THE TEENAGE COLLEGE

The Church College is always a "teenager in relation to the "Mother" church. Why? It is filled with the youth of the church.

As a teenager, the College has need of understanding, strong guidance and continued support. It can never be cut loose to go it alone! It cannot be forgotten. Its problems can never be solved once and for all. Just when you think all is in order, suddenly the unexpected happens and you are deep in concern. It will tax your resources of wisdom, of finance, of time, and of patience. It will often cause you to ask, "Why did I have such a child?," or, "How could I?" And when you are ready to give up on it, just as suddenly, you will be very proud and you will say, "It's ours. 'isn't it great?! Our future as a church is there. I see myself in it!" And you will seize new hope.

The College is always a growing and developing thing. The genetics of its origins are in it; the environment of its "now" tests it, pressures it, and seeks to shape it. It is pulled both ways. And you often wonder what it will become. That's why it needs firm guidance and strong support. It needs to know where its roots really are, that it is loved, wanted and cherished. And only the parent can provide this!

So take heart. The "Teenage College" of today will be out there with you shortly . . . becoming the "Mother Church" of tomorrow . . . worrying over its "teenager" . . . sometimes forgetting what it was like back there . . . wondering and feeling proud, sometimes in the very same moment. But finally saying, "Isn't it great?! It's ours! The future of our church is there. We see ourselves in it! Let's do for it what it needs!"

ACCREDITATION GOOD NEWS

After one year of self-study and the on-campus evaluation of a visiting team from the Northwest Association of Schools and Colleges, the accreditation of Northwest College has been reaffirmed. We received our full accreditation status from this association five years ago. What this new action means can be best described by their own statement, "The normal intervals for review should be five years following initial accreditation, and ten years thereafter." Northwest now falls in the latter category.

N.C. STUDENTS TO BENEFIT FROM EXPANDED FINANCIAL AID

Many more N.C. students will soon benefit as a result of recent legislation passed by Congress which extends the possibility of Basic Education Opportunity Grants to middle-income students. The funds are provided through what is called the Middle Income Student Assistance Act and will make assistance available to students from families with incomes of $15,000 to $25,000 for the first time in the 1979-80 academic year. It is said that the Act also helps students from low-income families as well.

Basic Grants will provide financial aid from a range of $200 to $1,800 (up from the current year's maximum of $1,600) made to qualifying students. Qualifications are determined by the completion of application either to Basic Grant or through an approved need analysis system, such as American College Testing or College Scholarship Service. An analysis is made of a student's financial resources, taking into account the financial status of the student's families.

Estimates are that a family of four with one child in college with an income of $6,000 could get the maximum of $1,800; a grant of $1,676 for a student from a family with an income of $8,000; $1,500 with income at $10,000; $1,329 at $12,000; $1,158 at $14,000; $991 at $16,000, $827 at $18,000, etc. A family with an income of over $25,000 could qualify if it had several children and unusual expenses.

Additional changes have been made in the BEOG family contribution schedule for independent students. The family size offset for a single independent student has been increased to $3,400. This change means that a single independent student will be eligible for a maximum award with a minimum income of $3,400. The definition of an independent student will also undergo significant changes for 1979-80. The length of time a student can live at home with his parents has increased from two to six weeks and the amount of parental assistance to the student has increased from $600 to $750.

The new aid bill will also make all students eligible for Guaranteed Student Loans regardless of their families' income bracket. The federal government will pay the interest on the loan while the student is in college.

It is anticipated that the Middle Income Student Assistance Act will make 1.5 million more college students eligible for financial aid, and it is anticipated that it will significantly broaden the eligibility list of students attending Northwest College.

Information and applications for Financial Aid can be secured at Northwest College through the office of Financial Aids Officer, Miss Beverly Johnson.

EVANGELISM REPORT

The Rev. J. Melvyn Ming reports that 246 students participated in the evangelism Ministry Interest Group during the fall quarter. One of the main places of ministry is the Seattle Center, as well as the University of Washington campus. While witnessing, the group led 28 people to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. The Evangelism Ministry Interest Group functions under the World Outreach Ministries program which is coordinated and sponsored by Northwest College students. Rev. Ming is the advisor to the Evangelism group, and also teaches the Personal Evangelism class.

Heritage Week Series

The photos above show the three speakers who participated in the College's Heritage Week Chapel series November 7-9.

On the left is the Reverend Eric Johnson, 50-plus year veteran Assemblies of God missionary, evangelist, and pastor, as he spoke on the foundations of the Pentecostal outpourings of the 20th century. The center picture shows Dr. Amos D. Millard speaking on the Azusa Street Revival. Here he is sharing a taped excerpt from a national Methodist Pastors' Conference in Oslo, Norway, on the Person and Work of the Holy Spirit. Lastly, is College President Emeritus, Dr. C. E. Butterfield, as he addressed the student body on the subject of the on-going revival.

The series was designated to acquaint the students with the foundations, background, and on-going character and meaning of the Pentecostal revivals of the 20th century.

SPRING WORKSHOP

April 17, 1979
"Rediscovery of the Biblical World"
Guest: Dr. Robert Cooley

TOPICS

"The Bible in the Light of Recent Discoveries"
"Excavations in the Land of Goshen"
"Israel and Canaan"

"The Archaeology of the Seven Churches in Asia" This workshop will be very informative and enlightening, especially for ministers who are keyed into biblical research and its application to modern-day Christianity.

A VERSATILE LIBRARY

The D.V. Hurst Library is used extensively by students. As you can see, there are many phases of study from gaining information at the desk and searching through the card file, to finding a book and then searching for information.

The last picture shows several young people taking advantage of one of the tables to spread out and study.

CHAPEL GUESTS

Byron Newby, pastor of Chapel of Peace, Lynnwood.

