THE CHALLENGE OF NORTHWEST

Challenged! Eager entrants arrive and the challenge offered by Northwest College begins. Each student comes with his vision and his dream. Hours in the classroom are coupled with time in the presence of our Lord and with those who share that prevailing sense of purpose. Dreams are charted into plans and the vision grows into keen focus.

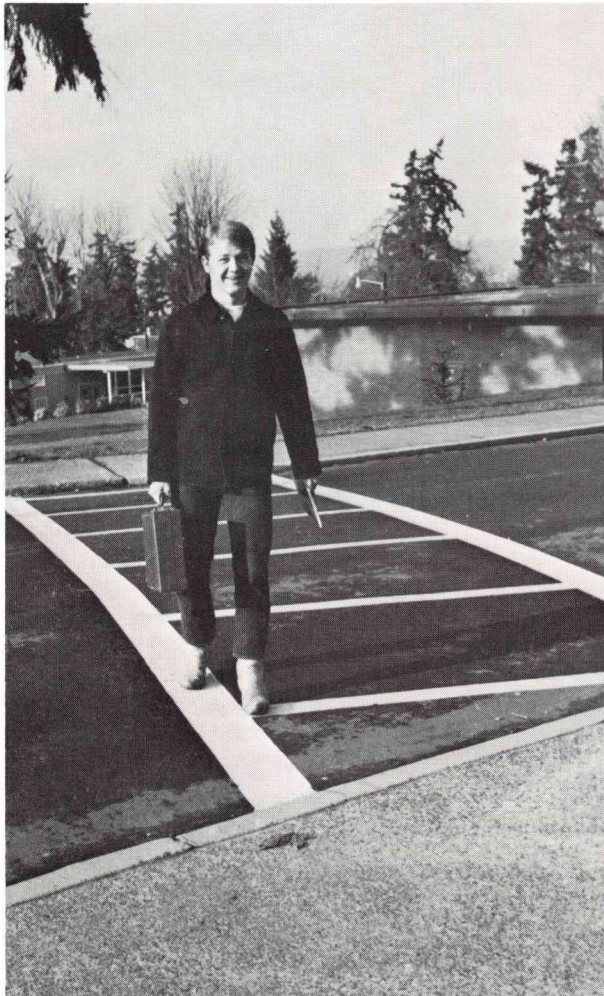

Challenged! Academic goals are presented and the ministry of preparation is set in motion. Every class attended, each book read, and every practical experience shared lends to growth, change and fulfillment. Each student has the opportunity to gather to himself the necessary and practical tools of learning that he may be an instrument prepared for the Master's use.

