all about.

It was a fun time as well as a learning time as students participated in a mock wedding as part of the requirements for Dr. Rozell's Pastoral Ministries Class. Conducting the ceremony is John Goyette. From left are Mr. & Mrs. Alan Baydo and Mr. & Mrs. Dan Hudspeth.

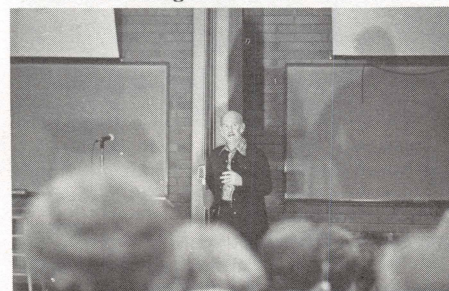

Members of Dr. Jack Rozell's Pastoral Ministries class prepare to serve the student body communion at the conclusion of Fall Quarter. During the quarter members of the class participated in chapel services conducting songs, reading scripture, leading in prayer. They also visited several churches in the area observing preaching styles, funerals and weddings. Special guests were invited to the class to minister on various subjects that would relate to pastoral ministry. The communion service is the last official act of the class and brings the Fall Quarter to a conclusion.

Dr. and Mrs. Hurst hosted the foreign students at their home. Pictured above are several of the guests as they met informally to chat in the Hurst's living room.

The college Music Department gave a stirring Christmas Concert, December 2. This is an annual event and this year's concert proved to be one of the greatest thus far.

Dr. Donald F. Tweedie, Jr. professor at Fuller Theological Seminary, presented a workshop on, "Ministering to the Married Couple." He presented the concept of, "Covenant Therapy", and demonstrated its effectiveness as a christian counseling method. Those who attended felt the seminar was of great help in view of the many marital problems the pastor must face in his ministry today.

Pioneer Class Reunion

The Pioneer Class of 1937 will have their class reunion May 27. For information contact Mrs. Clara M. (Johnsen) Rydell, 6384 Lancaster Dr., Paradise, CA 95969.

A Growing Library

Because of the generosity of many friends of the college, our library continues to grow. We have recently received some very fine donations from Assembly of God ministers.

Our library specializes in pentecostal material, both current and historical. Miss Garman, our librarian, is particularly interested in obtaining old copies of The Pentecostal Evangel, ministerial year books from the early years, District Messengers or other publications, Golden Grain magazines and periodicals of the charismatic movement.

C.A. Conventions A First

For the first time summer P.R. Teams were invited to participate in District Thanksgiving Day Conventions. The Northwesterners ministered in the first annual C.A. convention ever held in Alaska. The Sweet Communion participated in the Rocky Mountain District C.A. Convention held at Grand Junction, Colorado. The reports have been very positive, we're pleased that the groups could participate and help in the various district functions.

Professor Bill Randolph is checking out the Nikon Medical Microscope which was donated to the college by Dr. Paul Flugstad, a member of the Bellevue Neighborhood Church.

N.C. Low On Ladder For Costs

A Washington Natural Gas Co. survey recently revealed that the cost of tuition and fees at Northwest College ranks lowest among the eleven accredited private colleges and universities in the State of Washington.

It is $600 less than the number 10 ranking school for costs and is over $1,000 less than the average for the eleven schools surveyed, a difference of 42% against the eleven school average, which was $2,425 per year.

Costs of accredited higher education are higher than non-accredited schools because the quality, kind and amount of facilities and faculty training prescribed by standards of accreditation require more of them.

Accredited higher education offers more than transferrable credits and recognized credentials. Today, considerable student aids in various forms are available to students at accredited schools, not available at non-accredited institutions.

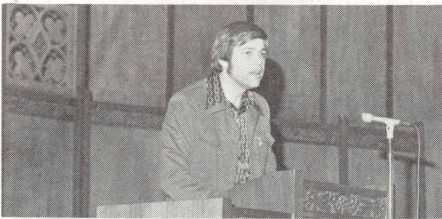

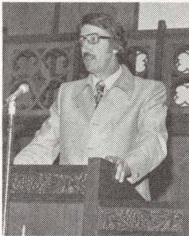

Two NC interns are pictured with Pastor Ed Scratch of the Bellevue Neighborhood Church. Dan Anderson and Judy McNutt did their internship during the Fall Quarter under the direction of Pastor Scratch.

The fall quarter had 24 students, a record enrollment in the Counseling Internship program, working with pastors and professional counselors in the Seattle area. These include The Veterans Administration Hospital, a mental health unit at Monroe State Reformatory, Youth Eastside Services in Bellevue, The Eastside Community Alcohol Program in Bellevue, Neighbors Who Care — Paraprofessional Lay Counseling Program in Bellevue, and churches in the Seattle-Tacoma area.

