Champions of Character

Northwest College is proud to be a member of the Cascade Collegiate Conference and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA). Our conference has volunteered to be the first conference in the nation to adopt the new NAIA “Champions of Character” Initiative. It is our goal to create an environment in which every NAIA student-athlete, coach, official, and spectator is committed to the true spirit of competition. The Champions of Character Initiative focuses on five core values of:

- Respect
- Integrity
- Responsibility
- Servant Leadership and
- Sportsmanship.

It is the intent of this developmental program to have everyone involved in NAIA competitions exhibit exemplary character and sportsmanship.

Bill Taylor is the Head Cross Country and Track Coach at Northwest College. The 2000/2001 season marks Bill's seventh year at Northwest. In 1994 he created the Men's and Women's Cross Country programs and in 1996, the Men's and Women's Track and Field programs. All four programs have been on the rise ever since their creation. In just six years of Cross Country and five years of Track and Field at the NCCAA and NAIA level, Coach Taylor's teams have produced 25 National qualifiers, 3 National All-Americans and 13 Cascade Conference Champions. In each of the past two seasons, the women's Cross Country program has been ranked in the top ten of the NAIA and the top two of the NCCAA. In 1999 they brought a second place team finish in the Cascade Conference Women's Cross Country Championship... the highest ever conference finish for any sports team at Northwest College. 1999 also brought a fourth place finish at the NCCAA Women's National Cross Country Championships, the highest team finish for any sport at NC since moving up to NCCAA I.

Prior to beginning the Cross Country and Track programs at Northwest, Bill was an assistant and head coach at the high school level (Lake Stevens H.S., Overlake H.S., and Mountlake Terrace H.S.). He competed collegiately for Bellevue Community College and Westmont College in Santa Barbara, CA.

Bill is assisted by his wife, Tabetha. They live in Kirkland, WA.

Northwest College thanks Lee Johnson Chevrolet for supporting the Eastside Community and its athletes for 67 years.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Coaches Profile

Barry Nicholson has been the Head Volleyball Coach for Northwest College since April of 1998. During his career at NC, Nicholson has increased the win record from 5-24 (1998) to 13-16 (1999), just missing the Cascade Conference playoffs. Under his leadership in 1999, two players were named to the Volleyball All-Conference team, a first for the volleyball program. Nicholson previously worked as the Director of Operations for the Club Vertical Volleyball Association and coached various teams during the 1996-1999 USAV seasons. He is a 1996 graduate from Evangel University in Springfield, Missouri, in History Education. While at Evangel, he competed four years for the men's club volleyball team and was the first Assistant Women's Volleyball Coach for two seasons. Nicholson is completing his Master's Degree at Seattle Pacific University in Physical Education Sports Administration.

Stephanie Baller enters her fourth year as the Assistant Volleyball coach for the women's volleyball team. As a Northwest alumni, she competed in both volleyball and basketball from 1992-1996. Baller earned her Behavioral Science degree from Northwest in 1996 and completed classes in Sports Medicine from Western Washington University in 1997. She recently completed her Master's Degree in Physical Education with an emphasis in Sports Administration at Seattle Pacific University. Baller is currently the Assistant Athletic Director for Northwest College and has been employed in the Athletic Department since 1997.

Jake Woolman is also an assistant coach for the volleyball team.

John Van Dyke
Head Coach

Coaching Staff:

Head Coach John Van Dyke is going into this first year as head coach for the Eagles. He previously coached at King's High School in the Shoreline area for the past two years. As the coach of the King's Knights, the school placed 4th and 3rd respectively in the State Tournament. Van Dyke was named WIAA co-coach of the year for the 1999-2000 season, at the 1A level. Prior to that he was an assistant coach at Pierce Community College in Tacoma, Washington.

The real overriding purpose of coaching at Northwest College is to provide an opportunity for the young men to grow spiritually, academically, and athletically. Winning on the scoreboard will become a by-product of seeking excellence in all areas of life. Success is defined in the satisfaction of competing at the highest level of one's personal potential. A strong emphasis is placed on building a positive team atmosphere.

Van Dyke has been married ten years and has two children.

Assistant Coach Garth Greiner is also in his first year at Northwest College. Coach Greiner comes to us from the University of Washington where he spent one year as a basketball consultant. Prior to the time at the UW, he was the Athletic Director and Head Basketball coach at Pacific Christian School in SeaTac, WA. Before moving to Seattle, Greiner served as head assistant and JV coach at Victory Christian School in Tulsa OK.

Garth and his wife Holly have been married for five years.

C. David Elmes, Ed. D. has served as professor at Northwest College since August 1991. Northwest College is an Assemblies of God college located near Seattle, WA. Nearly one thousand students study in majors including religious and ministerial studies, arts and sciences, and teacher education.