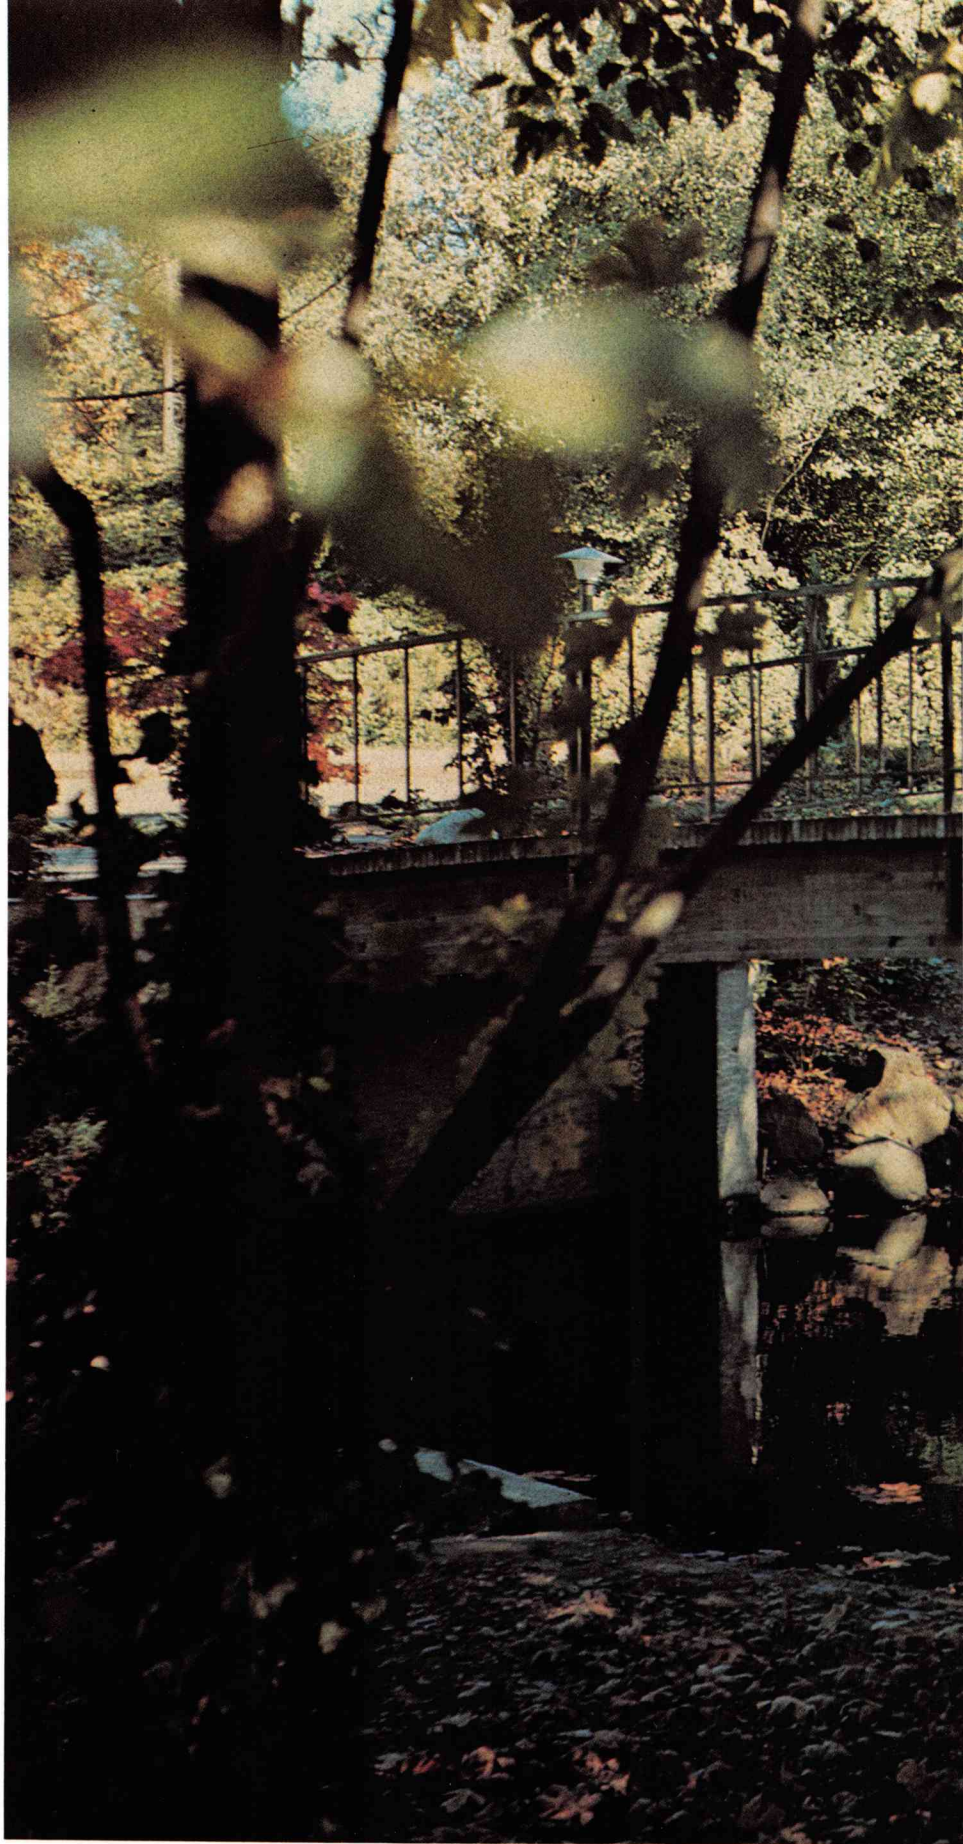

Challenged! Our student body is part of a continuing process . . . those who have walked the road before us and those who share the path are a source of example and inspiration. Facing us is a world in need. We are challenged to establish a workable relationship with our Master. Within that relationship is the potential to meet our perplexed generation. This challenge propels us to action . . .

Dedication . . .

Jack V. Rozell

Rev. Jack Rozell...Dean, instructor and friend. These are but a few of the important roles our Dean of Students fulfills at Northwest College. He typifies the tremendous concern expressed by our administration and faculty for us—the students of N.C.

One is soon impressed with his sense of purpose, strive for excellence, and thorough organization. Such qualities are clearly evident in the record of his own collegiate activities. His college career at Whitworth College involved him in the national honorary Intercollegiate Knights as well as in the Whitworth Christian Fellowship through which he directed the activities of twenty-two gospel teams. At the close of his senior year as Student Body President, he was cited as an outstanding student with his selection for Who' Who in American Colleges and Universities. Following his graduation with honors, Dean Rozell pastored a home missions church in the Seattle area while attending Northwest College. Then, during his studies at Fuller Theological Seminary, he served as an assistant pastor. The next step was a three year pastorate in Montana prior to his appointment to Northwest.

The Dean's office is a busy office as he has unselfishly given many hours to campus life, problems, and progress. Those who have known him as a counselor will remember his seasoned advice: "Love God completely with all your heart, then do what you want to do, and you will be doing His will.". This same spirit of total commitment is evidenced in practical ways whether he is in the classroom, at the ball games, in the pulpit, or in conversation on the sidewalk. He has a minister's heart and his challenging chapel presentations have unlocked the resources of the Word in a most appropriate way to the Student Body.

Many who have entered his office have smiled at the placard once hung above his desk: "Report Indian Raids Here." This ability to handle problems, his listening ear and his ceaseless ministry of concern are often taken for granted. It is for this reason that at the occasion of the 1969-70 Karisma, we express our sincere appreciation for his life's testimony, example, and "ministry of the second mile" for the Student Body.

