YEARBOOK THEME

I'm looking forward to looking back. Sitting in a colorless, windowless office trying to finish yet another yearbook deadline, I dream of seeing this book that you now hold in your hands -- complete. However, seeing the completed book is more satisfying knowing the many hours of work our staff labored over it. My competing feelings about this book most likely echo many of yours about different times in this school year. Perhaps, in the middle of the work and excitement of it all, we also just want to be done with all the craziness. Yet, when it is truly and finally over, we will look back on the events of the year and reflect on what we'll miss. That class that caused us so much stress also forced us out of our comfort zone and caused us to grow and learn. Growth is what these years are about, whether we grow academically or personally or spiritually. We gain a different perspective at the end of the year as we look back. That's why our staff picked the theme Retrospective as a fun way to express these mixed feelings. You may revel in this yearbook. We hope that's so. Or you may casually flip through it, find your photos and those of your friends, and toss it in a box to take home for the summer. It may wind up in the attic or at the back of your closet. Waiting. And, maybe, in ten or twenty years, you will pick it up again, laugh over your fashion choices, and remember old friends. Retrospection in action: the past meets the present.

Juliana Born
Karisma Editor 2008-2009

As a child, I spent many hours looking at my parents' high school yearbooks. I learned the names of their friends, read the comments they had written, and developed a sense of who my parents had been as teenagers that informed my view of them as adults. In contrast, I have spent almost no time as an adult looking at my own high school and college yearbooks. As I get closer to the 50-year mark in my life, I find that I am spending more time tracking down old friends on Facebook, and thinking about those early years of my life and what they meant to the whole of it.

If my experience is an indicator of most people's lives, this yearbook will be read intensely for a week, then put on a shelf or in a box for a long time. The years of courtship and marriage, followed by parenthood and career building, will put most of today's students far into mid-life before they begin to think much again about their days at Northwest. Assuming that to be the case, I want to write to your future self—not to the bright, young, hopeful college student you are today. I write out in the future, 20 to 30 years from now. I want to say to you that you were right to dream as a student, and it is right for you to dream again. You're past 40 now, and much of what you hoped for as a young person did not work out the way you expected. You accomplished some things you never expected to do, and you failed at some of the things that seemed most important to you. You may be discouraged at mid-life, and perhaps you have even stopped believing in the dreams you once placed in such high importance. But I have a word for you.

Dream again! As you review this book at midlife, remember the idealism of your youth. Mix it with the lessons of experience. Pick up your paintbrush, your musical instrument, the tools of your artistic self, and dare to create again. Fill the air with music, fill a scrapbook with mullage, fill a journal with musings. Fill your mind again—it's probably time to go back to school for a graduate degree, or another one. Most of all, fill yourself up with the Spirit of God, and dare to dream again. The dreams you embrace and pursue at midlife will be more productive and produce more satisfaction in your old age than the dreams of early adulthood. You'll become so busy in pursuing them that you won't have time to look back at this book for another 20 years.

And when you do look back again in your truly mature years, the golden years of grandchildren and grand memories, I pray that you will be able to thank God for the role that Northwest University and its people have played in a marvelous, creative, and fulfilling life of dreams, re-dreams, and Joel 2:28 dreams—the kind old men and women are promised.

Retrospectively,
Joseph L. Castleberry, Ed.D.
President

- o 1 Students graduate from Salem Bible College.
- o 2 The Seahawks' building will now house faculty and administrative offices for Northwest University.
- o 3 The Health and Science Center in January of 2007.
- o 4 A construction worker puts up the walls in the Health and Science Center in June 2007.
- o 5 Students walk to class with the newly completed Health and Science Center behind them.
- o 6 The Seahawks' old field that Northwest athletes now use.

Last year, Northwest University experienced two big changes: the completion of the Health and Sciences Center and the arrival of a new President, Joseph Castleberry. The 2008-2009 school year continues to bring change and growth to the Northwest campus.

Now that the HSC is complete, Northwest has renovated both Fee and Williams' Hall. The newly renovated Williams Hall includes the Jacquelyn F. Randolph Advising Center, named after Professor Jacqui Randolph who retired last year, while Fee Hall is the new home of the English and Language faculty members.

