FROM THE PRESIDENT

LET LIGHT SHINE . . .

Dr. D. V. Hurst

For decades the alma mater "Let Light Shine Out" has been sung in the halls of Northwest College. For fifty years N.C. students and graduates have done just that.

Let light shine out in the great Northwest Go tell the Savior's grace. From college halls to lands afar

Bring hope to every race.

His Word approved in the lives of those Who've trained at N.C. The Spirit sought for power and truth

Till all His glory see.

Lord, bless Thy work at N.C.

We turn our hearts to Thee.

Oh, thrust us out and lead us on

To promised victory!

Hanging in Butterfield Chapel at Northwest College is a facsimile globe of the world. Its lights blink on and off during services in the chapel, signifying the Northwest College alumni ministering in many nations. Girdling that globe are these words: "Northwest College Alumni Serve Around the World." It's true! The sun never sets on Northwest College alumni who are serving God and building Christ's church. From college classrooms they have gone to the far reaches of the world armed with truth and letting light shine!

But the difference between Northwest College graduates and those of most colleges and universities is this: N.C.'s alumni carry not just the light of knowledge, not just the light of truth, but the truth found in Jesus, the One who is Truth. They carry "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God (as seen) in the face of Jesus Christ."

Now this is different!

There are those who talk about a war against poverty, hunger, ignorance, sickness and death. They strive to improve the physical, mental, emotional, intellectual and social lot of mankind. The milk of human kindness flows through them and leads them to make sweeping statements describing human suffering, want and need. They are often led to make big sacrifices in this "war." Untold sums of money are given and uncalculated man-hours — yes, man-years of arduous labor are spent in this "war." It seems no cause could be better; nothing could be more important.

But there's one thing that is. All this effort and all the "war" is for the here-and-now — for today, tomorrow and a few days more.

The mission of Northwest College's alumni and all like them is not just for the here-and-now — not just concerning the physical, emotional and mental well-being of man — but it's for the there-and-then. It concerns the eternal well-being of man — his destiny forever.

Jesus brought life abundant, light, truth, and knowledge. But it's centered not just in time. It's centered in eternity.

And this is where the N.C. alumnus centers his work.

Think of it — "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God"!

Can such be made known? Is such sublime light and knowledge available?

Yes, it is!

On a lonely night almost two thousand years ago, a light burst through the darkness. A star shone over a stable and a son of man, the Son of God, burst on the human scene. The world has not been the same since! The "light . . . of glory" had come.

And when this light is truly received, what miracles in the lives of people it performs. What changes it effects! What hope it plants in the heart! What richness of life it provides! What strength to live, regardless of stress, it adds. What peace, what rest of soul, what faith, what love, what a great sense of well-being are conveyed by this light.

A ray of this light can penetrate the thickest darkness and change it to a new day! For anyone!

So, let the light shine, the "light of the knowledge of the glory of God."

Thank God for N.C.'s alma mater. The mission of the College, the mission of its alumni is right there. No phrase could say it better.

The light has shone from the halls of Northwest College for fifty years! Let it continue to shine — around the world.

SUMMER HOME MISSIONS INTERNSHIPS

Personal involvement in home missions is an NC aim and recently, four students had an opportunity to put it into practice. Each of the four interned at a church during the summer interim, involving himself in a variety of activities and areas of ministry.

Lee Nyquist and Lenora Hancuff worked with the Lockwood Chapel of Hope in Montana. Lee's wife also helped out in the Sunday School department. A wide variety of tasks kept them busy and left no time for boredom. As pastoral interns, they led worship and song services, prepared the church bulletin, and completed a number of lay tasks as well.

Pastor Becker was "pleased with the overall performance" and the congregation was "saddened to see them go." Of the experience, Lee said, "It was an enjoyable time of learning and confirmed my chosen direction of ministry."

Another of the interns sent out this summer, Steve Ballweber, interned in Klamath Falls, Oregon. Steve not only helped Faith Tabernacle, but as Dr. Dwayne Braddy put it, was a "circuit-riding individual" and kept busy between Baty Assembly of God, Bly Faith, Merrel Assembly of God, and Malin Assembly of God. He was exposed to everything from youth services to janitorial work.

Bruce Summerhill, youngest of the interns, worked under Pastor James Landis at Christian Center Assembly of God in La Pine, Oregon. Like the others, Bruce's duties encompassed the entire scope of pastoral work. In effect, he became the associate pastor and staff as he shouldered numerous responsibilities in assisting Pastor Landis.