President D.V. Hurst

The Challenge to the Strong

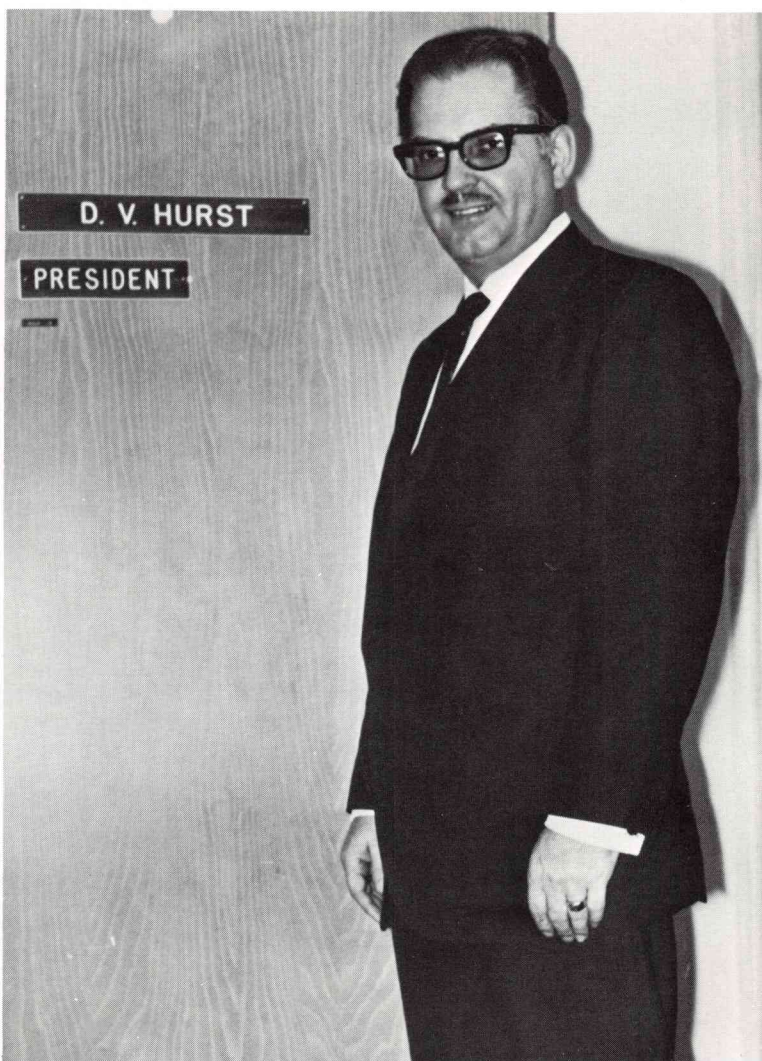

Christian youth have received a summons to conflict in this generation hardly equalled by any other. As the end of time looms, the battle seems set in array as never before--the "conflict of the ages!"

The Apostle Paul declared it was against principalities, powers, the rulers of darkness of this world and against spiritual wickedness in heavenly places that youth are called to wrestle! The purpose of God was that even the "principalities and powers in heavenly places" would see the "manifold wisdom of God."

His challenge is to the strong and to be strong! It is a summons to resist the subtle and beguiling wiles of the enemy. It is a battle of mind, of spirit, of ideas and ideals, of morals and principles. It is a battle honesty, of truth and sincerity, that many have discarded long ago.

His challenge is to be all that He has indicated one can be in Christ, and to be used of the Holy Spirit in every way He would lead. The real challenge is not so much from the world as it is from God, Himself. He calls! He issues the summons! Who will fight and do exploits with me?! For God is not on the defensive; He is on the attack.

His weapons are not carnal or earthly. They are spiritual--prayer, faith, the Word of God, the Spirit of God, the name of His Son. These are weapons with which His battles are won. Greater than all the armament that has ever been amassed, all the armies that have ever marched and all the navies that have ever sailed, this arsenal of weapons He placed in the hands of those who respond to His summons and with them He then goes forth to conquer.

Dear Seniors:

These past four years have been the most exciting years of our lives. Many lasting friendships have been established that will continue into our future ministries. God has brought us together in union with love and grace, that will last through eternity. He has been preparing us to minister in the most exciting and challenging era since time began. Never before has our world progressed in so many areas as we have seen today. Man is still trying to conquer and control everything within grasp. Yet he has not been able to master his own life. We have found that only through Jesus Christ can find this control and real meaning to life. In spite of every situation we find ourselves in, God has made us more than conquerors in Christ Jesus. Today we see the lands of our world parched by sin and death. Everywhere people thirst for the water of life. We have been filled with God's Holy Spirit to be vessels that overflow with springs of living water. God has prepared us for this thirsting land. Our class motto justly represents our responsibility for we are, "A witness in a thirsty land." Thank you for the privilege to serve you. May God bless you with His best.

Sincerely in Him,

Dear Junior Class,

Everyone who becomes a success must have some inner motivation which drives him toward his goal. But for many it is not obtaining a goal which motivates them as much as it is fear. The fear of competition, where one fears that someone else will do it better, receive more recognition, or become more successful, drives many toward success. Still others are driven to success by the fear of failure. It is not so much the hope of achievement which motivates them as it is the fear of failure. However, there are still others who become successful because of their hope of achieving a goal for that goal's sake.

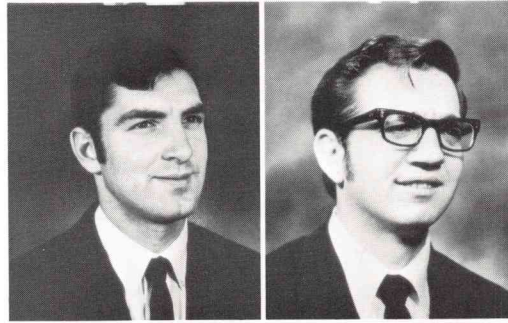

For my classmates I would wish for you all to become successes for Christ's sake. Not successful because you were motivated by the fear of competition or failure but because you had a goal to achieve for Christ's sake.

Fellow Sophomores

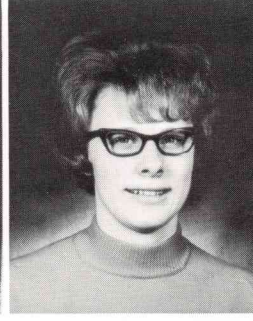

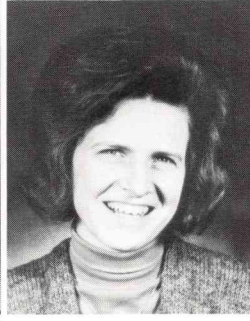

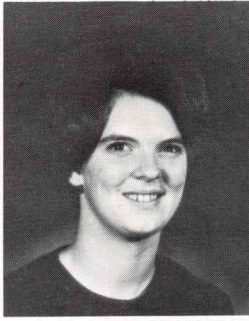

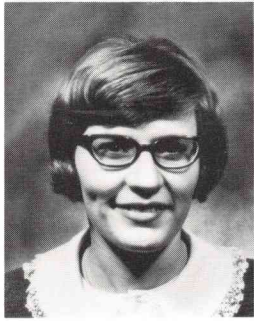

As the theme of our Thanksgiving dinner has said, truly, "What thanks can we render, "unto our Lord and Savior who has given us life everlasting. In reviewing this past year, God has been faithful in giving to us His purpose, His will, and His direction. The place or circumstances that we shall find ourselves in will have little significance when we know God has placed us there. As we have heard many times this year, let us, "deny ourselves, take up our cross, and follow Him." (Mark 8:34) I acquired a poem recently and with it I exhort each member of the Sophomore Class, who mean so much and have been such an inspiration, to always follow Christ no matter what the cost. It is entitled, Be Strong:

We are not here to play, to dream, to drift.
We have hard work to do and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle, face it - tis God's gift.
 Be Strong!
It matters not how deep entrenched to wrong.
How hard the battle goes, the day how long.
Faint not, Fight on, tomorrow brings the song.
 Be Strong!

