NORTHWEST COLLEGE • ASSEMBLIES OF GOD

From the President:

MINISTERS NEEDED

I received a report from the General Secretary's office stating that, the rate of gain in numbers of Assemblies of God ministers has slowed down since 1983. And, "we have declined in actual numbers of Christian workers since 1983," the report said. Furthermore, it was noted that "recent losses in enrollment in our colleges merit monitoring this important source of our ministers." The overall growth has been "healthy" for the decade just past.

I called our General Secretary, Rev. Joseph R. Flower concerning the report and he verified it.

Now that's where NC comes in. It's our business to challenge your people to respond to the divine call and then to train and equip them for the ministry.

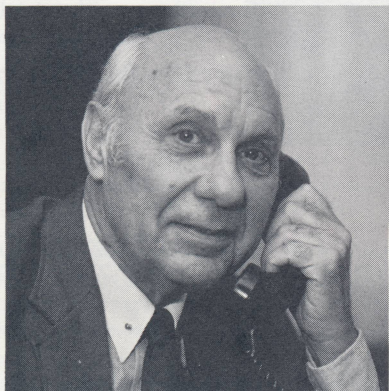

And that's where you — our pastors, churches and NC friends — come in, too.

The response to call to the ministry starts at the local church altars, at the youth camp altars, in the Sunday School classes. Children, young people, sons and daughters need to hear ministry, think ministry, anticipate ministry. There's nothing like it in all the world! No other occupation is so rewarding!

You can do nothing better than challenge a young person to respond to the call!

What a fulfilling and exciting life it is!

I suppose there's nothing that stimulates response to consider ministry more than a

the Assemblies of God

pastor who loves what he does and communicates that love to children and to young people. They see the living example and then say to themselves, "That's what I want to do. I want to be just like pastor _____" (put your name in there my friend and ask, "Is it happening where I serve?")

My father-in-law, A.F. Berg, (now deceased), but well known in our fellowship, pastored one church for twenty-nine years (Sioux Falls Gospel Tabernacle, First Assembly in South Dakota). I believe the greatest joy of his life was the fact that he could point to at least twenty-nine young people who had gone into the ministry under his ministry.

And I was blessed just the other day. Two separate stories came to me about two young men, one now in the ministry and another in NC heading for ministry. It was said I paid special attention to them "way back" when they were young. They never forgot it. One was said to quote the things I said to him repeatedly. The other said, "A college president paid attention to me. I must be somebody."

When I heard it, the verse, "Cast our bread upon the waters . . ." came to mind. So that's where it's at. Ministers are needed and will be needed.

It's in our hands to exemplify, to challenge, to encourage, to lead, to support, to train and educate and then send out ministers. And that's where NC and the local church work together . . . under God!

"MISSION 600" NC Sets 1986-1987 Student Subsidy Goal

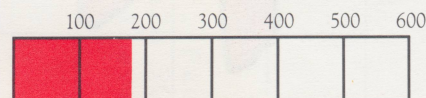

Mission 600, the 1986-1987 fund raising drive has been launched by Northwest College. The "Mission" is to raise a subsidy for each of the approximately 600 students at Northwest College of $258.00. One church in the Northwest District has already committed to 100 shares. Funding and Endowment Board members representing the Montana District have committed to raising 41 shares, one share for each student from Montana. A church in Alaska has committed just over 23 shares. And there are others. Each supporting state is well on its way. What a tremendous start! Friends and Alumni are receiving information regarding their participation in this program. Help perpetuate the Mission of NC — the Great Commission carried out through the lives of 600 men and women enrolled at NC. Be ready to respond this year!

MISSION 600

The goal is 600 shares of $258.00 subsidizing each of the students at NC.

Rev. LaVon Kindall

STEWARDSHIP CONSULTANT APPOINTED

During the recent annual Centurion dinner, the President announced the appointment of Rev. LaVon Kindall as the new Stewardship Consultant for NC. He is an Assemblies of God minister with a long background in fund raising and administration. For the past fourteen years he has been serving as the Director of the Alaskan Youth Village in Juneau. He will assume his new duties December 1. Working with Dr. Randy Barton, he will be giving special attention to the Funding and Endowment Board activities and direct fund raising for the College.

Students:

THESE CHOSE NC

As the 1986-87 school year began in September, one thing became quite evident: many of the sharpest Christian young people from across the west chose NC as the place to further their education. We are proud of all our great NC students, but "these" are the "cream of the crop."

Once again we have a large number of quality students in the scholastic area. According to our records there are thirty of our new students who earned a high school grade point average of 3.5 or higher out of a possible 4.0. Of the thirty, twenty were ranked in the top 10 percent of their graduating class. Three of these were ranked first in their class (two had GPA's of 4.0), one was ranked second in his class, and two were ranked third. Our faculty always welcomes these academic achievers to our student body.

