DIRECTORS MEET

The NBC Board of Directors met at the College January 13 and 14. Eight ministers and four laymen constitute the Board of Directors. They are: Rev. Dwight McLaughlin of Seattle, chairman; Rev. Charles Jackson of Great Falls, vice-chairman; Rev. Lyle Spradley of Great Falls, secretary; Rev. Ralph Phillips of Seattle, treasurer; Rev. Charles Butterfield of Seattle, President of the College; Rev. Eugene Born, pastor in Missoula; Rev. Maynard Oss, pastor in Everett; Rev. Paul Trulin, pastor in Vancouver; Mr. G. Anderson of the shoe and leather business in Kalispell; Mr. Frank Bentley, manager of Standard Grocery Co. in Tacoma; Mr. Harold Gray, principal of Clover Park High School in Tacoma, and Mr. Ben Wirkala, President of the Wirkala Brothers Logging Co. of Naselle.

Bonds of fellowship formed quickly and naturally when these men met the student body and faculty. Later in their business meetings the Board formulated a sound financial policy as well as discussing problems and practices in Bible school administration.

NBC BOOKSTORE WELCOMES YOU

The attractive bookstore in the Institute building has proven a real blessing to our students and friends. The shelves are filled with Bibles, commentaries, books, Christian literature and records. Record players and tape recorders are also available.

Mrs. Butterfield, manager of the bookstore, has a special welcome for friends and visitors who often drop in to browse. If you are unable to come, do address a post card to the NBC bookstore and request a listing of special merchandise and discounts.

They Caught The Vision

The Living Endowment Fellowship welcomes as new members Rev. Lyle Spradley, Rev. Roy Munger and the CA's of the Assemblies of Sunburst, Wolf Point and Anaconda, Montana. They have caught the vision of helping other young people secure the Christian training that will prepare them for the Master's service. In fact, the help provided by the LEF members could be the answer to many students' prayers.

May God abundantly bless our new members.

WHAT IS THE LEF?

The Living Endowment Fellowship is a plan whereby friends and alumni who are interested in NBC can make an annual contribution to help train our young people for Christian service.

Members of the fellowship are issued a beautiful Membership Certificate. Each certificate will bear a unit designation, and each unit will represent a ten dollar contribution to the school. A member may hold any number of unit memberships. Joint and group memberships are also possible, such as husband and wife or CA groups.

Did you know:

That during the past nineteen years at NBC, though tuition has tripled, the school's cost of operation has increased ten-fold?

That non-tax-supported schools must depend on outside sources for approximately 50% of the cost of a student's education?

That the students at NBC are trusting and believing God to supply that part of their educational expense which is beyond their means?

We are trusting that God will burden His people on behalf of these young men and women who are training to be workmen approved of God.

Through the Living Endowment Fellowship you have the opportunity to make a financial contribution toward the spiritual training of these young people.

Will you make NBC and the Living Endowment Fellowship a matter of prayer?

Please write NBC for further information about the Living Endowment Fellowship.

NBC CHOIR TO TRAVEL

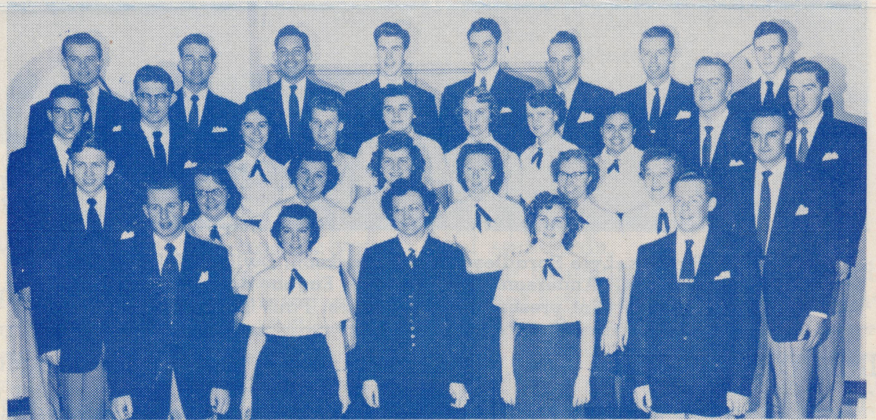

Members of the choir are looking forward to a very active spring season. Plans have been completed for the choir to give sacred concerts at the CA conventions scheduled for February 16-20 and March 2-6 throughout the state. Among other engagements, the students are anticipating an exchange program with Simpson Bible Institute and a trip to Portland for the Sunday School Convention.