The purpose of such a program is to instill a vision and a recognition of the need for home missions while assisting in young churches. The burden to help grows as the intern gains first-hand experience.

This was the first year that Capital Ministries has been involved with the summer internship program. Jack Strom, along with Capital Ministries, financed a full scholarship for each of the students selected for the post. The Pastoral Department, in conjunction with Capital Ministries, will continue the internship program for at least another two years, and hopefully, longer. The program definitely has made an impact.

OPERATION TURKEY

N.C. World Outreach Ministries Chairman Mike Flores, presents a check to District Assistant Superintendent Eugene Born. Dean of Students "Tex" Rutledge looks on.

Each Fall Quarter, students from NC have a special project that they become involved in during the Thanksgiving season. This year the efforts were coordinated with NW district Home Missions Director, Rev. Eugene Born.

The Methow Valley Assembly of God, located in Winthrop was the recipient of a very nice, almost new P.A. system, a large new screen, two eight foot folding tables and a love offering.

Scott Walberg, NC Missions Ministry Interest Group leader shared his excitement about the project in this way: "The opportunity to give to Winthrop by this means really blesses me, in that students are giving graciously out of their hearts to promote NC's ministry to the world."

Rev. Born expressed a great big "Thank You" to Scott and the NC students for Operation Turkey and their heart for missions.

A LETTER FROM THE NORTH POLE

Pastor Roland Peretti

Dear Northwest College Family:

Northwest College in Kirkland, Washington, seems far removed from our local assembly in North Pole, Alaska. Yet as my mind travels back over the fourteen years I have served as Pastor here, I realize how intertwined my alma mater, NC, is with our assembly . . .

From the fellowship hall comes the sound of youthful voices. Excited young people, directed by a Youth Pastor who was influenced positively by the time he spent at NC. His ministry in music is also a result of the training he received there. The bell of the typewriter reminds me that our secretary too has NC's contribution in her life. Leading the Young Women's Fellowship is another young woman who received a solid foundation at Northwest College; now a parent, a schoolteacher, and wife of an Alaskan legislator. The Bible Quiz Team that demonstrated their progress so effectively last Sunday evening was directed by another NC alumni; a young man whose teaching ability and training has also blessed the church here. On the phone is the neighboring Youth Pastor, a graduate of NC who served his internship with us here. What great fellowship remains from ties linked to NC! All of these are using the training they received at Northwest College to bless others and to serve His kingdom.

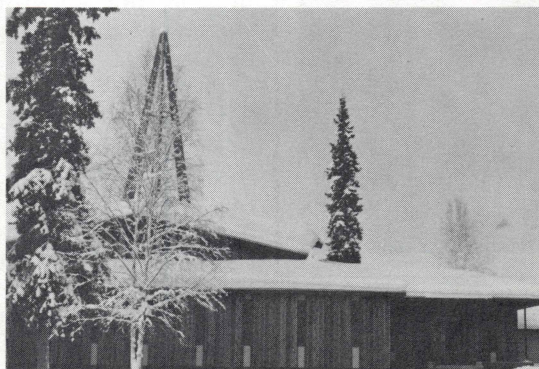

My mind brings back memories of so many young people, wanting God's best for their lives, whose zeal was given direction, whose lives were given purpose and vision through their years at NC. Some of them labor now on mission fields, some lead great congregations, some are in other areas of ministry and service.

Yes, I believe Northwest College is quite close to North Pole . . . Its influence in the local church continues to grow each year. As the church gives light, vision, and direction to the local community through its influence, so NC is giving vision and direction to our churches through trained, spirit-filled leadership. God bless you for your fine ministry to our most priceless commodity — our youth.

In Him,

Pastor Peretti

HERITAGE WEEK COMMEMORATES 50TH YEAR

Northwest College

A SHINING LIGHT FOR 50 YEARS... 1934-84

Golden Jubilee Banquet May 25, 1984

"Hitherto hath the Lord helped us..." With these well known words from the prophet Samuel, quoted by President D. V. Hurst, Northwest College inaugurated the first in a series of commemorative events to celebrate its fiftieth year of history. The special chapel series during Thanksgiving week was known as "Heritage Week" at the College.

