we have been labeled the searching generation ..... groping for a light in the darkness ..... seeking a way .

looking for the truth ... in quest of something real in life ... trying to answer life's eternal questions

the DARKNESS of the WORLD

What am I?
Why am I here?
Who am I?

The searching questions of my lonely hours as I seek my identity . . . to know and understand myself.

Why is there life?
What is life?
Is it in my blood . . .
my body . . . my spirit . . . ?
Is it time? . . . time . . . ?

Endlessly moving on, never stopping,
never hesitating . . .
Just accelerating towards the end,
the finish, the climax, the finale . . .
But what is the end?
Where does time vanish to . . . ?

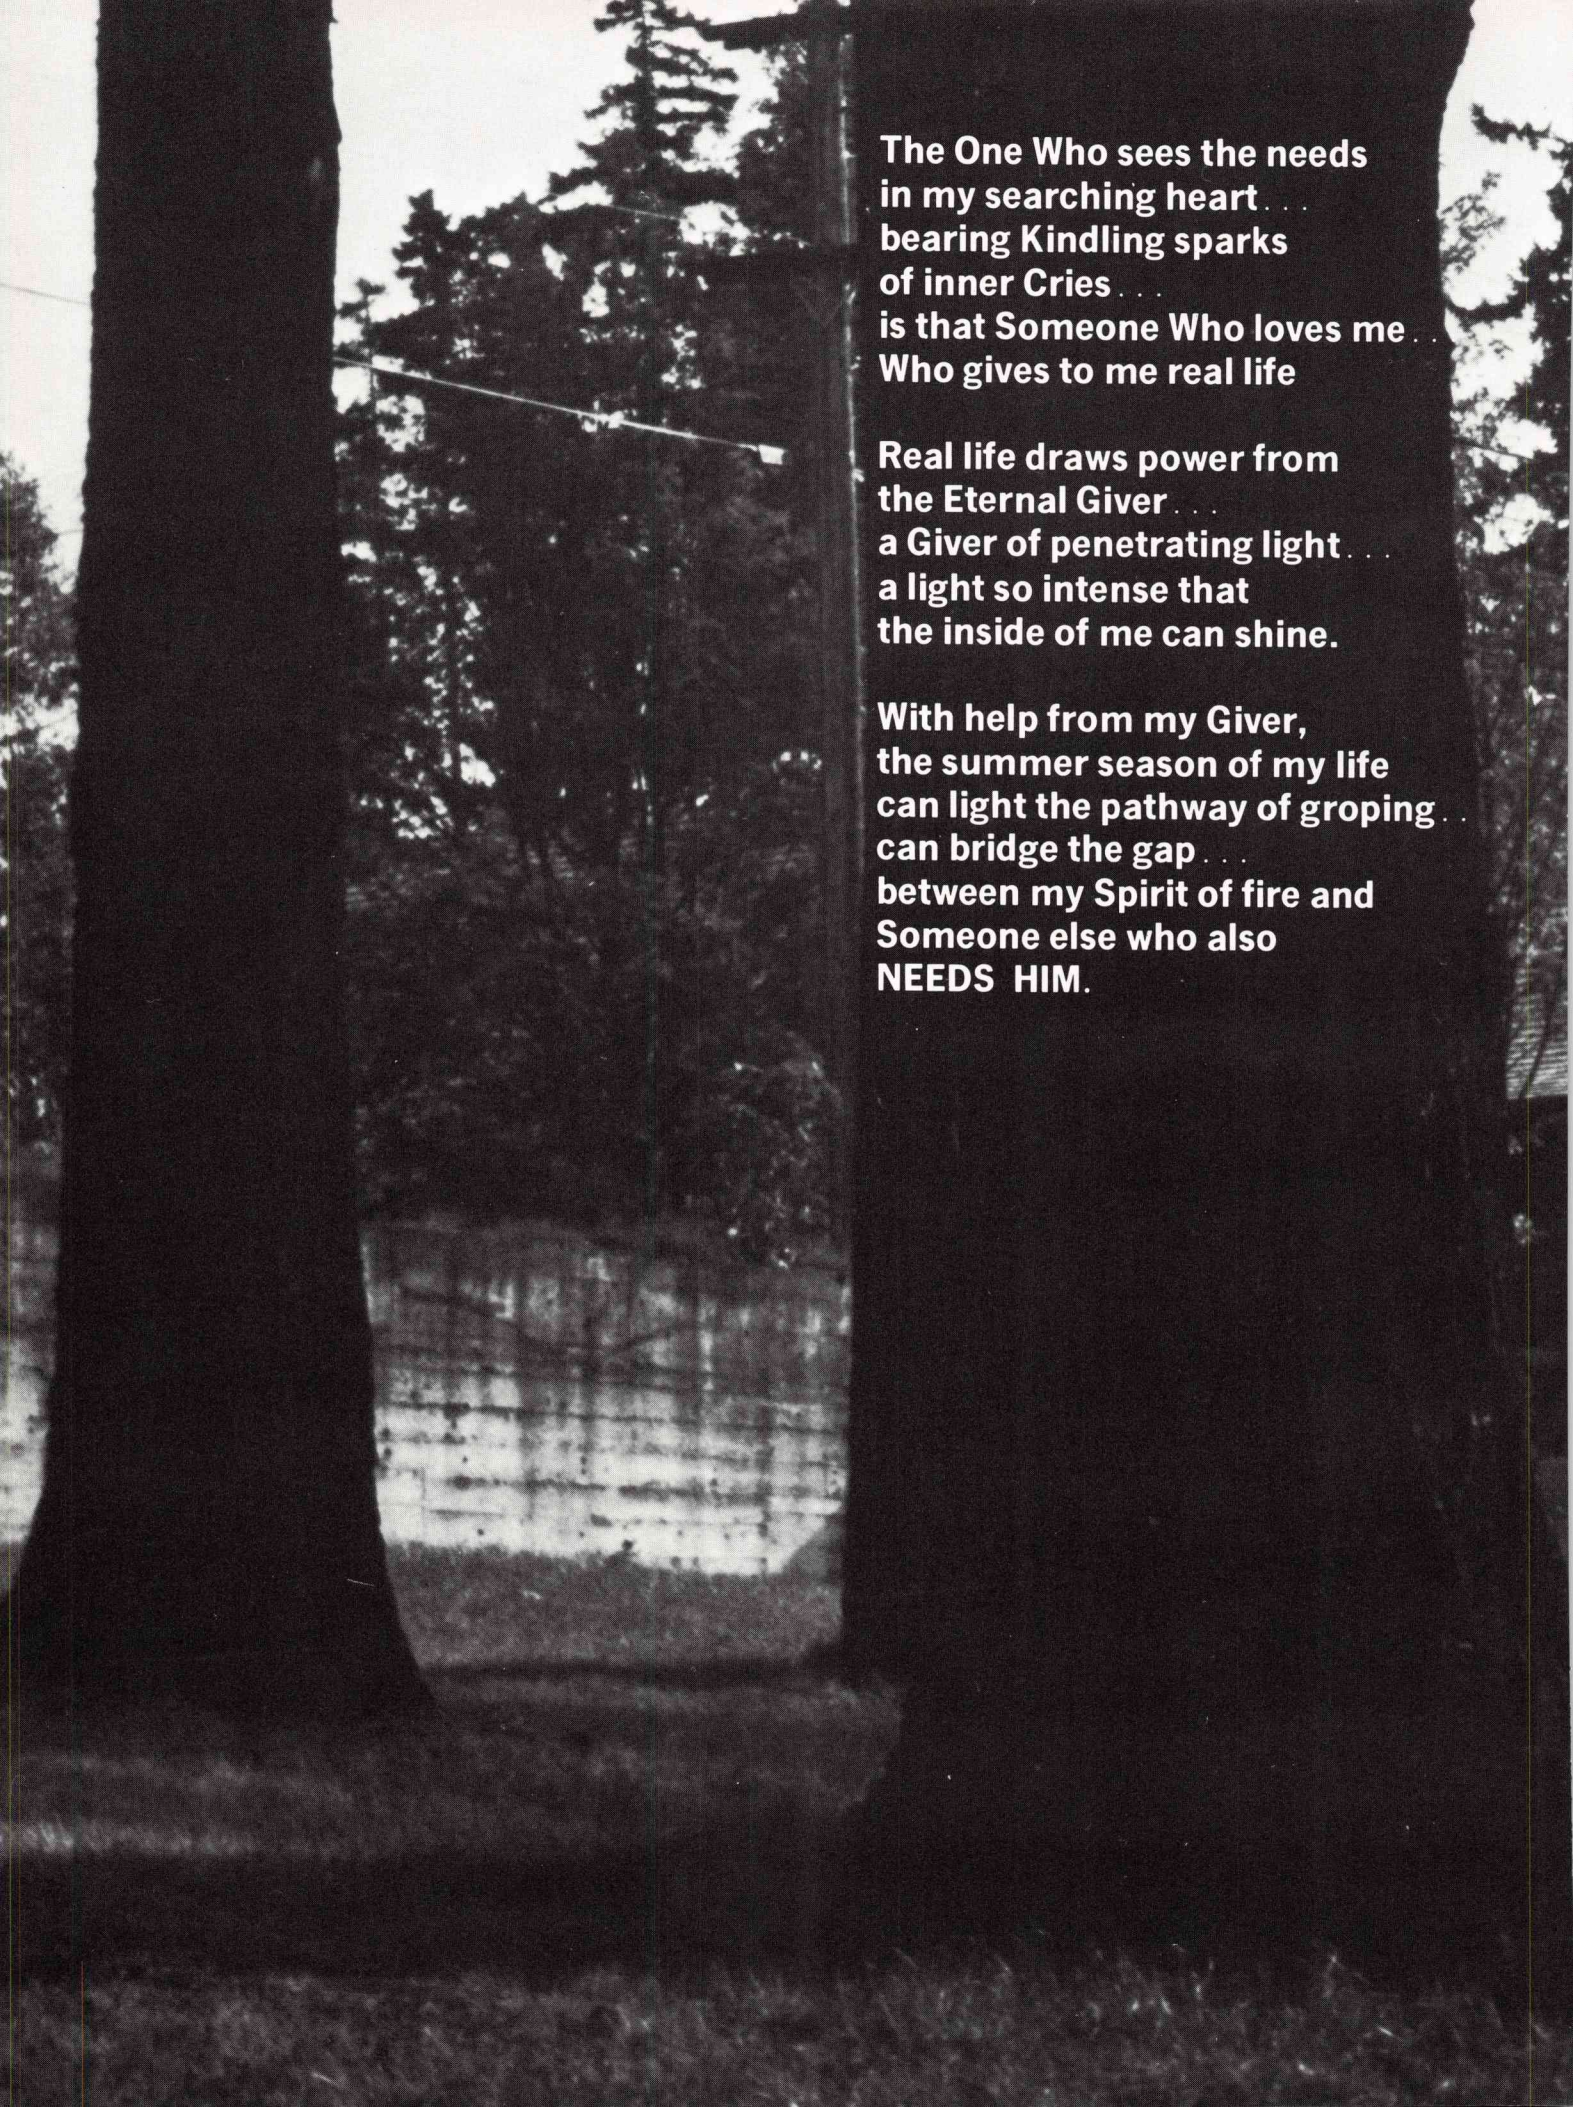

People . . . dying people . . .
expressionless people, lifeless people . . .
They crowd the cities,
the highways, the world . . .
Morning to night . . . night to morning . . .
day to day . . . on and on . . . Why?
To fit into someone's mold
of what life should be?

Where is the someone who can answer my questions?
There must be someone real . . .
somewhere . . .
Someone to love me . . .
to understand me . . .
To answer me . . . to show me
real life

The One Who sees the needs in my searching heart . . .
bearing Kindling sparks
of inner Cries . . .
is that Someone Who loves me
Who gives to me real life

Real life draws power from the Eternal Giver . . .
a Giver of penetrating light . . .
a light so intense that the inside of me can shine.

With help from my Giver,
the summer season of my life
can light the pathway of groping . . .
can bridge the gap . . .
between my Spirit of fire and Someone else who also NEEDS HIM.*

I can strive to fulfill the plan He designed I can climb mountains behind . . .
to see where I have been,
the values I have learned.

I can confidently walk in weathered paths . . .
knowing my steps have already been footed by Him.
I can discover new concepts
about what He has planted, both in the universe
and in the beauty of life itself.

I can plunge ahead
in directions that are given to me, from His Spirit to MY HEART.

LET THE LIGHT SHINE!

