

NBC WELCOMES NEW FACULTY MEMBER

What sort of teacher do students remember? They will undoubtedly remember the teachers who made them remember. Although our first quarter at Northwest Bible College is not yet complete, we recognize that Miss Williams is gifted with the art of teaching, acquired not only from Teachers' colleges, nor from meditation and practice, but from the fact that her heart is in this work of service for our Lord.

Mary Maxine Williams lectures in a calm, confident, concise manner sometimes she mixes in bits of "homespun" illustrations that coincide with the lesson.

Miss Williams was born in Plattsburg, Missouri. She graduated from the Northwest Bible and Missionary Training School in Minneapolis. In Minneapolis, she taught four years at the North Central Bible Institute, at the same time attending summer terms and the Valley State Teachers' College in North Dakota. She also attended the Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield, Missouri, and night school at the University of Minnesota. Later she came to Seattle and took her B.A. degree at the Seattle Pacific College with Christian Education as a major.

To gain first hand information for her missions course at N.C.B.I. she spent two months in Cuba during the summer of 1948.

Her father was a Church of the Brethren minister, and a school-teacher and accountant. Her mother, even though

MISSIONARY BANDS ACTIVE

The Mission bands are an intricate part of the activities of the college. Each student is a member of a band in which he has the most interest.

Each of the eight bands have two officers, a leader and a monitor. Following are the names of the bands with their officers:

Alaska: Alvin Peterson; Minnie Brubaker
Latin America: Gerald Lopas; Joyce Schroeder.
Europe: Clayton Johnson; Ruth Robinson.
Homeland: Ronald DeBock; Velma Baalam.
Africa: Claude Jones; Louise Ahrens.
Islands of the Sea: Francis Beardsley; Bobbie Roberts.

A missionary council carries on the business pertaining to the general missionary enterprise of the college. The three general officers were chosen by the student body at large. James Hamonn was chosen president, Robert Little, vice president, and Evelyn Hodges, secretary-treasurer. They together with the leaders of the bands constitute the Council.

The bands meet during the chapel period each Friday morning. Specific needs are brought before the individual bands pertaining to their field. Much of the time is spent praying for these needs.

Interest is also stimulated by missionary speakers both in chapel and in the individual bands. Rev. Paul Wright from Nyasaland, Africa, showed some movies of that country to the student body on October 10. On October 13 the students were inspired by the ministry of Mrs. Nettie Juergenson, missionary to Japan, both in chapel and the Oriental band.

Rev. and Mrs. Maurice Petersen spoke briefly on November 9 and showed pictures taken in the Belgian Congo, Africa. They told us they were making plans to return to the field as soon as finances are available.

Letter writing stimulates interest in most of the bands. The Oriental band received letters from James Vigna on the Tibetan border and Fred and Kathleen McGrew of Singapore. Brother Ketcham has written to the India band. Former students in pioneer work are the main correspondents of the Homeland band.

More materialistic projects are also being carried on by some of the bands.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Greetings! from the Northwest Bible College to the great host of our friends throughout the Northwest—to the constituency of the nearby districts of the Assemblies of God who have prayed and labored together to make this college an instrument in the hand of God for the salvation of souls—to the former students of Northwest Bible College scattered abroad throughout the world and heralding the glad message of Christ's soon coming.

It is a happy occasion that through the medium of this school paper we are brought closer together, and are kept informed of the whereabouts of our great family.

Each year finds our college making forward and progressive steps. Additional subjects have made the curriculum of better service to those preparing for the ministry. The curriculum this year has more Bible content than any other previous year in the history of the school.

The new library with over 5,000 volumes of reference books, supervised by a trained librarian, is proving to be a blessing to the college.

The addition of trained, godly instructors has brought the student ratio to one teacher for every 20 students, which results in better work.

Other improvements have been added to the above, the design and purpose for which has been to make better workmen for God. I keep ever before me the great objective of our college, to prepare young men and women to effectively carry out the command of the Lord Jesus Christ: "To preach the gospel to every creature."

This divinely inspired purpose of our existence as a school is as a beacon light to guide us through the dark passes of other ends, though they be ever so noble.

C. E. BUTTERFIELD,
President.

To Know Christ and To Make Him Known

This subject represents the twofold aim, our goal, of all who are followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. It should be even more so concerning those who are in Northwest Bible College, preparing to go out into service for their Master.

The first essential is TO KNOW CHRIST. It is not to know about Him, but to know Him in a personal way. This will come through a diligent student study of the Word of God, and through an earnest, regular and consistent prayer life. To know Him it is necessary to associate with Him, and to keep in constant touch with Him.

