"FOR THE STUDENTS"

Northwest College exists for Christ and His people! It is for the students, so many of whom have a ministry call on their lives, and all of whom are encouraged to think of life ministry regardless of their chosen occupation.

Key campus developments are now in progress and will soon be finished "For the Students," including:

1. A total refurbishing of the student center exterior.
2. The development of part of the academic quad, between the library, the student center and Millard Hall (including much needed new stairs).
3. An all new athletic field for soccer and intramurals.
4. New tennis court surfaces. How they have needed it!

The cost of these projects is $154,000.

Is believed that the Friends of Northwest would like to step forward one more time and pay for these developments "For the Students."

These developments are well underway as I pen these lines and should be nearly all finished (except for final landscaping) by the time they are read. What changes they make!

The student center was the only building on campus when the college acquired the property 30 years ago. It is structurally sound. The building has had interior work and rearrangement several times having served as cafeteria, classroom and library in times past. It may get more interior adjustments as use needs change. But the renovation of the exterior makes it look like a new building.

Located at the center of the campus, it will serve as a new "frontispiece" for the college, the main building one looks at as he drives up the new entrance.

East view of Student Center
(west view and interior on the cover)

The new athletic field is located at the center of the lower campus, too, and right next to the single student residential area. It will receive much use for soccer, intramurals and other activities. Automatic sprinklers are installed so that a high quality playing turf can be maintained.

The academic quad is located between the library, Millard Hall and the student center. Eventually it will be a lovely arrangement of plazas, benches, conversational areas and planting strips. The current developments will fit into the long-range plans. The quad will be the academic center of the campus.

And the tennis courts! How often we have had requests for their resurfacing! Installed when the college first moved to Kirkland they have long needed re-development. Now they will get it. No more turned ankles and balls bouncing unpredictably. Tennis will be fun again and the students will love those who make this possible.

So the projects are underway. The Board of Directors acted in faith and said, "Do it! We're sure that the Friends of NC will pay for them."

These projects are not "income producers." Therefore, they have to be paid for "as we go."

I hope you can help us do this--one more campus development project "For the Students." If you can help, fill out the form below, tear it out and send it to me. I will look forward to hearing from you.

I, too, believe the Friends of NC will help us pay cash for these fine improvements.

PASTOR BOOHER GIVES CONVOCATION ADDRESS

The Convocation Chapel is one of the highlights of every new school year here at N.C. Rev. John Booher, pastor at Willamette Christian Center in Eugene, Oregon, delivered the Convocation address.

Pastor Booher has also pastored churches in Colorado, Kansas and Michigan prior to coming to Oregon. He graduated in 1965 from Central Bible College in Springfield, Missouri.

Brother Booher's message out of Genesis about Joseph being "Chosen to Serve" God and His purposes for the children of Israel was a tremendous inspiration to students, faculty, and staff.

Rev. John Booher

The 1989-90 Theme is "Chosen to Serve"

N.C.'s 55th Year is Underway

TARGET 2000

The world is looking towards the year 2000. Many believe world changing events will occur in the decade of the 90's. Our Lord may return by the year 2000. But--He said, "Occupy!" At Northwest we intend to do that; and the time has come for the college to look ahead and with more fervor to "press towards the mark."

Northwest College has set goals and is laying plans to meet the challenges it will face in the next decade. N.C. is taking aim on the year 2000. It is "stretching" itself in faith and action to be all it is destined to be under God, to fulfill its divinely given mission and to be a dynamic, vital part of the Decade of Harvest.

The goals have been set and strategies are being developed with the year 2000 in mind.

The Board of Directors and the college community have brain-stormed, dreamed, and established the following goals. Achieving them under God and with His help will make the "gem" called Northwest College shine even more brightly and enable it to carry out its mission even more fully.

Christian service then will have entry, intermediate and advanced levels. This will result in a personal placement file covering the academic work, Christian service and leadership development of each student.

PASTOR AL MUNGER NAMED COLLEGE PASTOR-IN-RESIDENCE

Pastor Al Munger

Pastor Al Munger has been named Pastor-in-Residence at Northwest College by President Hurst. Pastor Munger served Christ Memorial Church in Poulsbo for thirty-three years. He and his wife Erika will live in the Firs, the married student housing complex of the campus. Pastor Munger has an office in the student center and is available to the students for counsel and prayer. He will speak in chapel regularly and in residence hall devotions.

"This is an exciting and new concept for Northwest College,"--President Hurst said in announcing the appointment, "Pastor Al is a pastor at heart. He will have little assignment but to be 'available to the students' with Bible in hand, a warm heart, and a readiness to spend time with students. And living in the Firs will be special for Pastor and Mrs. Munger as they will be available to the married students, so many of whom will soon be in ministry themselves, and are now in their final formative years."

Erika Munger will coordinate the services of the "Pantry", the married student "food bank." Erika is excited about this opportunity to serve the students working alongside Pastor Al.

The following additional aspects of Pastor Al's job description highlight the key role he will have on campus:

- Serve under the President and in a collaborative role with the Dean of Students.
- Symbolize and model the highest possible spiritual life, commitment and ministry in a constant visible presence on campus.
- Serve during the weeks of the school year when classes are in session.
- Serve as a mature "pastor figure" on campus who is available to students for one-on-one conference, spiritual counsel and encouragement.
- Augment the efforts of the administration and faculty as all seek to promote total spiritual life and growth on campus.

HICKMAN/HODGES EN- DOWED SCHOLARSHIP ESTABLISHED

Long time business manager of Northwest College, Owen Hodges, and his wife, Doris, have recently established the Hickman/Hodges Scholarship.

In honor of Sallie Hickman, deceased mother of Doris Hodges, funds were contributed to the Northwest College Endowment Fund so that the earnings would provide an annual scholarship of up to $1,000.00 for Junior or Senior theology students at N.C. preparing for ministry.

Endowed scholarships are now playing a major role in helping ministry students training at Northwest College.

W.R. HURST SR. MEMORIAL SCHOLAR- SHIP ESTABLISHED

President D.V. Hurst has announced that the W.R. Hurst, Sr. Memorial Scholarship has been established to honor the life and ministry of his deceased father, W.R. Hurst, Sr.

The memorial scholarship just established by Hazel Hurst recognizes W.R. Hurst Sr.'s longstanding interest in Jewish ministry and provides an annual scholarship of approximately $1,000.00 to a Christian Jewish student enrolled at Northwest College or to a student interested in Jewish ministry.

W.R. Hurst, Sr. died after over 60 years of full-time ministry and service to Christ. His wife, Hazel Hurst, resides at Maranatha Lodge in Springfield, Missouri, and soon will celebrate her 96th birthday.

MAPS WORKERS MINISTER AT NORTHWEST COLLEGE

Major construction projects on the Northwest College campus created a need for MAPS workers to help regular employees during the start of the 1989-90 school year.

MAPS worker Charles Willard assisted our maintenance staff with the sprinkler system installation.

Charles and Florene Willard from Chula Vista, California heard about the need and moved their RV to the campus the latter part of August and worked through the first of October.

The Willard's assisted with landscaping and sprinkler systems for the new college entrance, in the dormitories and in other places around the campus. According to the Willard's, the beautiful fall weather, a fantastic campus and wonderful co-workers made this MAPS experience one of their most rewarding.

As a gift to N.C., the Willard's made a beautiful piece of cut glass which they placed in the prayer room at Guy Hall.