Randy Hurst, missionary to Western Samoa.

FALL SPORTS

Pictured below are action shots from the girls' volleyball team and the men's soccer team. We are proud of the sports program at Northwest College. It includes both women's and men's activities. The sports program is played intercollegiately as well as opportunity for intramural activities. In addition to the fall sports program, the winter program includes league play for both girls' and men's basketball.

SEAHAWK SPECIAL GUEST

Another chapel guest was Sherman Smith. Mr. Smith is one of the running backs for the Seattle Seahawks and a dedicated Christian. As you can see, students gathered for his autograph after the chapel service. He made a very challenging presentation to the students. He presented the case for Christians in athletics very dynamically.

Two dedicated soccer fans.

WOMEN'S RESIDENCE HALL

The furniture was being assembled in the new residence rooms on the 400 floor. They are now ready and will be in total use during the winter quarter. This will alleviate much of the crowding which existed during the fall quarter.

Bill Randolph

Bill Randolph, Life Sciences professor at N.C. for more than ten years, is a former N.C. student returned home. He remembers the "love and homeyness" he found here and says, "I did a lot of growing up here." For this reason he had an ambition to return someday, and at last the opportunity came. The kind of help he received as a student, he now gives to other students.

Bill serves the Lord with talent and energy wherever he goes. In addition to his responsibilities as a college teacher, he currently serves as Director of Christian Education at his home church, Redmond Assembly. At various times he has served as song leader, choral director, youth advisor, and church board member, in churches in Oregon and Washington. He also taught various junior high school subjects prior to joining N.C.'s faculty.

When asked about his goals for his students, Bill refers to his "salt concept"—the belief that our graduates should be equipped to have a positive influence upon society as the "salt of the earth." "I'm application oriented," he says—not stressing theory alone, but always showing how principles can be applied to the Christian's life and witness.

A new ministry has been opening to Bill in recent months and has him more excited than ever. He is in demand as a speaker on the subject of Creationism as an explanation of the earth's origin—not only by the churches, but now in professional circles. He views such engagements as a service God has equipped him to perform.

His students and colleagues hope Bill will long stay at N.C., and it appears he may. "Contentment is where God wants you," he says. "I'm totally content. This is where God wants me."

WORK STUDY

The Work Study Program involves many students in various capacities. Pictured above is Colleen Dodge doing clean-up work in the new restroom in the 400 floor of the women's residence hall. Also pictured is Rich Smith working to clean up the campus grounds.

1979 FLYING SEMINAR LECTURE SERIES TO BEGIN JANUARY 8

The Flying Seminar Lecture series will commence at Northwest College at 7:00 p.m. on Monday evening, January 8, and will run for nine consecutive Monday evenings. The series will be in preparation for the College's two Flying Seminar tours to the Holy Land in the 1979 season. The dates are March 8-23 and June 21-July 6. Presenting the illustrated lectures will be Professor of Biblical History and Archaeology, Dr. Amos D. Millard, an eight-time traveler to the Middle East. The opening lecture is open to all interested persons in travel-education to the Holy Land. The studies may be taken for College credit for those desiring it.

DATES AND TOPICS

January	8—Overview: "The Land and the Book''
January	15—The Kings' Highway: Damascus,
	Amman, Petra
January	22—Jerusalem: The Walled City
January	29—Jerusalem: Environs

March	5—Turkey—Land of the Seven
	Churches

The lectures will be held in the Donald H. Fee Lecture Hall—Room #2.

"And he bearing his cross went forth into a place called 'Place of a Skull,' which is called in the Hebrew, Golgoth: Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst." (Jn 19:17, 18.)

In this awesome spot there is symbolized the great tragedy of the human experience called death. Even the configuration of the hillock itself spells death—bearing the image of a skull. Superimposed upon it was a cross where Jesus, the Son of God, tasted death for every man. But there is also an empty tomb a "stone's throw" to the left of this scene which symbolized resurrection and life. It was where Jesus, the "first-fruits of them that slept," was resurrected on the third dawn of a new day for everyone that believes unto him. "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." (I Cor. 15:57).

Calvary in its Jerusalem setting will be one of the high points of the Northwest College's Flying Seminars in 1979. For further information call or write the College.

Mr. Carl Kanz Workshop Leader

Mr. W. Carl Kanz will be featured as one of the teachers in the upcoming workshop titled, "Church Business & Management." The workshop is scheduled for February 6.

Carl has been active in church financial management since 1970 in a lay capacity, and as full-time administrator since 1976. This experience includes reorganization of financial structures, developing of self financing plans, and administration for multiple church ministries encompassing; a day school, a retirement center, and a broad spectrum of church activities involving a payroll of approximately one hundred people.

He began his banking career in Long Beach, California, in 1962, and in 1964 accepted an opportunity in Washington to become involved in branch bank management until 1976. This opportunity provided involvement in administrative positions of oversight management of 30 branches with 400 branch personnel, as well as direct branch management responsibilities.

Notice the ad on the next page for details and topics of the workshop.

SUMMER SCHOOL

Plans have been laid for another session of summer school, June 5-29.

The schedule will be printed in the next issue of the Northwesterner.

An outstanding feature will be a special 5-day seminar which will feature guest lecturer, Rev. David Lewis. Rev. Lewis is a well-known prophecy teacher, traveler, writer, and editor. He is one of the best informed and most articulate voices in the field of Bible prophecy in the Assemblies of God today.

The seminar will deal with Biblical content of prophecy—and what the Bible teaches about the End-Time of World History.

PLACEMENT

Northwest College operates a placement service for its graduates. Pastors who would like to interview prospective associates should contact Dr. Amos Millard. He will provide the pastor with a profile of all graduates and will make arrangements for interviews with prospects.