Then it will follow that the one who knows Him will have an earnest desire TO MAKE HIM KNOWN. "What the world needs is Jesus." These young people, saved, and baptized with the Holy Spirit, have what this world needs. This knowledge of Christ is not to be kept to ourselves in a selfish way, but it is to be imparted to others. This is not to be accomplished only by being in the pastorate, or in evangelistic or missionary work. There is the daily contact with people who are in need of Christ, and the saved person is to be alert for opportunities to witness for Christ. It was not said to a few, but to all, saved people, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me."

OUR ALUMNI CIRCLE

Since this is the first issue of our paper we invite all of our alumni to participate in making this an interesting column. We have already received several letters from our alumni telling of the wonderful way in which God is moving in their field.

Miss LILLIAN BACH, '38, writes of how God is confirming His Word with signs following the ministry of a native worker in Nigeria, Africa. She would like to encourage our prayers for her work.

Another interesting letter reveals that GENEVIEVE WHITE OLSON, '45, is working in Cordova, Alaska.

BROTHER DAVID SCOTT, '38, writes from Cuzco, Peru that God is helping in the time of difficulty and tells how the Lord is meeting the need down there.

MR. AND MRS WARD WOODS, 1943, are leaving for Paris, France, on November 31 from New York Harbor. After ten months of language study they will go to the land of their calling, French West Africa. TWILA WOODS is the sister of Rev. VIRGIL DICKINSON, our Alumni President.

Another recent wedding is that of LEROY HOPKINS and LORAIN ATKINSON, both of the 1950 class. They were married on September 30, 1950, with Brother Beatty performing the ceremony.

We extend our congratulations to MR. AND MRS. MAY, the former Opal Ferguson, 1939, on the birth of a son, Blaine Franklin May. They are residing in Payette, Idaho.

HARRIS LIDSTRAND is now home in Seattle after an extensive evangelistic tour of the North Central States.

For you who live in and near Seattle, we are pleased to announce the formation of the Seattle Chapter of the Northwest Bible College Alumni Association. The date for their first meeting has not been set, but JEANETTE FINCH, '44, the Alumni Association Secretary, says that it will be held soon.

AMOS MILLARD, '48, is now in his second year as the Registrar of our School and is being assisted by Jean Finch as Assistant Registrar.

GOSPEL TEAMS

One of the most blessed parts of the Northwest Bible College is the ministry of the gospel teams.

Souls are being saved; for example last Sunday night a soul was saved at the Weller Street Mission for which we rejoice. Christians of the various assemblies are being encouraged and edified, as attested by the numerous telephone calls and letters received by the school stating their appreciation of the services given by the teams.

Above all, it is proving a great encouragement, and valuable experience and blessing to the students themselves.

Greater stress has been placed on practical work of the student body in regards to outside activities this year. In the past the students volunteered or formed their own gospel teams under the supervision of the school.

This year the student body was divided into seven gospel teams with the requirement that each student attend at least on group assignment per week.

Reverend Allan Ellis is the supervisor.

The following leaders were appointed: Gerald Lopas, team one; Robert Little, team two; Morris Hayes, team three; Claire Richards, team four; Lindsey Hayes, team five; Hubert Rhymes, team six; Howard Lanphear, team seven.

STUDENT COUNCIL HIGHLIGHTS

Again this year the students of Northwest Bible College have their own student council to represent the students to the faculty. The Student Council program was instituted only last year and they accomplished a fine work on behalf of the students. This year Lindsey Hayes was installed as President, with May Dalan maintaining the secretary-treasurer position.

The Student Council urges all the students to bring their tithes and offerings to the school on Monday mornings and it becomes the privilege of the Council to purchase the needed equipment which would help in spreading the blessed Gospel of Christ. This group this year is financing the traveling expenses of our school's seven Gospel Teams.

Out of the decisions already made by the Council, the decision not to print an annual this year was the most important. Most of the students are working and would be unable to devote their spare time to the "Karisma" and so it was felt the newly-organized Journalism class could edit this monthly paper. We have a fine student body this year, but the enrollment is down to about 160 so the financial burden would be too great to publish such an annual.

NEW FACULTY MEMBER . . . from Page 1 seven children graced the Williams home, found time to care for a number of other children, needy people, and students who lived with them while attending high school. This was a healthy Christian environment, which probably accounts for the fact that today all of the seven Williams children are in full time gospel work.

The youngest brother, Morris Williams, is a missionary in Nyasaland, East Africa; the oldest brother is a teacher at the Southern California Bible College; and her sister, Mrs. Paul Schoonmaker, is a missionary in North India; and the others are ministers' wives.