There are numerous smaller musical groups within this strong organization such as: trumpet trio, male quartet, vocal solo, girls' trio, organ solo and a southern sextet.

Uniforms were recently purchased by the choir members. They are attractive navy blue jackets with grey skirts and slacks.

In recent concerts, God used this group of young people to lead souls to the knowledge of salvation. Although their music is of high quality, they put the main emphasis on preparation through prayer for they realize God can use only consecrated vessels.

Spirit-filled young people ministering in His name.

Devotional Corner

Robert Tangen

One of the best ways to describe the fellowship which the Christian enjoys is with this word: "Feasting." It implies an intimacy not found in ordinary fellowship. In Rev. 3:20 Jesus promises and indicates a desire to have this degree of fellowship with us. If He wants it, surely we should also desire it. However, we find that there is opposition to feasting on the presence of the Lord.

In John 7 Jesus desired to observe the feast of Tabernacles. But He encounters opposition, in fact, the Jews want to kill Him. Have you ever determined to fellowship with the Lord more, only to find that you are busier than ever before? Satan will oppose your desire to feast. Every time we seek to know Him better, to feast upon His presence, to fellowship Him more, Satan rears his head in outright beligerence to snuff out our spiritual life.

votion, worship, fellowship, and feasting on the Lord is to be found in the New Testament. When Mary anointed the head of Jesus we find Satan's opposition again in evidence. Judas scoffed at such waste. Thus will it ever be. Anyone who would feast on His presence will find that it takes real determination coupled with the enabling power of God.

Jesus often emphasized that feasting must be in secret. In verse 10 it says He went to the feast secretly. In spite of any and every opponent we must close ourselves in with God. It was during the last day of the feast that Jesus made this clear. If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink.

Feasting is a determined time of being in secret with Him. If Jesus longed for it, how much more should we as His redeemed ones yearn for that continued feasting.

FEATURING . . . THE UDDS

A Rare Moment of Relaxation

"We're anxious to get back—back to Limbe in Southern Nyassaland." This is what the Udds expressed as we visited together, and I knew they meant it. I thought of the crude African dwelling to which they will return, and realized then that God's call burns in their hearts.

For Magnus, the real start came when he was saved at the age of five and filled with the Holy Spirit eight years later. High school graduation was followed by three years at NBC. He graduated with the Torchbearers, Class of 1940.

With several successive co-workers, Magnus busied himself the next six years conducting tent services and established churches at Randle, Ilwaco, Chinook, and his home town, South Bend, Wash. God's blessing was upon him and many souls were brought to Christ.

Having lost several co-workers to the cause of matrimony, Magnus became convinced of his need for a real companion! In June, 1942, two weeks after her graduation from NBC, Hazel Haugland and Magnus were married. Hazel, saved at the age of fourteen, was filled with the Spirit and called into God's service while a senior in high school.

After Receiving The Holy Spirit

As Carl Douglas from Jamaica smiled, he said, "It is the reality that I have long looked for and a thrilling experience."

The missionary call of NBC days was renewed while pastoring at Yelm. With their two little boys, Darrell and Duane, they left Seattle for Africa in February, 1947.

The first year was spent in South Africa at the Bible Training Institute teaching and outstation work. Rev. Fred Burke was training them for their future work of setting up a similar school. In April, 1948, the Udds moved to Nyassaland where God has enabled them to establish a Bible school among an indiginous group.

Much of the first term was spent breaking ground, renovating buildings, supervising brick making, and establishing a fine Bible school! For five months each year the pastors and evangelists gather for instruction.

The remaining seven months are busy ones for the Udds. There are conferences, compound meetings, and a host of other activities. God's work is going on. There are those who care.

Hazel is recovering from illness and surgery and will appreciate our prayers as they prepare to return to Africa this spring. The Udds like home and America, but, "We're anxious to get back—back to Limbe in Southern Nyassaland."

Al Gisselberg, Cathlamet, Wash., said, "It's wonderful! I feel my responsibility to be near God and it brings a better understanding of His Word."

STUDENT COUNCIL PROMOTES PROJECTS

We would like to introduce you to the NBC student council.

This is a group of young people who are learning responsibility while receiving insight into procedures of administration and problems dealing with human nature. The council is composed of the officers of the student body, the officers of each class and the president of the missionary society with Miss Williams as the faculty advisor. To qualify for Council membership students are required to meet certain academic and spiritual standards.

The Council's purpose is to guide student activities and promote worthy projects financed by student offerings. This year these projects have included financing the practical works department, providing personal property insurance for the student body and the disbursement of more than three hundred dollars through the student aid fund. Several hundred dollars have also been contributed for building improvements and a tape recorder.