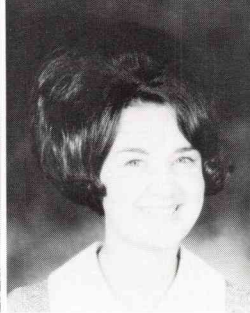

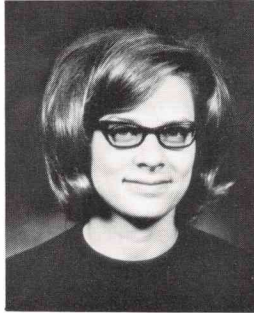

God be with each one of you.

Fellow Freshmen,

On September 24, 1969, 287 scared men and women came to Northwest College to make up the largest class in the Student Body. We came from different states, environments, and cultures, but all with one purpose to find our place in the service of the Master.

Many of us had no vision, no goals, some, no patience, but God has answered the prayers of his people. I look back to the past year and thank God for the moving of his Holy Spirit in our lives. I think of all the studies, all the tests, but also the quiet moments when we sought God's will. N.C. has helped us to mature as Christians through the compassion of our teachers, daily prayers, and the fellowship of believers. The many chapel services, and each Spiritual Emphasis week, too have had definite effect on our lives. I rejoice that now as we look back on the past year we can see how God has worked, how he has guided our footsteps, and has given us a glimpse of his highest calling. Our motto has been, "Beacon in the Midnight Hour". I am confident that we have become the kind of lights that God would have us be.

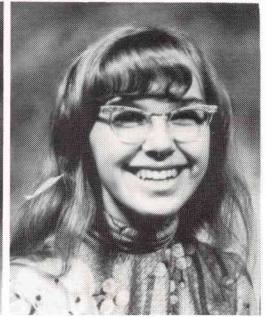

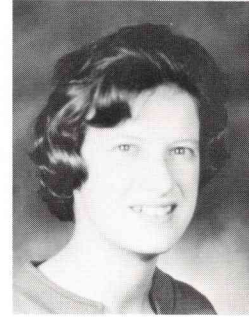

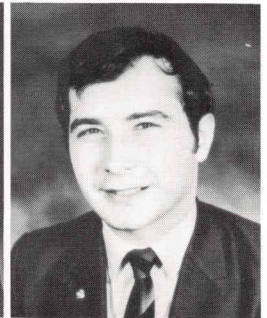

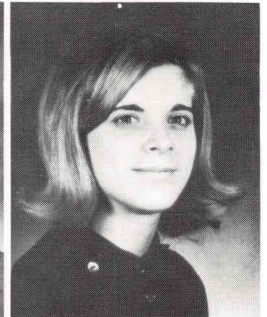

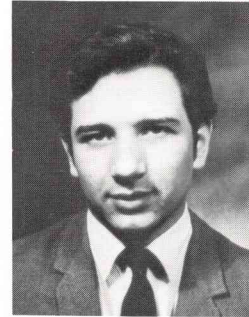

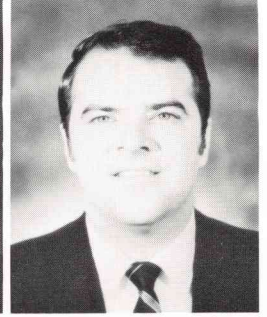

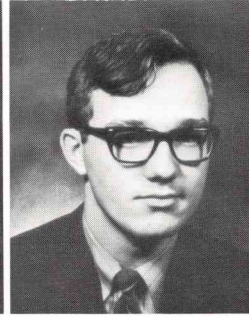

Jesus said, "Let your light so shine before men." Let that be our goal throughout these next three years, and all of our Christian lives.

God Bless and keep you in his wonderful love.

World Outreach Ministries

World Outreach Ministries provided outlets for student evangelism and witnessing. The various phases of W.O.M., called Missionary Interest Groups (M.I.G.'s), offered men and women students specific areas in which they could best utilize their talents and interests.

These areas included the new Serviceman's M.I.G., and the longer established World Missions, Internship, Children and Youth, Evangelism, Campus Ministries, and Gospel Team M.I.G.'s.

CAMPUS M.I.G.

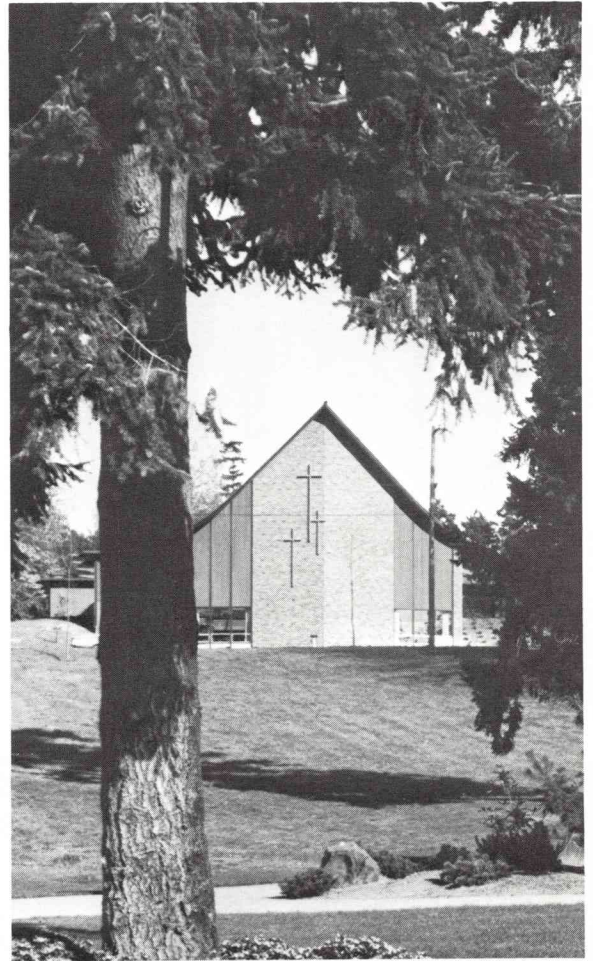

The main objectives of this year's Campus M.I.G. was to promote both individual and group prayer lives. It was the only M.I.G. in which each student on campus actively participated, as prayer cells and prayer sharing groups were formed on each floor of the dorms. Organized by M.I.G. leaders Ann Selstad, and Larry Gray, these groups operated effectively and efficiently throughout the year.