Dr. Elmes served as the Dean of Arts & Sciences for three years and is currently serving the college as Vice President of Student Development. He shares his vision with us:

“My vision for athletics at Northwest College is to provide opportunities for all athletes to excel in their sport of choice while they reflect the character of God on and off the field and/or court of competition.”

Coaches Profile

When asked to write this biographical sketch about myself, I was reminded of the early years of my childhood. As a young girl I always had a passion for sports, so much so, I chose to participate on a boys baseball team. Understand that in the late fifties, this was not acceptable, but because there were not enough young men in our small town I was allowed to play. In high school the closest I could get to a game was as a fan. I knew then that teaching physical education was one of the only ways to be involved in sports. As a freshman in college, I was able to participate in organized sports for the first time. While attending Centralia Community College, I played field hockey, basketball and tennis. I finished my college career at Central Washington State and there I played field hockey and basketball, and in the summer participated on a semi-pro softball team.

I began my teaching and coaching career with two years in Orting Washington. My next job was in Bellevue, Washington, where I spent twenty-eight years teaching and thirty years coaching. In those years I coached swimming for nine years, placing at state in seven of those years. I also coached volleyball and track and field, but my main emphasis was in basketball. In basketball we made twelve state tournament appearances, winning two state championship titles.

When I look back and reflect over those years, it is not the trips to state or even the state titles that I remember, but rather the lives of all those young women that passed through our program. I was blessed to have been raised by wonderful parents who taught me the value of family, and I have carried that with me in all I do. I have always felt that the teams that I coached were simply an extension of my family. The greatest gift I have received is the gift of salvation which came to me at the age of twenty-nine. From then on my desire was to share that gift with as many as would listen. My hope for the young women of Northwest College is that their love for the Lord Jesus Christ will deepen with each day they live. I pray that they will leave this place with a passion to share the gift of Love while on their journey of life.

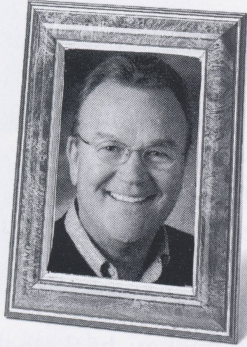

Mike began his basketball coaching career fifteen year ago as an assistant in the women's program at Sammamish High School in Bellevue Washington. He spent twelve years with the Sammamish women's program, two with the men's program and one year as an assistant at Mount Si High School.

Mike has also been involved in football programs at Sammamish, Eastlake and Renton high schools. He has coached the fast-pitch softball team at Sammamish for the past sixteen years, the last six as the head coach.

Mike has a great gift to see the potential in an athlete and help them reach their best. He brings a passion for coaching and a love of the Lord. Our team and Northwest is fortunate to have him.

FEATURE —

Kristi Brodin is one of the key people in the history of Northwest College Athletics. She is a person who has been a leader, encourager, worker, servant, coach, teacher, and pillar of strength in the last thirty years for Northwest College. We proudly and affectionately honor her in this publication.

In spring of 1970, President D.V. Hearst and Academic Dean Frank Rice learned of a senior PE major and two-sport standout athlete at Seattle Pacific, who, with her strong Christian heritage, might consider a part time position teaching Physical Education at Northwest College. The interview process convinced them that Kristi Brodin was the woman for the job: little did they realize that legacy they were helping to begin.

Commuting from Olympia two to three days a week that first year, 22 year old Kristi took the opportunity to form a women's volleyball team to compete at a one day tournament in Portland for the league of small Christian colleges of which Northwest was a part. Borrowing her parents' car to transport the team, Kristi and her players financed everything on their own in those early years, from team shirts to meals and travel expenses. Within a couple of years, this endeavor grew to regular season competition, which began with matches played as a prelude to men's basketball games.

Having completed her master's degree in Counseling and Guidance in 1976, Kristi became a Resident Counselor in the residence halls, as well as teaching and coaching two sports. The surge of interest in women's athletics during the mid-seventies enabled the league to bring in women's basketball during the 1977-78 season, moving volleyball to the fall. Kristi led her new basketball team to the first ever conference tournament championship in the inaugural season.

In 1984, having won the basketball league, Kristi was pleased to learn that her request to take the team to the National Christian College Athletic Association Division II national tournament would be granted. The team traveled to Tennessee Temple University in Chattanooga and won two of three games to place fifth. After a strong 3rd place finish the next time they went to nationals, 1988 saw the beginning of a stretch of five national titles over seven years. Kristi was honored as national Coach of the Year in 1989.

Meanwhile, the volleyball team was flourishing as well. Breaking into the NCCAA national tournament in 1989 and placing third, they qualified again in 1992, and in 1993 placed 2nd in the nation, narrowly missing the championship in a grueling five game match.