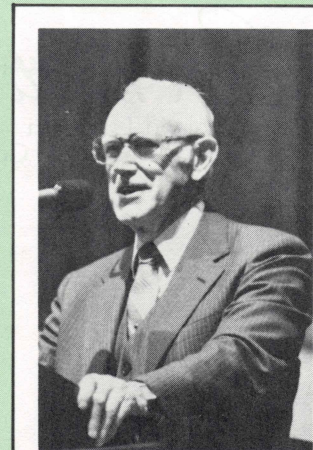

The first speaker in the three-part series was a long-time associate with the College and Professor Emeritus, Dr. Donald H. Fee. Dr. Fee spoke on the pioneer days of the school's history, pointing out how the school came into being in the wake of a "mighty Pentecostal revival" that swept over the Pacific Northwest region under the ministry of the late Dr. Chas. S. Price. Dr. Price's ministry saw thousands of converts and hundreds of miraculous healing take place, out of which Pentecostal churches "sprang up everywhere." Many of the pastors of these churches were self-taught, and the need for a Bible training school gave impetus to several efforts to start a school very early in the movement.

It was not until a young pastor, Henry H. Ness, came to Seattle from Fargo, North Dakota, to take the pastorate of then Hollywood Temple in Seattle that the vision and the initiative brought into being what is today Northwest College. Professor Fee recalled how Dr. Ness was surveying the facilities of his new church when "God gave him the vision" to start a school to fully utilize its facilities "on the other six days of the week." He related how this vision came into being with the assent of the Northwest District and how in spite of financial deprivation of the "depression years" the school "rooted." It has since grown like a mighty oak tree until it now has a campus and plant worth over sixteen million dollars, a student-body approaching nearly eight-hundred students, and a highly trained faculty and staff that is more than double the size of the student body during the school's first year of history fifty years ago.

Dr. Fee recalled the sacrifices of both faculty and students in those early years, noting that the faculty were mostly pastors, which included C. E. Butterfield, who was destined to become the College's second president, in 1949. It was after this that he joined the faculty in 1953, acclaiming his thirty years of faculty association with the school as the "richest years of his life."

In a moving conclusion to his message, Dr. Fee called to the pulpit President Hurst, already an eighteen year veteran in the presidency of the school, and offered thanks to God for the gifts of ministry and leadership in the school through the years, and invoking God's continued blessing upon the school in the days ahead. It was indeed, a graphic portrait of history that befit the words of Samuel spoken to Israel, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us"!

One of the highlights of the series came on the second day in a message by the Reverend R. J. Carlson, former District Superintendent of the Northwest District of the Assemblies of God, and long-time member of the College's Board of Directors. He also served on other important commissions and committees of the college's transition years from its location in the "Old Hollywood Temple building" in the Green Lake district of Seattle to its new campus in Houghton. He recalled the obstacles that the school faced, and the corresponding miracles that came along to over-and development of the present campus — now valued at over $16.5 million dollars.

Speaking with the clarity of a Hebrew prophet, Dr. Carlson cautioned the students and faculty not to take the facilities and privileges they enjoy for granted, noting that if the school's pioneers "had not worked and sacrificed they would not be sitting where they are today." Concerning the present, he noted the significance of the times saying, "The whole world is now mouthing terms that for years have been reserved for preachers of prophecy." He expressed renewed conviction, "This is a spiritual work. It is the work of God and must be unchanged in form from those principles by which it was brought into being." More timely words could hardly have been spoken as the school observes its 50th year of history and on-going work into the future.

On the third day of the Heritage Week series, the students picked up on the theme of the present and the future. Student Missions leader, Mike Flores found the school's history, mission, and message embodied in its school seal. ASB president, Jeff Wood spoke of the school's continuing mission, concluding with the words of the Great Commission, "Go into the world and preach the Gospel to every creature," and then responded, "Lord of the Harvest, I will go."

FLYING SEMINAR

This flower-bejeweled knoll marks the shoreline of the Sea of Galilee at the site of ancient Capernaum in Israel. This shoreline would have been familiar to Jesus and the disciples. In fact a fisherman's house only a few paces from this scene has been identified by some archaeologists as the house of Peter. One of the highlights of the College's Flying Seminar in March will be a boat ride on the Sea of Galilee. For further information on the Flying Seminar tour, write P.O. Box 579, Kirkland, WA 98033.