Evangelism M.I.G.

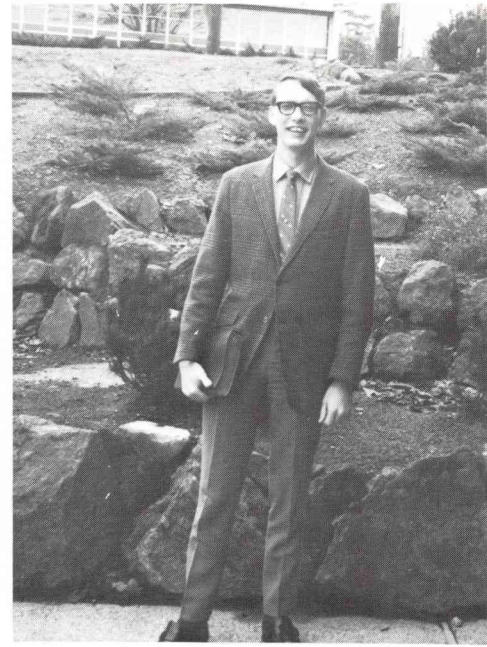

Co-ordinator: Alvie Robbins

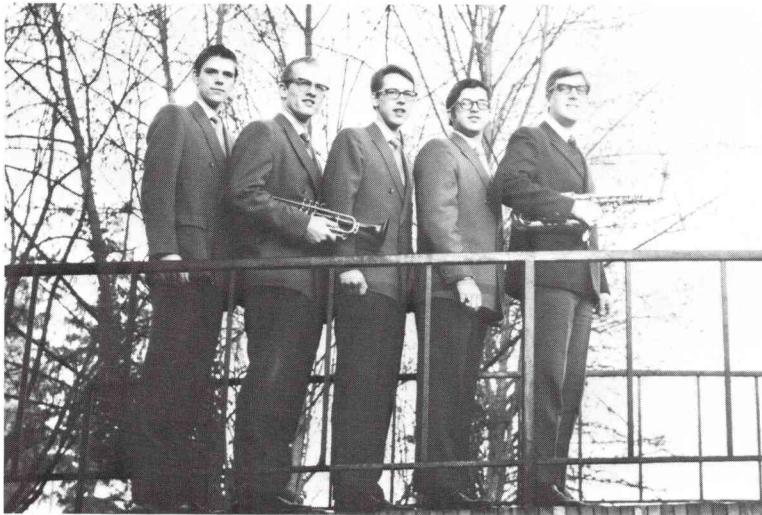

EVANGELISM M.I.G.

Led by M.I.G. leader Alvie Robbins, this year's Evangelism M.I.G. participated regularly in two important outreach ministries—University Witness and Seattle Center Witness. Each Friday night Vern Anderson's Seattle Center Witness team would invade the famous grounds and offer their personal testimonies to young and old alike. Marc Pearson and the U. Witness team strolled the streets and entered the coffee houses of the University of Washington campus each Saturday night, sharing the Gospel and personal experiences with young people in search of the truth.

Co-ordinator: Ron Tollefson

GOSPEL TEAM M.I.G.

Utilizing student preaching abilities and musical talents was this year's Gospel Team M.I.G. Co-ordinated by Ron Tollefson, several different groups operated regularly, travelling throughout the Seattle area to rest homes, churches and missions.

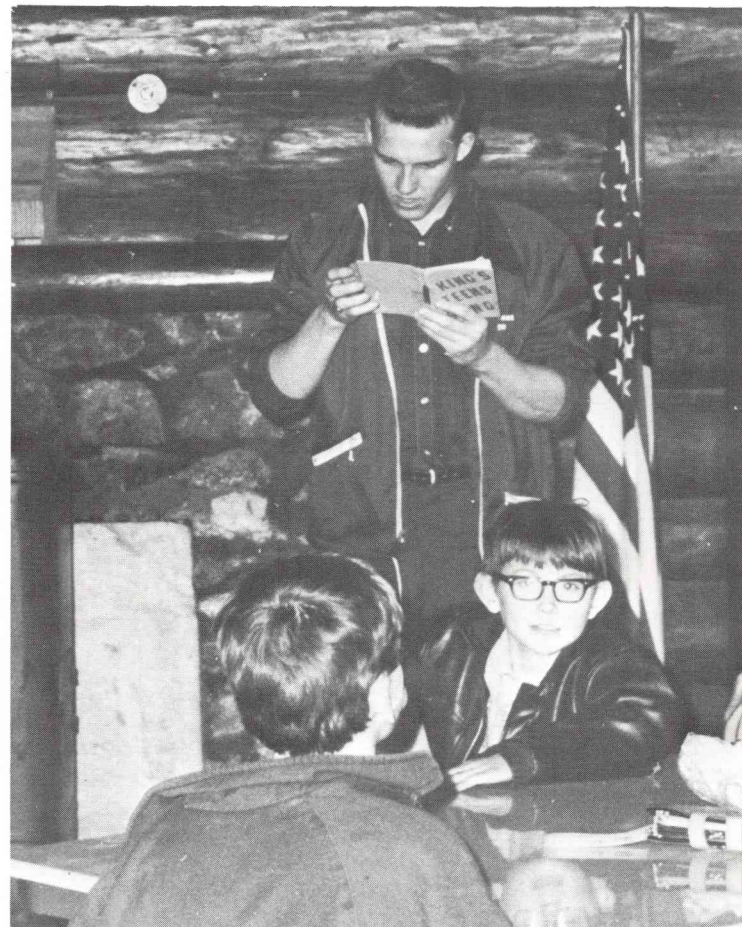

CHILDREN AND YOUTH M.I.G.