After twenty-five years of the Seahawks residency on the Northwest campus, the team has moved to Renton, leaving Northwest a 10-acre plot of land and a 45,000 square foot building for university use. Soccer and track athletes also train the old Seahawks' field. Additionally, the staff and faculty that are currently in the 6710 building will eventually occupy the Seahawks building. The integration of the Seahawks building and the Northwest campus provides easier campus access for students living in the apartments.

EXPANDING UNIVERSITY

This past year Northwest acquired Salem Bible College, a small liberal arts college in Oregon. This partnership is sure to bring new relationships and new opportunities for both institutions.

Northwest is not only growing in size physically, it is also continues to expand academically. U.S. New and World Report's "America's Best College" listings of 2009 ranked Northwest University 16th out of 319 Tier I, four-year colleges. This news comes as Northwest adds to its graduate programs. The College of Ministry now offers two new graduate degrees—Master of Arts in Theology and Culture and Master of Art in Missional Leadership. Dr. Joseph Saggio oversees these new graduate programs as the Dean of Graduate Studies.

This year has brought many changes to Northwest, and the coming years promise that these changes will continue under President Castleberry's leadership. Northwest students anticipate what the next exciting chapter in our history will bring.

o2 Eric Wade, Jadon Haynes, and Taylor Martin lead students in worship out on The Green.

o5 Mikel Adame and Kenneth Priest take some time for worship and reflection during the candlelighting service.

o9 Jessica Croshaw, Alyssa Young, Martha Tracey, and Havilah Hunt are excited for Orientation.

Orientation is actually students' first real taste of Northwest University life. They get to know one another and learn about various aspects of the campus. Orientation also involves students in fun activities such as small groups, an ice cream social, scavenger hunts, community service, and a candle light worship service. Dedicated leaders guarantee the success of NU orientation, which strives not simply to familiarize students with the university but also to help them become friends with other members of their new community.

- o4 Todd Sitting received an award for his humorous dance routine.
- o5 Annie Ashley laughs about the judges response to her original song that she sang and accompanied.

Elect NU Talent 08

As our nation was caught up in the excitement of the election, Northwest's campus had its mind on another election to come. We 12 candidates entered our race with one goal in mind- to be elected NU's most talented. It was a bitter rivalry from Aladin's "I can show you the world" to a crowd pleasing speech by candidate Jason Wong. But when the ballots were all in, the electoral count was definitive with Nadine Keels securing the hearts of NU citizens with her interpretation of the Old Testament through slam poetry.

SCREAMING EAGLE WEEK

Screaming Eagle week got off to a good start as students dressed up in their floor colors to support their team at that night's dodgeball game, FOA won the game. Next came Twin Day and Floor Decorating day. Each floor received a book theme, and the 500 floor won the honors with its Dr. Seuss decor. Then Wednesday brought the infamous game of Treevivor, and people wore duct tape to show some spirit. Representing the 500 floor, Julia Johnson ultimately outlasted all the discomforts of the tree and won the competition. Students were feeling a little hot the next day because they wore as many layers of clothes as possible. Thursday night brought a new event called "What's Your Limit?" which took place in the HSC. The games included a challenge to put as many clothes pins on someone's face as humanly possible. Once again 500 floor won the event. To end off the week, everyone wore school colors and enjoyed The Floor Olympics. After three hours of physical and mental games that brought laughter, pain, and gross food, 500 floor took home the gold.

Story by Tiffany Kent

- o 1 Ariel McNamara, Heather Edin and Kristine Blosser dress in both their floor theme, Alice in Wonderland, and floor colors.

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

- o 1 Bill Owen leads Northwest in a hymn during the convocation chapel.
- o 2 President Castleberry and Paul Banar participate in NU Community Serve Day.
- o 3 Sarah Drivdahl shovels bark to help out in NU Community Serve Day.
- o 4 At the candlelight service, Pastor Phil worships along with other members of the Northwest community.