What a difference light makes! It makes possible the beauties of nature: the colors of fall — the golds, oranges, reds and browns; the colors of spring and summer — the shades of greens. Light makes possible the glories of sunrise, the wonders of sunset, and the majesty of the rainbow.

Darkness is the absence of light. The less the light, the more intense the darkness. The more intense the darkness, the more brightly the single ray of light shines. In the midst of darkness, what a difference a little ray of light makes!

Blindness is also the absence of light. To the blind, light is available, but cannot be seen. With extreme difficulty, the physically blind pick their way along life's path. They merit the administration of all who can see and struggle not with such a handicap!

But there is another kind of blindness, the blindness of spiritual ignorance! It is not simply a handicap. It is the absence of divine revelation, of the spirit of wisdom and knowledge, of the truth of God's Word. Many are thus willfully blind. They reject revelation truth. Others have never had opportunity to see the light. The vast majority, it seems, of the world's population are thus afflicted. What a pity to see the blind leading the blind!

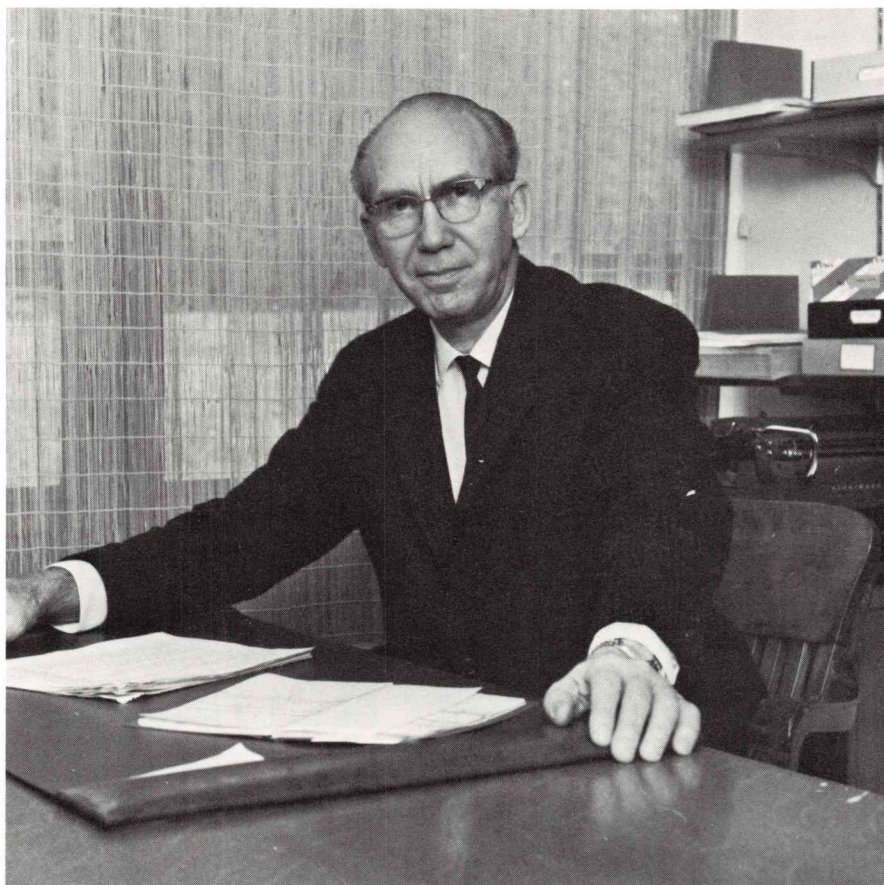

But there is a light, and it can penetrate the darkest of hearts! The source of that light is God - the "Father of Lights." This light is the knowledge of truth coming from an illumination by the Holy Spirit and a wisdom in the application of truth to all of life.

In the midst of darkness, the light shining afar off is a promise of hope. What a difference it makes to the weary, confused traveler!

And so it is for the millions of this world. The light of divine truth is the only promise of hope in the gathering darkness. To be seen, the light need not be large; it only need be light — true light.

karisma dedication

To ask is to be helped. Students have found that Professor Donald Fee is one who is more than willing to help anyone who comes to him.

Perhaps it has been experience that taught Professor Fee to be the great counsellor and friend to the student. He has pastored churches in Oregon and California. In Port Angeles, Washington, he pastored several years. There he saw through to the finished product of a new church.