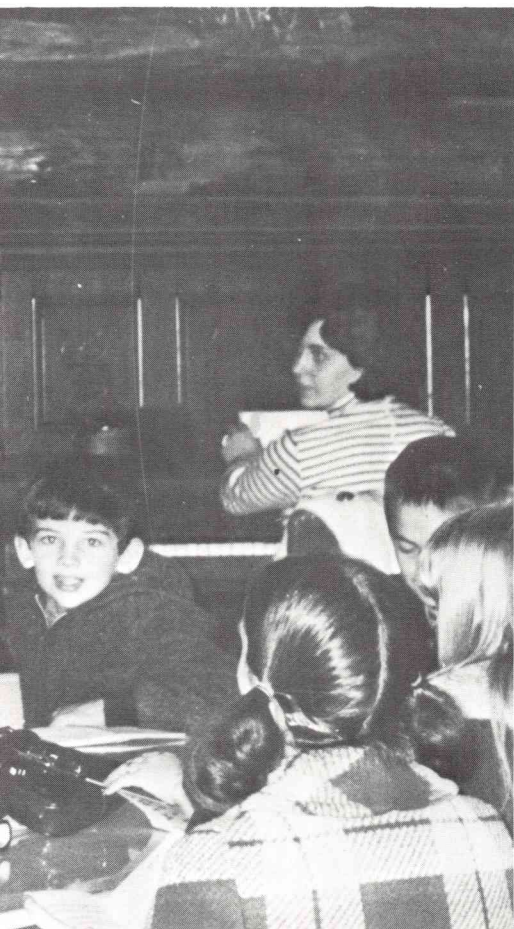

Many students became actively involved in Seattle area churches through the organized efforts of Laurel Melin in this M.I.G. Participating in Bible study groups, Sunday schools, and children's services in Seattle churches on Sundays, and in the popular King's Teens on Thursdays, valuable experience in church work and organization was gained by the members.

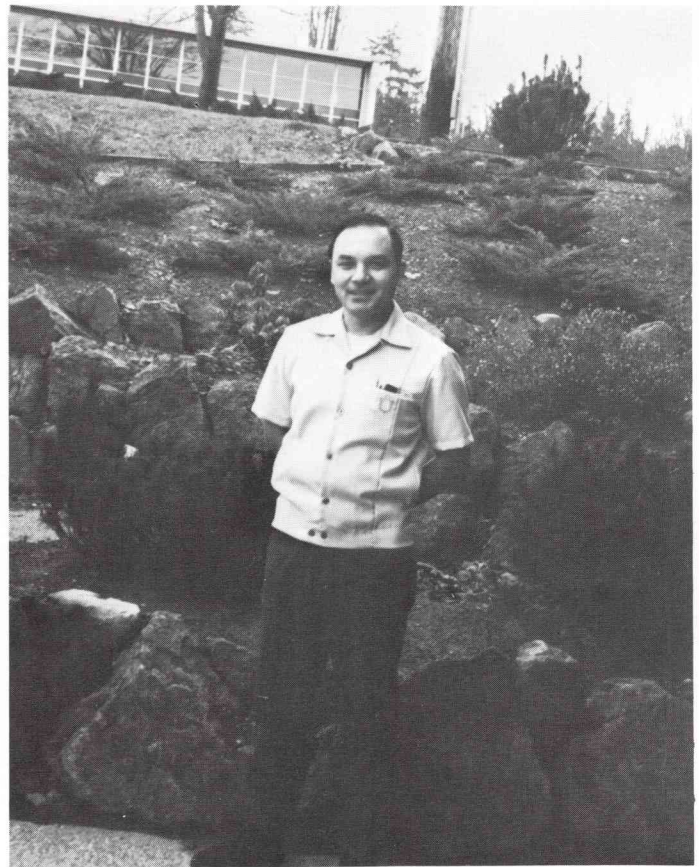

Co-ordinator: Laurel Melin

Servicemen's M.I.G.

SERVICEMEN'S M.I.G.

This year a new Missionary Interest Group was organized, the Servicemen's M.I.G. Song-fests, spaghetti feeds, Christian entertainment and sincere friendship were offered by group members to Seattle's large military population through a major project—the organization and operation of a "Servicemen's Center."