For the 2008-2009 school year, Northwest has added several new members to its faculty. In the College of Arts and Sciences, Lenae Nofziger joins the faculty as Assistant Professor of Communications after teaching as an adjunct here for over ten years. Christian Okafor is a new Assistant Professor of Biology, and Daniel Tomandl is an Assistant Professor in Physics and Math. The College of Ministry welcomes Alan Ehler, Associate Professor of Pastoral Ministries; Brad Embry, Associate Professor of Bible; and Joseph Saggio, Associate Professor of Practical Theology as well as Associate Dean of the graduate program. Meanwhile, Ron Jacobson now serves as an Assistant Professor in the Graduate Educational Program. In addition, the School of Nursing now includes Dorthoy McKim teaching as an Assistant Professor of Nursing.

o 9 Christy Wolyniak, Lacey Sherard, Lindsay Horne, and Kaitlyn Clouse at their floor retreat in Bellingham.

o 10 Clarissa Apostol and Karlene Anderson have fun at the All-Hall Fall Carnival.

Perks 100 RA, Kaitlyn Clouse, chose Hosea 10:12 as her floor verse: "Sow for yourselves righteousness, reap the fruit of unending love, and break up your unplowed ground; for it is time to seek the LORD, until he comes and showers righteousness on you" (NIV). She wanted to remind her floor to cultivate their hearts; in order for Christians to grow fruit, they must prepare the soil.

Guy 100 "The Fearless" RA, Melody Anderson, picked Isaiah 40:10 as her floor verse to remind her floor to be fearless. It reads, "See, the Sovereign LORD comes with power, and his arm rules for him. See, his reward is with him, and his recompense accompanies him."

Beatty 100 "The Kingdom Knights" RA, Anthony Salinas, wanted his guys to live a life dedicated to God, so he selected Deuteronomy 30:15-19 as the theme verses for his floor.

Perks 200 "The Keepers" RA, Liliya Semenyuk, used the story of Zacchaeus to come up with her floor theme.

Guy 200 "The River" RA, Kirsten Phillips, liked Isaiah 30:21. She decided to make it her floor theme because it reminds her floor to stay close to the river and let it refresh you no matter what you are going through.

The Beatty 200 floor is known as "The Zoo," and the RA is Geoffrey Sankey.

Perks 300 "The Sisterhood" RA, Janelle Schrag, felt God calling her to use John 10:10 as her floor verse as a challenge to live life to fullest.

Guy 300 "The Redhots" RA, Tina Klasse, used various passages from Isaiah 61 to come up with her floor theme of "Refined."

Beatty 300 "The Brotherhood" RA, Zackary Smylie, saw the lack of male leadership in the church, so he chose 1 King 2:1-2 as his floor verse challenging the floor to be men of God.

Together the 300 floors have named themselves "The TriForce," and their goal is to be united, spirited, and inclusive.

o 1 Matthew Moroni and Ashley Cameron enjoy S'mores at their floor retreat.
 o 2 Janelle Arzamendi moves into her room on Crowder 400 during Orientation.

o 4 Angelica DeAnda paints on Lindsey Bothel's arm during the All Hall Fall Carnival.
 o 5 Chanda Moellenberg, Janelle Arzamendi, Kristin Stemke, Lauren Vlas, and Matthew Castro sit around a campfire at their floor retreat.

In order to encourage fresh starts and new beginnings, Angelica DeAnda, RA of "The Honeybees" on Crowder 400, picked 2 Corinthians 5:17 as her theme for the year: "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come!"

Gray 400 "The Hornets" RA Taylor Maritn wanted the guys on his floor to realize they are an image of God, Imago Dei, as Acts 17:28 says, "For in him we live and move and have our being." As some of your own poets have said, "We are his offspring."

o 9 James Jorgensen, Jadon Haynes, and David Welk enjoy a floor dinner at Wendys.

8 Kelsey Horn, Brittany Shulz, Kirstin Babauta, and Jaclyn Williams at the Dick's Run, a 500 floor tradition.

9 Whitney Guckert, Julia Johnson, Angela Crawford, Kelsey O'Brien and Jaclyn Williams are all smiles after completing the corn maze.

10 Kirstie Perron, Amy Akiyama, Carlen Harris, and Angela Crawford enjoy the corn maze.

11 Alyssa Varner, Sarah Hutton, Miche Jones, Jordan Hole, Emily Holman, Kelsey O'Brien, Amber Smith, Jessica Weaver, Theresa Teini, Angela Crawford, and Whitney Guckert settle in for a Disney movie night on their floor.

Proverbs 3:5-6 are the verses the Crowder 500 RA, Angela Crawford wanted to challenge "The Chicks" with: "Trust in the LORD with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make your paths straight."