In the Northwest District, Professor Fee served on the Presbytery during his Port Angeles pastorate. During the years, 1949-1951, he was on the Northwest Executive Committee. He had the position of chairman for the National S. S. Convention Housing Committee in 1949.

1953 marked the year that he joined the faculty of NC. He served as the Dean of Men for a while here and at the same time, served as instructor in Bible and Pastoral Studies. Today, Professor Fee is known as a Bible teacher throughout the Pacific Northwest region.

The completion of the work for his baccalaureate degree was done at NC and the UW. He went on to seminary at Winowa Lake School of Theology in Indiana. There he received his M.A. degree in Theology.

The NC student has found a relevant, interested, and consistent, guiding hand in Professor Fee. There are no airs about him; every student is important to him. Students find that he relates to them on their own level, regardless of what is being discussed. He truly has a delightful sense of humor. If there is one word that could describe Professor Fee, it would be "loveable."

We, as students of Northwest College, are proud to present the 1972 KARISMA in dedication to Professor Donal Fee, for truly he has been "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of truth."

(II Timothy 2:15)

Graduate (grăd-yōō-ätt) pl. Graduates. 1. A student having completed his or her requirements or is in final year of studies. 2. Misanthropic; antisocial; declines opportunity to interact with underclassmen in terms of dormitory dwelling. 3. Sophisticated; soberly enlightened; airy, especially when near freshmen. 4. Impatient; intolerant; short on capability to cope with trivialities, especially freshmen conversation. 5. Encumbered; under heavy pressure; tends to believe that no grace is sufficient for the requirements at hand. 6. Ethnocentrically egotistical; hears “do ye likewise” and thinks “amen, freshmen.” 7. Decrepit; unfit, feeble; i.e., can “climb up sunshine mountain” with the children, but can barely walk up the hill to Chapel. 8. Fearfully courageous; bashfully bold; at times wistfully remembers previous years when the future wasn’t quite so bleakly vast. 9. Apprehensive; seized with the realization that “so send I you” has suddenly arrived. 10. Restless; vehemently solemn; anxiously anticipates day when he or she no longer “keeps the faith, baby” but “spreads a little around.”

Freshman (frěsh'-măn), n.; pl. -men (men).

1. A student during his or her first year, as in high school or college. 2. (allegorically), the picture of facial confidence and mental uncertainty; an irrelevant description of academic stability. 3. Object of social discrimination; "guinea pig" for indisputable upper classmen jokes; gullible, dupe. 4. Procrastinator; prefers to defer devotion to proper collegiate habits, i.e., postponement of studies to the point whereupon necessity prevails. 5. Brave, courageous; projects will-power, i.e., proceeds to fail examination after frantically studying entire night prior to aforesaid examination. 6. Mischievous; crafty; provoker; example, via "holy terror", forces bad vibrations of “holy wrath” to be emitted from superior (resident advisor). 7. Detective in nature; discovers, i.e., perceives true physical size of the “Big Wheel”. Also, engages in “grapevine detection” concerning roommate’s latest prospect. 8. Mystic; psychic; searches into the unknown for the known; daily profound conclusions parallel wisdom presented by the Resident Assistant during previous evening’s devotions. 9. Knowledgeable; wise, wisdom-acquiring, i.e., learns that God’s plan is for today and not to be waited for until tomorrow; deduces that spiritual perfection is a process, not an accomplishment. 10. the beginning of the end result. syn., see inexperience, novice, underclassman.

Mr. Webster defines unity as: "the state of being one; oneness; singleness; being united."

Certainly there has been much said concerning the importance of unity among students at Northwest College. When the topic of having unity arises, it is usually in a prayer cell or from behind our chapel's pulpit. It is true in the majority of times that the case concerning unity arises, it is in connection with our spiritual condition and fervor. When we hear the saying, "we must be united as one body as we go in service for God," our minds zero in on the W.O.M. program, because it is spiritual. When we hear someone say this, we cannot argue with them; and, we shouldn't. We should reply with an "Amen." We must be in a spirit of oneness in our W.O.M. program; this we accept. However, there is a possibility of separating various segments of our student body organizations into two groups: spiritual and non-spiritual. On the one hand, many of us view the W.O.M. program as spiritual and all the remains as somewhat non-spiritual.