Co-ordinator: Peg Smith

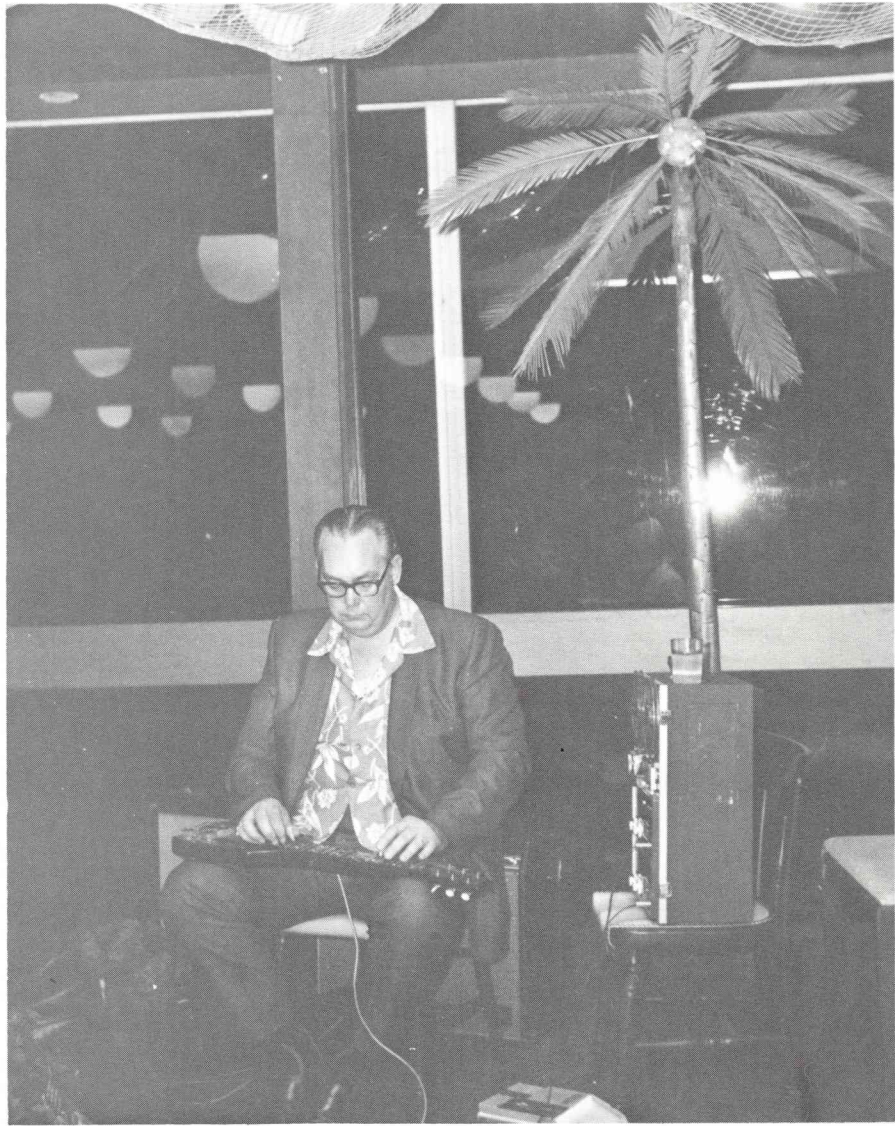

WORLD MISSIONS M.I.G.

"From College Halls to the Lands Afar" was the theme for the World Missions M.I.G. activities. Directed by Peg Smith, the group purposed to maintain a missions emphasis on campus through correspondence, prayer requests, and chapel services. Thus a vital link was maintained with the field.

Cafeteria

For more than one reason, N.C. students could be found swarming three times daily toward the cafeteria. Not only was the inviting prospect of food before them, but also, the cheerful atmosphere provided an "out" for those looking for a few moments of relaxation and fellowship. An added feature at mealtimes included the new hostess, Mrs. Roy Southard.