Miss Williams has been a pioneer in gospel work, part of which has been in the woods of Northern Minnesota.

Sunday School Organization, now her favorite subject, was made practical by experiences in North and South Dakota, and Montana, where she held teachers' training classes and conferences for a number of years.

Miss Williams confided that sewing and knitting for seventeen nephews and nieces was her hobby.

Miss Williams taught American History, Speech, and Practice Teaching this term, and will be teaching Introduction to Christian Education, Advanced Speech, Practice Teaching, and Church History, this coming winter quarter.

CHAPEL NEWS

Greetings from the President, Reverend C. E. Butterfield, were welcomed in chapel Friday morning, October 27, when the President returned from a recent trip to Chicago.

A great challenge to young people trained and ready to help others was given by Sheriff Harlan S. Callahan of King county, when he spoke to the students of Northwest Bible College on Wednesday, October 25. Sheriff Callahan closed leaving this thought with the student body: "A prayer only takes a little time. A minute here and there does so much."

Reverend Butterfield spoke on Wednesday, November 1, using Revelation 1:10-20, to bring the student body to the realization that Christ can and should be an ever reality in our lives.

The students welcomed Miss Mildred Zoppelt's selection, "Make Me a Blessing," which she played on her accordion Tuesday morning, October 31. Following her solo, Claire Richards read Nehemiah 8:1, and spoke of a Bible-based revival.

With enthusiasm, the students and faculty gave the chapel hour on Monday, October 30, to the Mission-Aires, a men's quartet and pianist traveling the United States to win support for the Christ Ambassador "Speed-the-Light" endeavor.

Robert Little spoke one morning on "Ninevah—wasn't it wicked?" His closing remark was, "The world is on the rocks. It is our challenge to let people fall on the Rock."

A Tuesday morning favored us with a selection from the men's quartet. Richard Hartman, Claire Richards, Oscar Lindseth, and Leonard Emory sang "Glory in My Soul." Following this number Philip Lanphear spoke on "Wisdom, Knowledge, Understanding," using Proverbs 3:13-24 for his text.

Mrs. Mollies Perks, our Dean of Women, was welcomed as chapel speaker on Monday, November 6, by all of the students. Her subject, "Your body in the temple of God!" She used I Corinthians 6:19-20 as her text, explaining that God was in our midst, God was with us, but now God dwells within us.

Reverend Donald Fee spoke to the chapel listeners on Wednesday, November 8, speaking on Philippians 1:21, For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.

NEW BOOKS IN BOOK STORE

The Northwest Bible College book store has recently received a new shipment of books, which includes, "Dispensational Truth," and "Monk in Armour." The book store also has a new selection of song books for solos, duets, trios, and quartets.

The "Monk in Armour" is a novel based on the life of Martin Luther, and is written by Gladys H. Barr.

Other books are, "What Meaneth This?" by Carl Brumbock; and "Smith Wigglesworth's Apostle of Faith" by Stanley Frodsham. "With Signs Following," by Stanley H. Frodsham and "Egermier's Bible Story Book" by Elsie Egermier.

Miss Joyce Schroeder, book store manager, urges those interested to take advantage of the special offer in regard to the Schaff-Herzog encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge. If you order through the book store by November 30, you will receive your volume 13 free.

Miss Schroeder says students may pay $4.05 plus tax when you receive your monthly edition.

BAND AND CHOIR PERFORM

The N.B.C. Band and Choir joined forces Sunday, November 12, when they sang and played at Evangel Temple. Bro. Delbert L. Cox, director of music, feels as many others do, that there is a great ministry in gospel music and singing and that no gospel service is quite complete without it.

Among the choir members there is: a girls' trio composed of Shirley Detling, Ethel Meyer and Lois Hutchinson; two soloists LeRoy Alsopp and Agnes Agnew.

A radio program is being planned for the near future by the Choir and Orchestra.

All students, who possibly can, are urged to join ranks with this group for the next quarter.

Piano Needed

The work of the Lord in Petersburg, Alaska, is in dire need of a good piano. If you have a good one which you would like to donate for this cause, please contact Claire Richards, Alaska Missionary Band, c/o Northwest Bible College, East 69th and 8th Avenue Northeast, Seattle 5, Washington.

STUDENTS HAVE GET-TOGETHER

The students of the Northwest Bible College met October 28 for a time of recreation and fellowship in the Post Intelligencer auditorium at Fifth and Wall Street.

The party was sponsored by the Social Committee of the faculty which appointed two students, Oscar Lindseth and Hannah Johnson to organize the program. These, with the aid of other students, planned an uplifting devotional program, an interesting recreational program, and the evening was climaxed by the serving of refreshments.