What does remain within the structure of the student body when W.O.M. is set aside for the moment? Maybe to the surprise of some, quite a bit. We may produce such evidence as the function of class officers, our Associated Men and Women Student's organizations, Married Student's Association, the publication of our student handbook, the services of our Snack Shack, the encouragement of our yell squad, the annual you are now reading, our intramural program for both men and women, the fun we all have looking forward to and enjoying our All-School Banquet, Harvestime Social, Awards Banquet, not to mention the hard work in the preparation and decorating for them. Oh, but that's not all. We have yet to cite KCNC Radio, the Amateur Radio Club, the Songcrafters, Bruce Larson, and Luther Jerstad. The associated student body can be seen at work in nearly every area of your college experience.

Marc Pearson
President

Linda Pearson
Treasurer

Our subject has been unity. But in what respect? For the purpose of uniting all student functions, including World Outreach Ministries into one category: the spiritual or sacred. This unity is not concerned only with those who attend University Witness, those who sing in one of our many groups, or go each week participating in a gospel team. It attempts to create a oneness within our understanding as to our concept of which functions are spiritual and which ones are not. Everything we do is spiritual. Two divided groups never have existed, except in the way we may have viewed it. But then you ask, "Isn't there a big difference between attending Sea-Tac

Witness and laboring in a committee meeting which is discussing what will be appropriate for the junior class winter social?" In our concept, maybe yes, but not quite so much in God's view.

Paul, in writing to the Corinthians, expressed what we must be aware of: "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

Mr. Treasurer, when you are counting the funds of those you represent, remember it is to the glory of God. Miss Snack Shack employee, when you are serving students and working hard, it is to the glory of God. These are sacred duties because everything we do, even when doing such basic things as eating and drinking, we do it unto the Lord. There is no distinction, for all is sacred. Yes, when you sincerely want to go with the group to Sea-Tac on Friday, but you have so much homework that you are unable to, don't feel as though you are unspiritual. Studying is sacred and can be done to the glory of God.

Whatever function and privilege we perform as a member of the student body, let us not compare them to something we consider more spiritual, but rather thank God that we are able to do everything for His glory.

WORLD OUTREACH MINISTRIES

Probably one of the most exciting organizations of young people in Christian circles today is that known as World Outreach Ministries (W.O.M.). Every student at the college is a member of W.O.M. and contributes by giving his time, talent, and financial assistance throughout each school year. World Outreach Ministries is administered by a council of students. The council consists of executive members: Dan Cook, Chairman; Grant Hill, Vice-Chairman; Mary Shellberg, Secretary; and Birdie Ballenger, Treasurer. The leaders of the seven Ministry Interest Groups (M.I.G.'s) are: Wayne Sommers and Sue Beaman, Campus Mig; John Tobin, Evangelism Mig; Sandra Britt, Community Service Mig; Emily Carpenter, Children & Youth Mig; Blair Overturf, Missions Mig;

Allen Menaker, Servicemen's Mig; Roy Owings, Gospel Team Mig; and Darilyn Bennett, Publicity Chairman.

What makes W.O.M. so exciting? The students. Because of their constant activity and involvement, their attitude of wanting to do something for God, and their awareness that they are doing God's will, they have been a blessing to many people - on campus and around the world.

The activities of W.O.M. have taken students to SEA-TAC Airports, through the Evangelism Mig, where weekly witnessing to passers-by has seen men and women won to Christ. The Community Service Mig has seen students walking the halls and visiting rooms in local convalescent homes. There they share with the elderly the eternal hope and salvation of the Gospel. Groups of students involving special music, speakers, and songleaders have been sent by the Gospel Team Mig to churches throughout the Northwest corner of the United States, allowing members to gain experience and feel the thrill of conducting services and presenting Christ. Students in the Children/Youth Mig have been involved in Sunday School programs and have Bible clubs in conjunction with local churches. They have seen the lives of youth changed by the power of God. Numbers of men in the Armed Forces have had an encounter with the living God as students involved in the Servicemen's Mig have given their Saturday night and often their Sundays to work in the servicemen's center in downtown Seattle. Many have gone overseas to serve their country with a bright new hope and a confidence of knowing

Grant Hill - Vice Chairman

Birdie Ballenger - Treasurer

Christ as their Savior. The arm of outreach has expended beyond Seattle, even the Northwest region, and has gone around the world via the ministry of the Missions Mig. They have invited guests to our campus such as: Rev. Greissen, Missionary from Hong Kong, and Rev. McCalley, Missionary to Nigeria. They have been seen working on buildings for Home Mission churches as well as sending several thousand dollars to areas all over the world for the cause of missions. Every dollar comes from the students.