Gray 500 RA, Jordan Skolrud, chose James 1:12 as his floor verse, calling "The Ducks" to perseverance. The verse states, "Blessed is the man who perseveres under trial, because when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life that God has promised to those who love him."

o 1 Zackary Bylsma, Juliana Melin, and Samara Erb enjoy the outdoors.
o 2 Ebany Herd, Mikayla Helin, Chandra Hinkle have fun hanging out together.

o 4 Michelle Brown and Brady Beard at Starbucks after a football game.

Crowder 600 "The Potter's House" RA, Nicole Lacasse, is challenging the girls on her floor to let God mold and shape their lives based off of 2 Corinthians 4:7 which reminds them that "we have this treasure in jars of clay to show that this all-surpassing power is from God and not from us."

Gray 600 "The Roughnecks" RA, David Kramer, wants the boys on his floor to live a life of integrity as it says in Proverbs 13:6: "Righteousness guards the man of integrity, but wickedness overthrows the sinner."

Living in the student apartments is a rare opportunity. At what other phase in life will I have roommates with shared interests and beliefs? When, on a teacher's salary, will I ever afford a fully-furnished, suburban apartment with a view of the waterfront? Where else will I have a resident staff prepare study breaks, bake cookies, and make popcorn for me? In what universe will I be able to send an email and get my sink fixed the next day, free of charge? In the apartments, I get to host friends for dinner, be in control of my hours, and sink into my couch at the end of a rough day. Here, I am: home.

ARTS & SCIENCES

The broadest of Northwest's schools, the College of Arts and Sciences offers students an impressive variety of Undergraduate majors, minors, and certificates ranging from Environmental Science to English and History, plus Religion and Philosophy. Students learn academic and practical skills that will further them in their chosen professions, skills which also influence their Christian lives and careers.

SOCIAL & BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Northwest's College of Social and Behavioral Sciences is a relatively new graduate program. Students expect to come away with a Master of Arts in Counseling Psychology or a Master of Arts in International Care and Community Development. This program, designed for adult learners with full schedules, allows students to earn a degree through evening and weekend classes. Instructors strive to accommodate individual needs of the students while encouraging them to focus their attention on the individual needs of their future cases. Students become close-knit, as class sizes and structure allow for relationship building.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

As a Secondary Education major, I know the ins and outs of the program. I truly value and appreciate the experience that Northwest's School of Education gives to its students. We take methods classes simultaneously with the in-class Practica. So I am able to take what I learn from the professors and apply it in a hands-on manner in the junior high classroom in which I teach. The NU ED students and faculty have become like family, and I will be sad to leave them when I graduate this Spring. However, I will leave the program with the confidence that I am prepared to walk into any Language Arts classroom and be a successful teacher.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

As a Business Management major, I have learned life-long skills. A highlight of my experiences at NU has to be the event the Business Marketing department hosted for the non-profit organization, Itafari. In Professor John Bacon's words, "We bit off more than we could chew, but did it successfully." Our Marketing class set a goal of $10,000, but with over 150 attendees, we raised $22,000 through the silent auction, purchases of goats, raffle tickets and private donations. We all agreed that God was behind us throughout the entire event because of the way things just fell into place. Not only were we able to share the love of Jesus Christ through this event, we also gained skills and experience that we will use in our future endeavors as business men and women, and we grew closer as business students and friends. Before this year ends, we will have also marketed the Beatles cover band, Crème Tangerine, one of the top ten bands in Seattle for corporate parties. Additionally, some business majors have the opportunity to travel to Australia to study international business. The Northwest School of Business has provided many opportunities to use my "class" skills in the real world.

COLLEGE OF MINISTRY

There's nothing quite like the College of Ministry at Northwest University. It boasts a collection of incredibly talented faculty, sweet pizza parties, and its profs even pay you to help out at church. Plus, in what other department are half your classes in a sort of permanent portable? Sure, the thundering of one's every step on the hollow floor makes sneaking into class late a bit difficult, but hey, it's home. The best part about the College of Ministry, though, is its people. The administrators of the College are both helpful and friendly, and many of its professors are absurdly knowledgeable in their respective fields. They also take a genuine interest in their students' lives and are always willing to meet with them outside of class, whether to discuss their lectures or simply to share their sage wisdom. College of Ministry, you are a rare gem.