Five new students are here this semester who were winners in their District of the National Youth Scholarship (Mr./Miss CA). The winners are: from Montana — Mike Gunnarson and Michele Wiebe, from Alaska — Ginger Olsen, and from the Northwest District — Jonathan Cawston and Loria Carder. Each District chooses one or two winners who are Assembly of God high school seniors, on the basis of scholarship (ranked in the top 20 percent of their high school graduating class), citizenship (active in their church, school and community), and commitment to Christ. We are thrilled to have these outstanding youth on campus and are happy to award the 1986 District winners a $1,000 scholarship, ($500 per semester during the fall and spring).

Some other very talented youth also chose NC this fall. Twelve new students who were Teen Talent winners at the District and Regional Level came through the registration line and began using the scholarships NC provides for these musically talented youth. Three Bible Quiz winners also became NC students, to further their study of the Book they have begun to love. These fifteen Teen Talent/Bible Quiz winners will receive a total of $27,900 in scholarships from NC, by the time they graduate, because we believe in their potential for ministry.

In the area of athletics we have some very talented new students this year. Tonya Ashbooks, a 5'4" left-handed guard and honor student from Teiton, Washington, will be a starter for the NC girls basketball team. She played volleyball and basketball for Highland High School and attends Stone Church in Yakima. She had scholarship offers from several community colleges and one from George Fox, but chose to come to NC. God is helping her finance her education, without the benefit of athletic scholarships. She was looking for a school that would provide excellent Christian fellowship and training, and she found it here at NC. Bill Berger, a 6'7" freshman, was an "All State" basketball player from Colorado Springs, Colorado. Though highly recruited with many scholarship offers, he chose NC, to answer God's call. Another new talent for the "Eagles" is 6'8", Jay Anderson. He finished high school in Independence, Oregon, with a GPA of 3.96 out of a possible 4.0, and is now preparing for full time youth ministry.

These are quality Christian men and women who chose to train at Northwest College, and there are more. Maybe you'd like to join the number?

DAVE ROEVER: A CALL TO HOLINESS

Northwest College students, faculty, and administration heard as it were, the echoes of the voice of John the Baptist in the ministry of Evangelist Dave Roever as he called for holiness, during the College's Fall revival services, October 6-10. The call that "thundered" forth from the pulpit of the College Chapel was unmistakable. Students commented: "It was awesome. It was penetrating. It was convicting. It was moving. It was authenticated by the evident presence and power of the Holy Spirit. It drew a clear and a sharp line between what the Word of God sanctions and what it condemns and what it forbids."

It was to this kind of preaching to which scores of Northwest College students along with faculty responded during the services which were designated as the "Fall Revival" services at the College.

The scars of war Dave Roever bears, and the God-given gift of wit, the clear powers of expression, and most of all, the anointing and gifting of the Holy Spirit, have been effective tools to give him the ears and hearts of young people.

Observed College President, D.V. Hurst, "The results of this week's meetings can hardly be measured by the usual externalisms of public services. They will be measured by the changes, the commitments, and the ongoing walk with Christ of all who heard the age-old cry "Prepare the way of the Lord."

DENNY DAVIS FEATURED AT ALUMNI CHAPEL

Pastor Denny Davis ('56) of People's Church, Salem, Oregon, and President of NC's Alumni Association was the speaker at the Annual Alumni Chapel. Pastor Davis challenged the students to be building their lives on things that will last. THE BILL FLISRAM STORY

Almost One-Half Million Dollars In Service

I've been at NC over 20 years. But Bill Flisram has been here longer.

In 1965, my predecessor, President C.E. Butterfield, talked with Bill and his wife Mary. Bill had retired earlier from the Navy shipyards in Bremerton, Washington, where he had worked for over twenty years. But Bill wanted to serve the Lord at NC, and Mary, too. They came and Mary served as a Resident Dean for some thirteen years and Bill served in maintenance. Mary later retired, again.

But Bill is still at it! Over twenty-one years he has fixed . . . and fixed . . . and fixed. He knows the buildings and campus like the back of his hand. He loves the place . . . "pats" it like it were a grandchild.

He once crawled under a building and "cracked a rib or two," he said. A few days later he was back at it . . . working again.

Bill, cutting a replacement key, for one of the 1,500 or more on NC campus.

Bill takes care of all the keys . . . perhaps 1,500 of them!

Bill just goes on . . . and on . . . forever, it seems. How old is he? "Well, somewhere above eighty," he says.

What do we pay Bill? What social security would allow . . . if he were sixty-two . . . or sixty-five, somewhere in there.

Why? That's the way Bill wants it. He even tried to pay for his own gas, used on campus.

Now . . . don't tell Bill I told you all of this. He would be embarrassed . . . and wouldn't like it!