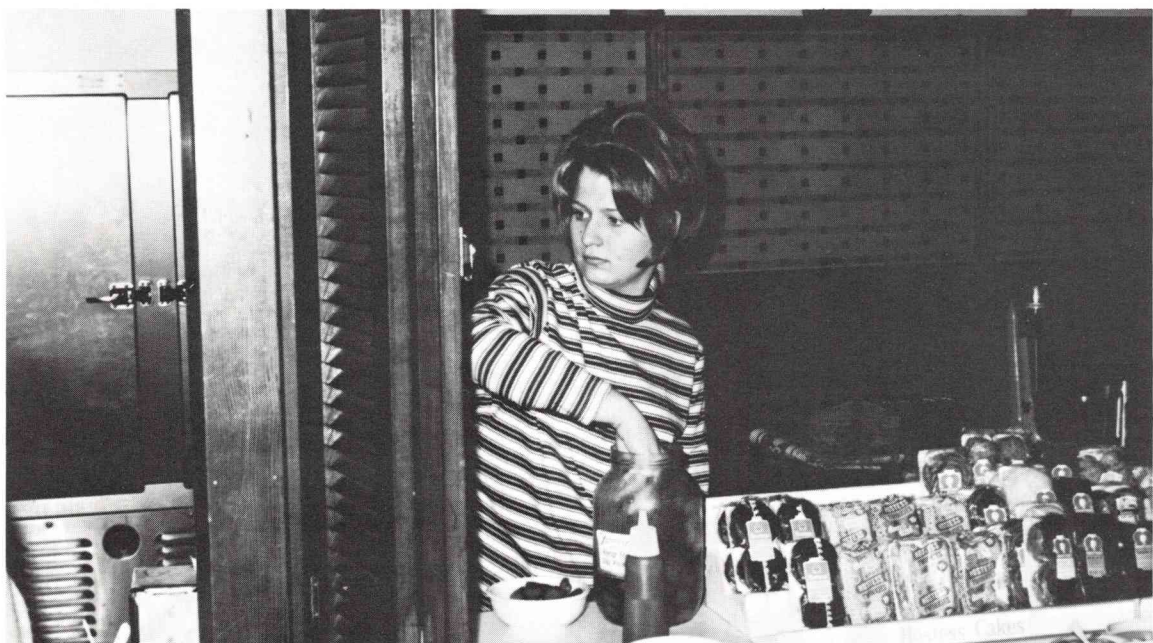

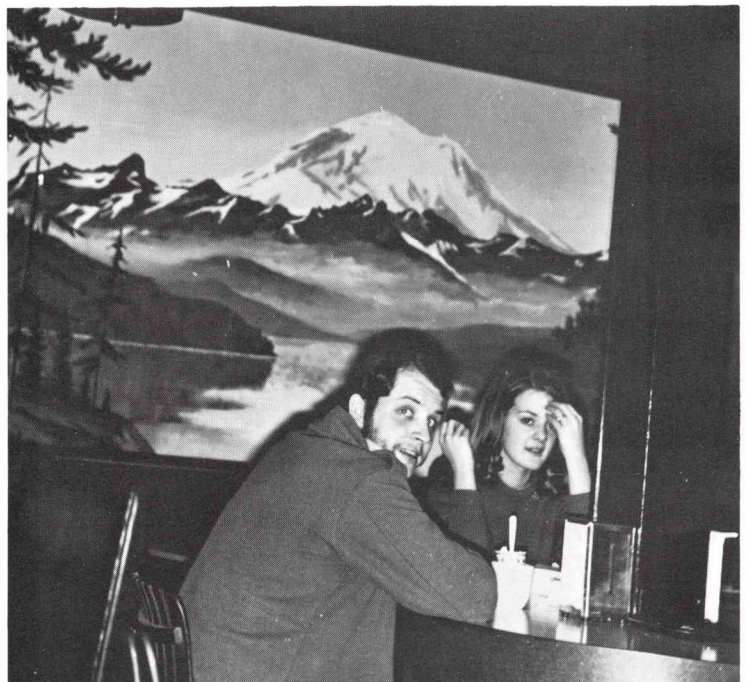

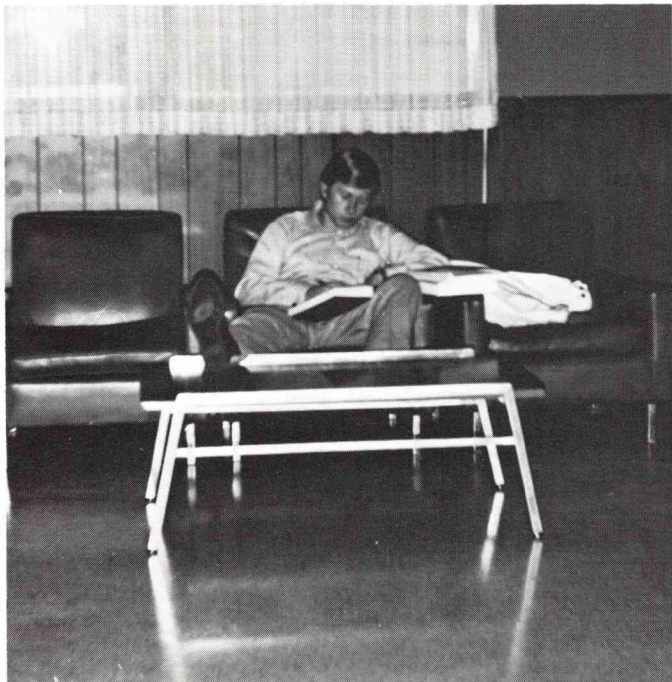

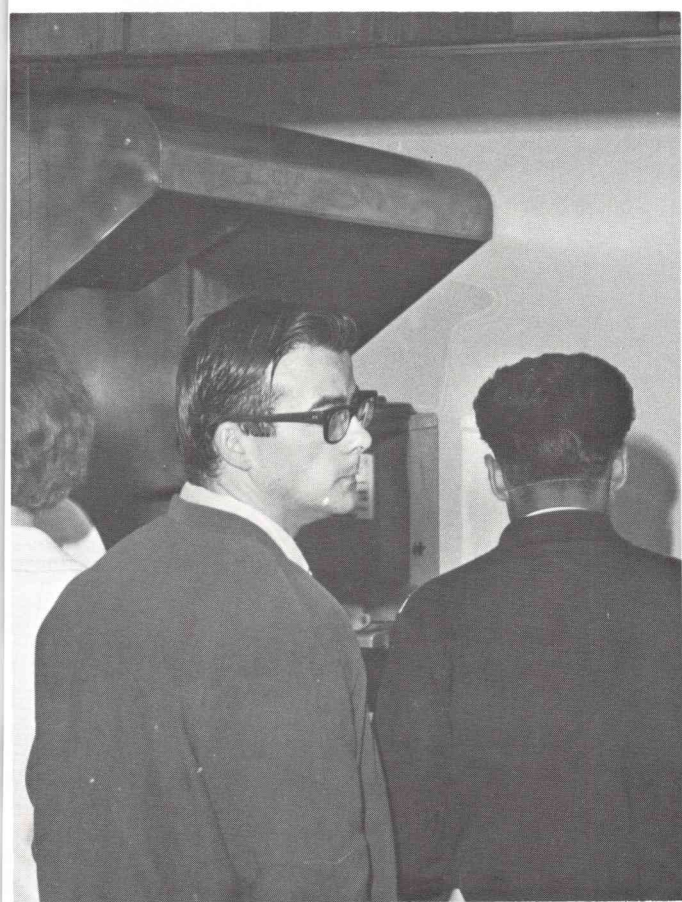

Seth Greenhaw
Head Cook

Student Union Building

The Student Union Building, better known on campus as the SUB, was a favorite campus hang-out. Here students would gather at all times of the day and utilize the various facilities offered them. The popular "Snack-Shack" provided snacks and treats at various times of the day, in addition to a place for relaxation and fellowship for students. Practice rooms offered valuable space for musical groups to meet, and the prayer chapel was perfect for those in search of a quiet place for prayer.

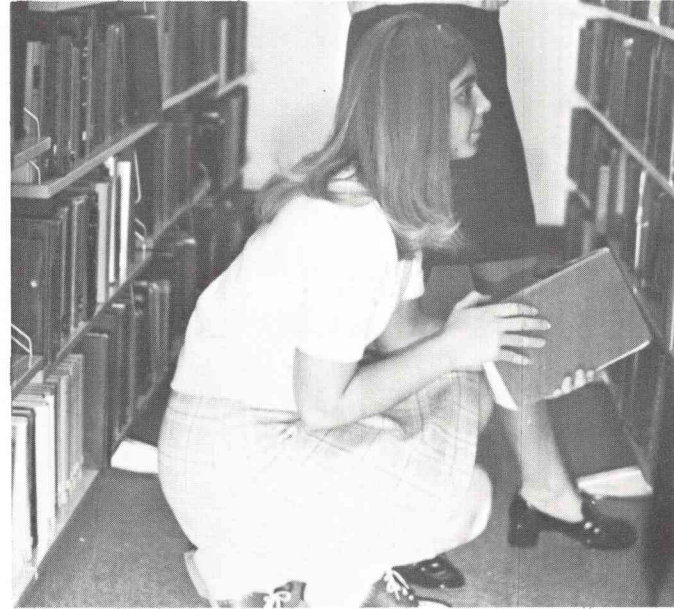

Library

Located beneath the chapel, N.C.'s library is perhaps one of the most frequented and indispensable areas on campus. Scores of students daily pore through the shelves of research material, which ranges from theology to badminton. Recently a copy machine was installed for use by those willing to submit a fee, as was a coin-operated electric typewriter.

Bookstore

The campus bookstore, located in the SUB, was both a valuable and interesting spot for students. Everything from textbooks to stereo albums, and stationary to P.E. gear, could be purchased here, and large selections of items kept students and faculty pleased.

Maintenance

The maintenance crew silently raked, plunged and swept their way around campus last year as they maintained order and neatness on grounds and in buildings. Members of the crew could be found daily on all parts of the campus, keeping it in tip-top shape.