I am being well-trained not only for a career but also for Christian ministry. The classes are challenging but rewarding, especially when I use my nursing skills to help real people. The Senior trips, which allow students to experience health care and ministry as a nurse overseas, are also an amazing requirement for nursing students!

STUDENT SENATE

Senate, a bridge that connects the student body and administration, exists to provide a greater voice for the student body and to further improve the community of Northwest University. Senate has equal representation in every student's living situation from the dorms to the Firs, or the apartments to off-campus living. Our executive team and class representatives serve as senators, and this group has worked this year in varied ways: procuring a school mascot to attend all home games, finding cost effective bus passes to better aid student transportation, working on successful open dorm policies, and helping provide a lounge for commuter students. We anticipate that Senate will grow into a strong governing body on this campus and will ever strive to initiate positive change.

NU STUDENT GOVERNMENT

In the 2008-2009 academic year, the NUSG Executive Team has sought to provide NU students every opportunity to become involved in all aspects of the campus community. Once known as ASB, the NUSG members are excited for the new role that the NUSG Senate will play on our campus as we introduce new activities and improve traditional ones. We want to increase the number of ministry opportunities for student involvement in Kirkland and Seattle, and we are introducing new co-ed intramural sports, hoping to involve more women in them.

As a team, we realize that Jesus must be at the center of everything we do, so in every campus activity and every encounter with students, we seek to honor Christ. Throughout the year, we have lifted up every part of the NU campus in our prayers to seek God's will in all that we do. It's exciting to see God work in the lives of everyone at NU and to see the growth in maturity of each person as they follow God's call. We take seriously the responsibility of leadership at NU, and we feel humbled for the opportunity it brings.

Many students do not realize the time and effort it takes to publish our yearbook. Fewer have visited our office, a small, cramped space shared with the Talon located in the Pecota Center. However, our wonderful staff has helped reduce the stress. Juliana Born our editor has made this year fun and relatively easy for the rest of the staff. A detail-oriented person, she catches all mistakes, thereby adding quality to our yearbook. Elizabeth and I, as layout editors, put together all of the spreads throughout the yearbook including placing photos, naming people, and writing stories. Finally, our photo editor, Thien-An Lai, attended almost every event on campus to capture all the great moments. His hard work has definitely contributed to the quality of our yearbook. Our hard work has paid off to bring you an excellent yearbook this year.

Mondays at 3:30p.m. sharp, six over-committed, passionate women stumble into the Talon office, each with a notebook and coffee in hand for a meeting filled with Sun Chips, the smell of whiteboard pens, Panini's, ab-burning laughter, and complete creativity. Focusing on the knowledge of campus changes, student life, and diversity, these Talon editors then put together their vision of a successful publication "written by students, for students." With a goal to captivate and relate to every audience at Northwest, Advisor Kara Heinrichs, along with Editor-in-Chief, Lindsey Cressey, gathered the staff-- Rachael Harris (writer), Michelle Meade (writer), ReBekha Smith (photography), and Stephanie Tell (advertising)-- in weekly brainstorming sessions that led to a monthly publication of a 12-page newspaper. Early in the semester, the Talon staff also joined with Ministry Intern, Angelique Sofie, to enhance the depth of ministry news on campus, ultimately placing Angelique as the Talon's ministry staff writer.

With satire and student opinions sprinkling the pages, each issue has progressively improved in quality and content. Kara Heinrich's expertise in media has aided the student staff in the new processes of layout design, conducting interviews, and finding newsworthy stories. With a tabloid style front page, the Talon looks to ReBekha Smith for excellent photography, and each issue includes her creative photo journal to appeal to the current visual generation of Northwest.

As the year has progressed, interest in the paper has increased and advertising has helped advance the Talon financially. So that the Talon Journal would become a self-supporting activity on campus, Stephanie Tell has worked hard to line up numerous companies to advertise in the Talon's publications.

With high goals and expectations, the Talon Journal has re-emerged at Northwest as a quality publication for both alumni and students. This year's staff have seen amazing visions and growth in the Talon, and their service acts as a starting point for a long tradition of excellence in media on campus.