The demands of two-sport coaching atop teaching responsibilities prompted Kristi to turn the volleyball program over to the more than capable hands of Ross Johnson. Meanwhile, as basketball coach and as a recognized leader in the NCCAA, into whose Hall of Fame she was inducted in 1995, she helped to guide Northwest during the first year of full participation in the NAIA, the team made its first appearance ever at the Division I NCCAA nationals, and logged its first NAIA conference victory.

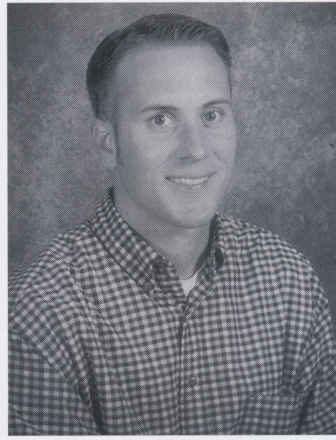

Currently focusing her efforts for the college toward the development of the new PE/Health/Fitness endorsement for the Education program, Kristi continues to serve as the Regional Chair of the NCCAA, where her expertise and years of experience are highly valued.

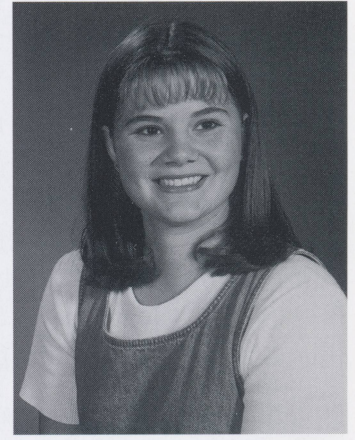

FEATURE –

As Brett and Tambi Wille left Woodinville High School in search of a college where they could continue their education and deepen their relationship with Christ, Northwest College seemed to be the perfect fit for both of them. They prayed earnestly that God would show them the career path that He wanted them to take in life. The more they prayed, the more they realized that God was calling them both into the ministry. But little did they know that the “ministry” God was calling them into was the public school system in the state of Washington.

It seems as though every day in the news there are stories of violence and weapons among kids, families broken in court by nasty divorces, teenage pregnancy, domestic violence, and the list goes on and on. In the last 20 to 30 years the public school system has taken on a challenge that is above and beyond comprehension. Statistics show that the average student in today’s public school will face more problems by the age of eighteen than many of us will face in a lifetime. Teachers, therefore, must be equipped to take on this challenge in order to make a difference.

Brett Wille

Both of them (Tambi – teaching fourth grade at Challenger Elementary, and Brett – teaching 8th grade at Monroe Junior High) owe the Northwest College Education Department greatly for helping to prepare them for the challenges of teaching in the public schools. Too many new teachers step into the classroom and are overwhelmed with all of the responsibilities of teaching. That is why the Northwest College Education Department is something that they have never taken for granted. There is no substitute for being prepared. They entered the public schools knowing what to expect. They were ready to meet the different need of each individual student. They were ready to educate parents on the role that they play in the learning process; ready to work with the different personalities of fellow colleagues and staff members; and most importantly, they were ready to be an example for Christ in a classroom full of kids who desperately need Him.

They both want to say “thanks” to the teachers and staff of the Northwest College Education Department for preparing them to be successful in their own “ministry”. They wouldn’t be where they are today without you!

(Brett and Tambi met at Woodinville High School and then chose to attend Northwest College. Both were named NCCAA All-American basketball players during their intercollegiate careers. They were married shortly after graduation and have been great representatives of Northwest College with their accomplishments on the court, in the classroom, and in their chosen profession).

Cascade Conference

Originally formed in 1978 as a scheduling alliance for volleyball, the Cascade Conference has evolved into one of the NAIA's most formidable small college leagues. Due to the abolition of the district format as a means of qualification for national championships in 1993, the conference now sanctions competition for men and women in basketball, baseball, cross country, soccer, softball, track and field and volleyball. Conference members include Albertson College, Cascade College, Concordia University, Eastern Oregon University, The Evergreen State College, Northwest College, Oregon Institute of Technology, Southern Oregon University, Warner Pacific College, and Western Baptist College.

YOU CAN Carry the Call

WITH heart The most important requirement for admission to Northwest College doesn't even show up on our application forms... because there's no way to measure your heart. But that is the best reason to come here: because you care. Because you care about following Christ, you care about serving His church, and you care about reaching the ones who are not yet in His flock, even if you have to go to the other side of the world.

WITH head The people who make the greatest impact for the Kingdom of God are those who invest the time and effort to prepare. There are no shortcuts to a successful life. It's not easy to learn a new language, to cultivate new knowledge, or to master new skills. But each day you spend, literally using your head, will pay dividends for the rest of your life, and for eternity.

WITH hand The secret of success is in your hands. For it is with your hands that you put to work everything that you have learned. And it with your hands that you share the treasures that have been entrusted to you. The steward who buried his talent was punished. The steward who invested his talent was rewarded. After all, the christian life is not for spectators. It's for participants.