All this activity of the Student Body of Northwest College would be in vain were it not the attitude with which they perform their ministries. This attitude of deciding to work for God is something which is kindled within the heart of every man. For this reason, the W.O.M. council members have given themselves to the ministry of encouraging each student to first develop his own relationship to God so that this will produce the desire to work for Him. This work is emphasized in the Campus Mig. Within the structure of the Campus Mig, the students in the residence halls participate in floor prayer meetings at least once a week. In these meetings as many as thirty students will gather on each floor for a short time of devotion together. In addition to these meetings, smaller groups of students gather at given times during each week in what is called a "prayer and share" group. All of these activities are encouraged to promote a deeper relationship between each student and his Lord. When one considers these desires of the students, it is easy to see a characteristic attitude of wanting to work for God. It also brings an awareness that the individual is doing God's will for his life.

It is the responsibility of every Christian to be actively involved in ministry for God. The question asked of Peter by Jesus is handed to us today, "Lovest thou me?" The response then came, "Feed my sheep." The students at Northwest are taught this, not only in the classroom, but wherever they find opportunity through World Outreach Ministries. They learn first to advance their love for God at home and on campus, then endeavor to feed the sheep as they work together in areas of W.O.M.

W.O.M. is a vital part of the total program at Northwest College. God has blessed it and given the increase. We thank God for the blessing He has given through World Outreach Ministries.

the harvest -time social

HARVEST TIME SOCIAL: Those were the days when I was a kid! That was the theme of the Harvest Time Social this year. All came prepared in rolled-up levis, pigtails, ruffle dresses and worn out tennis shoes, retreating back to the days when they were young. The farmer in the dale, hopscotch, squirt guns, and darts were some of the games played.

Everything eventually settled down around the stage as Mark Haines and Steve Howard kept everyone smiling in between skits. The highlight of the evening was the ministry of the Amplified Version. The mood changed as the Lord anointed them, reminding listeners that the God of childhood days is even more of a reality today.

AMS/AWS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Looking back over the activities of the year, not many will forget the annual AMS/AWS Christmas Party.