DEBATE TEAM

“A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold.” Proverbs 25:11

Eagle Debate seeks to fulfill the mission of Northwest University to train students for leadership and service. Debaters strive for excellence in competition, maximize their potential as critical thinkers and public communicators, and live out the values of the evangelical Christian worldview in their personal and academic relationships. Eagle debate typically attracts ten to twelve students who participate in parliamentary debate. We meet twice a week for two hour practices and discussions and attend as many as 10 tournaments each year. Our program has produced winning debate teams. A highlight of 2008 – 2009 was attending the Pan Pacific Championships at Hawaii Pacific University and placing second. Team captain this year was Morgan Chinn. Outstanding senior was Kevin Botterbusch. Most improved was Tiffany Dikeman.

Synergy Vocal Jazz

With eight vocal performers and a full rhythm section, Synergy performs songs from the historic Great American Song Book composed between 1930-1970 plus classic gospel songs from our Christian heritage. Synergy performs rhythm and blues, swing, Latin rhythms, and ballads at banquets, service clubs, churches, conferences, and ministry outreaches. The ensemble also performs two major concerts a year on campus and has competed at the Lionel Hampton Festival for several years.

Northwest University Jazz Band

This sixteen member ensemble is classified as a symphonic big band swing jazz ensemble in the tradition of Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Benny Goodman, Woody Herman, and other great bands of the 20th century Golden Big Band era. The group performs two major concerts a year on the NU campus and also plays for church outreach functions, fund raising events, and concerts in surrounding communities. The Jazz Band has also represented the University at the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival.

The Northwest University Concert Choir consists of 55-65 students, both music and non-music majors. This year the Concert Choir allied with the Rainier Symphony, a full-sized, professional orchestra in the community. In this cooperative effort, the Concert Choir provided choral support for the symphony concerts, (2 per year), and in turn, Rainier Symphony provided orchestral support for the Choir's program. It proved a great blessing and a wonderful opportunity for our students to participate with professional musicians within the local community.

In the fall semester, in addition to singing at the Fall Graduation Chapel service, the Concert Choir had a major role in the Christmas Concert where they sang several a cappella Christmas anthems, a number of John Rutter arrangements of Christmas carols, and Handel's Hallelujah chorus; the major Christmas work was "Gloria" by Antonio Vivaldi, a twelve movement work written for choir, soloists, and orchestra.

In the spring semester, the Concert Choir performed a concert in May, (which consisted of three main segments: Collegiate Choral music representing all the musical periods, Large Hymns and Anthems – Church Music, and Spirituals); they also sang at Commencement and conducted a regional tour of local high schools and churches.

NU Concert Choir exists to glorify God in musical performance by singing the great music of the masters in the way the music was intended to be done, and to expose students to the great body of classical choral repertoire, underscoring the rich musical traditions that we have inherited.

My passion is to utilize great music in order to create experiences where audiences can be transported from the mundane, everyday stresses of life to a place of transcendence and sublimity. Thus, musical performance is not merely musical performance, but a sacred moment when beautiful music creates the conduit for our spirits to connect with God's Spirit, resulting in our lives being changed forever by the glory of God.

Over the past years, the ministry of the Northwest Choralons has been an integral part of Northwest University. Led and directed by Brenda Rasmussen, Northwest Choralons is a choir and band made up of 120 students who, together, provide a music ministry not only to our schools and churches in the northwest but also to surrounding states and countries. Northwest Choralons has recorded 5 CD's which have been generously received in the community. Performing songs ranging from contemporary Christian music to timeless hymns, the Northwest Choralons plus their music and ministry have refreshed and encouraged many.

CHAPEL & PURSUIT

In his work, "Reflecting on the Psalms", C.S. Lewis writes: "It is in the process of being worshipped that God communicates His presence to [us]." While Lewis is correct, it is equally true is that God communicates His presence every hour of everyday through His creation, through interaction with His people, and in many other personal and planned ways. Our God is a great God who has woven within His creation His own initials, and accept it or not, we are God's greatest expression of His existence and presence. Knowing and believing these words to be true, how can we do anything but fall to our knees in worship? Pursuit is a weekly opportunity for NU students and the surrounding community to worship our Creator. Not intended to take the place of a personal and daily time with the Lord, worship at Pursuit allows individuals to grow in knowledge and intimacy with Christ by coming together publicly and declaring their love and their need for Him. Praising God also includes serving one another, our communities, and ultimately the world. We are meant to know more about the Lord, and then to share that knowledge with others who do not. At the end of the day, it is as C.S. Lewis points out: when we seek God's presence in worship, He shows up. We have seen God's presence in our gathering times, and we have also seen growth and enrichment of individual believers within our NU community- the presence of God is powerful and transformational. What an amazing privilege it is to come together and worship a God who is holy, righteous, sinless, and the lover of our souls. It has been an honor to worship with you all in Pursuit on Monday nights.