An intern is expected to spend approximately four hours per week in one-to-one or small group counseling, under the supervision of the professional with whom he is working. Campus supervision is also provided through the internship class.

Recent Chapel Speakers

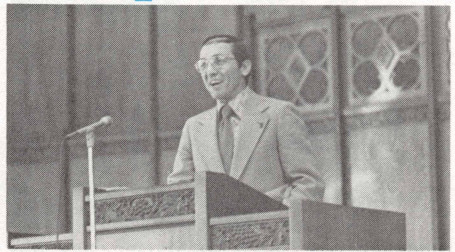

One of the very interesting features in chapel during the fall quarter was a series on church growth. Invited to participate on three separate days were Fulton Buntain, pastor of the Tacoma First Assembly, Al Munger, pastor of Christ Memorial Church at Poulsbo, and Al Hulten, associate pastor at Evergreen Christian Center at Olympia.

Pictured above are these gentlemen respectively. It was an exciting time as the student body was challenged to the possibilities of what can be done in the local church. It was emphasized that the size of community has little bearing on growth and development in a church. Opportunity was linked very closely to discovering needs and meeting them.

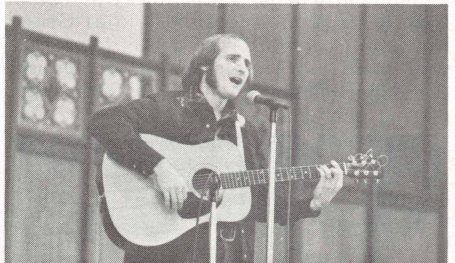

Dr. Del Guynes, Executive Vice President of the graduate school at Springfield, was one of NC's chapel guests.

Retired General Robinson Risner spoke to the student body about his experiences as a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for seven years. He also challenged the student body to live for Christ and allow the Spirit of God to make them the kind of people He desires them to be, regardless of the process or the price that must be paid.

Above, Jim Davis is bringing his final message to the student body prior to leaving for missionary duty in Australia. Rev. Davis has made a great contribution to the Missions Department at Northwest College. He will be greatly missed, but we know that the Lord will bless his ministry in Australia as he develops the International Correspondence Institute Program in that country.

Recording artist Dan Whittemore was a special guest at one of our fall chapels. Dan's brother, Pat, is a student at Northwest College. Dan had been in the area under the auspices of Kings Gardens and was able to fit the NC concert into his schedule. His style of music was warmly received by the student body as he played and sang primarily from the Psalms.

Operation Turkey was again successful. Northwest College sent five teams out which comprised approximately 35 students. They ministered and worked in Washington, Oregon, and British Columbia.

Looking Ahead

- I. CAMPUS DAY: Plans are being formulated for the 1977 Campus Day, April 1. Nearly 1,000 Juniors and Seniors and graduates will merge on campus for an exciting time. Special guest speaker will be Rev. Roy Brewer, Montana D-CAP.
- II. PASTORS WORKSHOP: April 12, 1977 Featured will be Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Cook from Gresham, Oregon, who pastors the fastest growing church in Oregon at this time. He currently is assisted by 12 associates, and believes the pastor's role is to prepare and equip the body for ministry. His church has grown from 25 to 2,000 in 10 years.

WORLD WINDS — Dan & Betty Maser are on a short furlough from Venezuela until last of January. Fernando & Rachael Nieto & Sons (Tegucigalpa, CA) write, "For our two congregations asking God for spiritual strength in face of pressures from religious leaders. We trust they will become strong in Him as they continue sharing Gospel with others. Noel and John attend classes in the American School here." The Jerry Robesons (Costa Rica, C.A.) report, "God is working wonders through our T.V. program. I speak 7 times per week in the three campaigns plus three radio programs daily and the T.V. program once a week. Carol and the girls are involved in the S.S. at Moravia. Sue has up to 60 in her class and Carol instructs the teachers. We plan on a furlough June." CORRECTION on Sherry Harrison's recipe for Capuccino. We made an error in the last Northwesterner. . . the 2 cups of powdered sugar is wrong (Oh, is it ever). That should have been 2 cups of powdered milk. PORTION OF POEM BY MARVIN LANGFORD — I had gathered some gems along Life's Road and plucked a flower or two. I had wandered where quiet rivers flowed, and had gathered some sunshine too. But sweeter by far with a luster untold, and a beauty that thrills the eye. More dear to my heart than mountains of gold, are the treasures I've gathered at NBI.