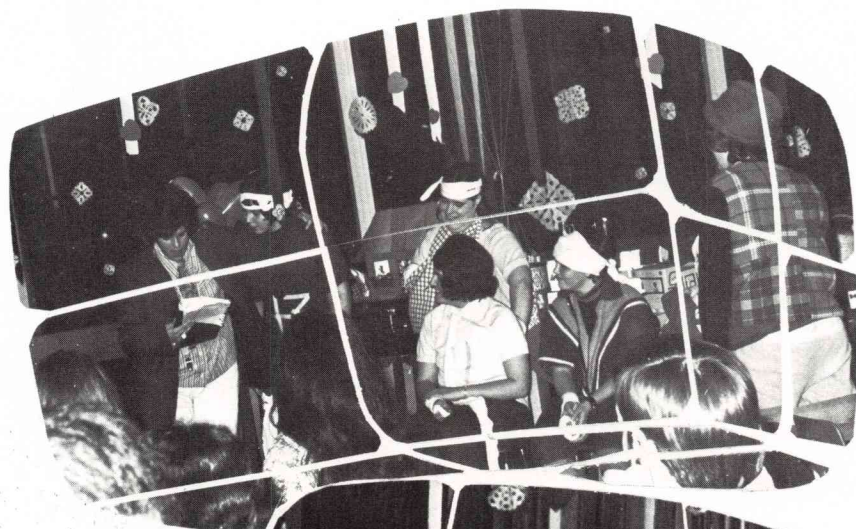

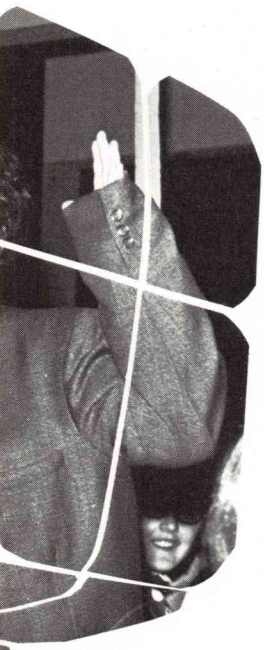

"Toby" was the master of ceremonies and music was furnished (?) by the "Elite 400 Floor Trio." Drama for the evening was supplied by Sue Beaman, Barbara May, Molly Woodbury, and Janet Rucker with a guest-star appearance by Dave Jensen. Of course Santa, who was residing in Gray Hall-511 this year, paid us a visit. Gifts were exchanged by everyone. After a fun-filled evening, Dean Bridgman signed off with a devotional of the true story of Christmas.

international food fair

The pioneer shack entry opened up a new dimension "Into All the World." The International Food Fair, on the evening of January 8, 1972, set the following week-long emphasis of missions. Rev. Morris Williams, our special guest at the Food Fair, also served as our Spiritual Emphasis week speaker. Much was learned by all and many were touched by the call of God to the mission field.

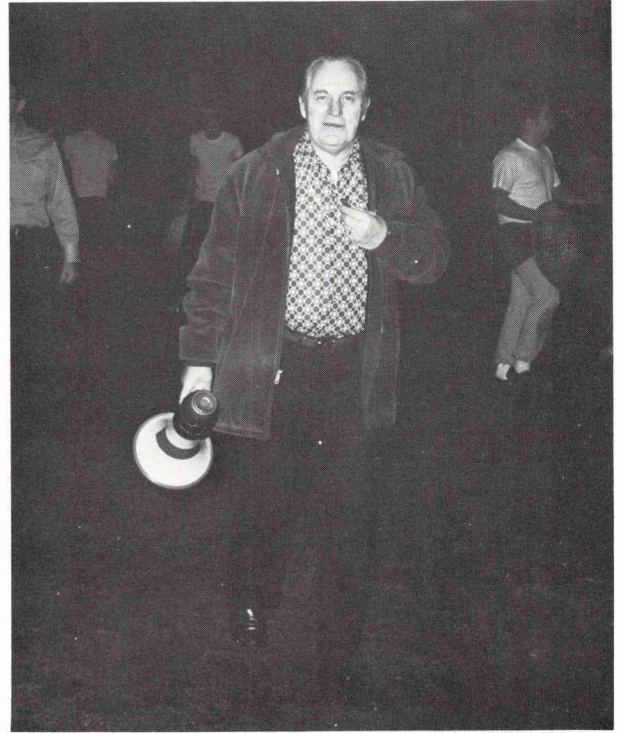

Colors, scences, costumes, souvenirs, and dolls set forth a picture of the entire world in one room. The countries represented by NC alumni students, now missionaries, were proudly staked on a global map, revealing the hundreds of needy souls that have heard the gospel. Passing by decorated booths of foreign countries, the plates of students were piled high with Egg Fu Yung, Chicken Moamba, Chorizo Con Huevos, Rice and Beef Curry, Homemade Bread, potatoes and gravy, Swedish pancakes, and German chocolate cake. Greg McPherson was the master of ceremonies for the Food Fair. Music was provided by Diana Savage and Irene Gonzales (Spanish), Mr. and Mrs. C.P. Titus (India), and the Northwesterners. Experiences of summer ministries in missions were related by students.

"Through Gates of Splendor." a beautifully touching film of the martyrdom of five missionaries resulting in open doors of ministry, was shown shortly after dinner. Following the individually relevant challenge of the film, Mr. Orville Clark closed with some thought provoking questions.

The International Food Fair was presented by the Missions MIG Committee. It took planning, hard labor, and prayer to make the Fair what it was. The challenge presented at our 1972 Food Fair is one that will hopefully grow in the hearts of every person who was there.

WELCOME TO THE THRESHOLD

Once the new graduate tossed his mortarboard in the air with a "That's that! I'm through with education!" Today's graduate is less naive. The accelerated pace of change means a lifetime in the educational process if he is to be effective.

There is a spiritual parallel which you, as a graduate of a college with a religious emphasis, no doubt have noted. No single experience with God, no sequence of experiences, does more than bring us to the threshold of continuing need. Thus the invitation to lifetime receptiveness: "Be filled with the Spirit!" May it be so with you.