This year's small group ministry, the NU Crews, proved once again to be a strong force on and off campus. With over forty student leaders, and hundreds of members, Crews set the tone for unity at Northwest. Crews meet a variety of different interests and needs on campus: Crews that visit prisons and spread the Good News through worship and dramas; Crews that delve into the traditions, languages, cultures, and cuisines of different countries; Crews that help the rhythmically challenged by giving swing dance lessons; and Crews that gather around a warm fire and a hazelnut latte at Starbucks. Crews provide outlets for students who desire spiritual involvement beyond that of chapel, a break from the dorms that never sleep, or a vacation from midterms and research papers. Crews offer students special connections with their peers, mutual prayer, and growth in their relationships with God. Students can serve others, learn a foreign language, brainstorm song ideas, and develop lasting friendships. The leaders, visionary and sacrificial, are impassioned to serve, to see NU students serve their own campus, their outlying communities, and the world. As another academic year ends, the text books close, and dorm rooms empty, but Crews' service and fellowship still pulse in the hearts and actions of all who participated.

My husband wasn't home, so I directed the caller to our friend's apartment; perhaps he had some luck there. During the fall, it is not uncommon to encounter recruiters such as these looking for players for their intramural teams. Intramural sports give all Northwest students a chance for some healthy competition, and all they really need is time and interest to play. Various teams, made up of participants from individual dorm floors, as well as FIRS, student apartments, and off-campus residents, vie against each other for some friendly competition. The fans dress up and cheer for their teams, providing great support and ensuring a fun team spirit. This year Andy Weber, the intramural coordinator, has added ultimate frisbee to the list of intramural sports that already includes football and powderpuff football, basketball, and volleyball.

A great year all around, the 2008 Men's Soccer Team made the conference playoffs for the first time in conference history; the team has represented NU with character and class. The team chemistry worked well this year, adding to our success in making the playoffs. An excellent team is always great to coach, and this year's team has been extra special. We graduate eight wonderful, spirited players this year, and we will miss them but look forward to next year's excellence as well.

Story by Coach Gary McIntosh

NU's Women's Soccer team started off the year better than ever before. With only seven returning players, and only three from the first year of the program, 2008 has been a season of growth. Yet with ten new freshmen, we hope to make this our best year so far.

Our new program has seen many changes; however, our core is unyielding in its relentless passion, perseverance, and hard work. Eagle fans have come to know and expect this excellence from the women's soccer team.

The year's highlight came when the team earned a spot in conference play-offs, and the players also finished high enough in it to earn a home bid. From scoring goals with 34 seconds left, to participating in their first Conference play-off, to tenaciously risking themselves for the benefit of the team, the team's enthusiasm and joy were exciting and obvious. "When we're on the field, we know we're not just playing for ourselves," said Junior captain Brittney Marshall. "We're playing for something so much bigger than that. And when you go out there everyday playing hard for each other, it's so much more fun."

Working hard for each other, on and off the field, does come with some rewards. Captains Shauna Marshall and Brittney Marshall made First Team All-Conference, while sophomore Britannique Clayberg, freshman Kirstie Perron, and freshman Jordan Holmes all won honorable mention. Senior Shauna Marshall and junior Rachael Harris were also honored as members of the CCC's All Academic team.

These players are not just individual women on a soccer field: they refuse to settle, they push each other to the limit, and ultimately, they have fun, all while glorifying God in the beautiful process. The NU Women's Soccer team did not play only for wins and losses this year, they played for something far greater.

This season has been a season to lay the foundation for the future as coach John Van Dyke welcomed three freshman, four sophomores, three juniors, and only two seniors to the team. The team suffered a big loss in December when senior wing Greg Spurgetis broke his wrist in the overtime loss to #1 ranked Oregon Tech on December 19. His wrist required surgery to repair, and since he would possibly be lost for the remainder of the season, Coach Van Dyke moved freshmen Rich Skillman and Jason Waltman into roles which gave them more playing time and experience. Sophomores Lucas Ashe, Greg George, and Greg Peters have also contributed in a big way for the Eagles. Junior transfers Blake Solomon and Daley Landon and returnee Nate Rheame solidified the line-up with their experience. The lone remaining senior, Eddie Coulson, has been a solid performer for NU as a starter and co-captain. Freshman Nathan Downs and sophomore Josh Bollinger also have helped make the future for the Eagles a bright one. NU hopes to make the Cascade Conference playoffs this February, an event that would help the young team gain valuable experience for next season.

DAVID & PATTI OLESON

David and Patti Oleson are special people: they have spent their lives serving God in different ways, and that includes not only students at Northwest, but also the people of many nations. Together, they have visited twenty-seven different countries and have lived in six or more. Yet, their travels make up only a part of their stories. For the last 10 years, Dave has been an Assistant Professor of Math and Missions here at Northwest, with a goal to teach students not only the knowledge of numbers, but also a working, compassionate heart for people, and he has been successful at both. Patti, the Curriculum and Admin. Services Coordinator for LEAP, has also served the students and faculty here at Northwest. In fact, our LEAP staff says that she is the glue that holds their program together. Together, they make a dynamic team. We have often seen them eating lunch together in the cafeteria, the love of 40 years of marriage sparkling in their eyes. Ever ready to lend an ear to a struggling student or an overwhelmed colleague, David and Patti maintain their love for God, their love for each other, their service to others, and their love and service for the nations of the world. This year, we say goodbye to David and Patti as they travel again in adventures and service that God has ready for them. While they will most miss the specific opportunity to reach NU students for missions, we have no doubt that they will maintain their influence in missions wherever God sends them. Thank you, Dave and Patti. You embody the heart of God in your love for each other and your compassion towards people. You are two who live to see His Kingdom come, and His will be done on earth as it is in heaven, and it is truly our privilege to serve His purposes together with you.

THANK YOU

Many people put in countless hours of hard work to produce this yearbook, and I want to thank each person who contributed to our finished product.

My staff, Thien Lai, Tiffany Kent, and Elizabeth Tumusime, worked diligently through tough deadlines, software failures, and unexpected obstacles. Elizabeth, even with your busy schedule, you always finished your pages with time to spare. Your calm attitude during stressful deadlines and your sense of humor were welcome additions to the yearbook office. Tiffany, let me know when you get that Adobe wand that fixes all our software problems! Even without the wand, you still did a great job on all your pages; you accomplished everything I assigned you with a great attitude, and you made yourself available during the late night, last minute deadlines. Thien, we may have great ideas, but without your pictures, this yearbook would not be half as good. Thank you for your dedication to providing the beautiful shots that make lasting memories.

ReBekha Smith, when Karisma couldn't make it to an event, you were always willing to share your pictures with us. Merlin Quiggle, thank you for all the photos that you allowed us to use in the yearbook as well as the time you invested to teach us PhotoShop techniques. The yearbook would not be complete without the professional shots you supplied. Merlin's photos include pictures of the Health and Science Center, Salem Bible College, Concert Choir, Choralons group picture, the ASB group picture, the Student Development group picture, some of the Debate pictures, the Jazz and Wind Ensemble group pictures, and the vast majority of the sports pictures. Rosemarie Kowalski, your support and encouragement throughout the year were invaluable. Paul Banas and Jan Hicks, thank you for taking care of the budget and seeing what the yearbook can become. John Mabbot, providing our staff with all the student photos plus names saved us many hours of work. Julia Young, you sacrificed your time for the cause of proper grammar and better writing in the yearbook. Elisabeth Kraus, you were an essential part of getting everything together for the dedication. Mike Archer, you were quick to respond to my questions that I had and always made time in your schedule to train my staff and me in anything we needed to know regarding InDesign. Ben Strickland, the Karisma staff came up with the idea for the theme for the yearbook, but you took this theme to another level. Thank you for lending your creativity and expertise to Karisma. I also want to thank Private Screening, a vintage boutique in Fremont, for lending us the vintage glasses for the cover shot.

To all the students and staff who contributed stories or photos to the yearbook, these add another level of personal touch to the yearbook.

And to all the Northwest University students, thank you for all the memories of this past year.