But I felt you should know. You see, in terms of today's dollars and what Bill would normally have been paid over what he was not paid for the 21 years he has been at NC, the value of Bill's contribution so far is probably $420,000. This has never been calculated before. And Bill probably would say, "Don't do it now!" But I know Someone who keeps "the books" and will reward!

Say, there may be a place for you at NC. Are you retired? Want to start again . . . and serve our Lord . . . here at NC. There's a place for volunteers — are you able and interested? Drop me a line.

PASTORAL MINISTRIES LECTURE SERIES

Pastor George C. Smith

Reverend George C. Smith, pastor of First Assembly of God Church, North Hollywood, California, will speak for the annual Pastoral Ministries Lecture Series, November 18-20. The theme will be "Foundations of Spiritual Ministry," with workshops on "Worship Ministry," "Preaching Ministry," and "Altar Ministry."

He was born in Ottawa, Canada, raised in a minister's home and attended Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Eastern Canada.

In his early years of ministry he pastored, evangelized and served as District Youth Director. He spent nearly fifteen years pastoring the Central Pentecostal Tabernacle in Edmonton, Alberta. In the summer of 1978, Pastor Smith assumed the leadership of Evergreen Christian Center in Olympia, Washington, which is one of the largest churches in the Northwest, and in 1983 moved to Southern California to pastor North Hollywood First Assembly of God, an historic church of the Assemblies of God.

He serves on the Board of Advisors for International Church Growth, an organization headed by Dr. Yonggi Cho.

Dr. Ray White, professor and coordinator of NC's Elementary Education Program, leading a session at the recent Association of Christian Schools International Convention in Seattle. Six faculty members attended.

STANDING IN THE MIDST of the archaeological ruins at the great theatre of ancient Ephesus the Flying Seminar group is listening to the guide very near the spot where the city clerk once stood amongst the wild confusion in the great riot described in the book of Acts chapter 19. Verberating against the vast cava of the 25,000 seat theatre were the deafening shouts of "Great is Diana." The riot testified to the impact of the Gospel of Christ preached by the Rabbi from Tarsus which so upset the economy of this famous commercial city that the merchants rioted in the streets, and here is where it was quelled. Ephesus will be one of many places where the 1987 Flying Seminar party will track the path of the apostle Paul and other apostles including John at Patmos. For reservations or for further information write "Flying Seminar," P.O. Box 579, Kirkland, WA 98083-0579, or telephone (206) 822-8266.

Sports at NC

1986-87 EDITION OF THE EAGLES

Many new faces will be seen wearing the "Eagles" uniform this 1986-87 season. We not only have a cast of solid returning veterans (Jeff Spurgeon 6'6", Jeff Dillon 6'5", Rick Wilson 6'4", Dave Lampa 6'), but also an outstanding crop of new players that any school would be thrilled to recruit. Bill Berger, 6'7" Freshman from Colorado Springs, Colorado, was a highly recruited "All State Player," who turned down many scholarship offers, because he felt God calling him to Northwest. 6'8" Jay Anderson, is a young man who not only stands tall on the basketball court, but also in the classroom. Jay finished his high school career with a GPA of 3.96 out of a possible 4.0. At this point Jay plans to be involved in Youth Ministry when he completes his education at NC.

The "Eagles" have also upgraded their schedule by joining the NAIA (District I) this year. They will compete with teams such as: Western Washington University, Simon Fraser University, Whitworth, and St. Martin's College.

Though this NC team will be young, they are very talented and Coach John Brown sees great potential in these hardworking Christian Athletics.

Coach Brown, a 1974 AA graduate of NC, loves coaching at NC, and put it this way, "being involved with the type of young men that play basketball at NC is a privilege and responsibility that I don't take lightly."

Soccer team in action in the Seahawk "Bubble."

VOLLEYBALL

The NC "Eagles" girls volleyball team have been in action since their first game on September 16 and finish their season at the NCCAA II Regional Tournament on November 8. Many new players were added to the team, joining three veterans: Rana Balzer, Angie Kavanaugh, and Priscilla Sykes. Coach Kristi Brodin is optimistic about the year stating "The team is looking strong going into league play and we are hoping for another league championship."

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The girls basketball team begins their schedule on November 28, and are "looking good" for 1986-87. Rana Balzer, an All American Honorable Mention, is the only returning veteran from last year's team that placed 3rd at the NCCAA Division II National Tournament. There is a lot of good, young talent on the team including: transfer sophomore, Cindy Landsiedel, and freshmen, Coral Howell and Tonya Ashbrooks. Coach Brodin comments, "We are looking forward to a quick, hard working team . . . what we lack in experience and size, we hope to make up for in quickness and hustle."

HOW TO EASE THE TUITION LOAD —

Northwest College Offers Tuition Bank, An Innovative Plan for Tuition Savings Now and in the 21st Century

Parents and prospective students are concerned about the increasing cost of tuition and the need to save enough to help with tuition bills. In order to give a hedge against increased tuition costs and encourage savings towards college tuition, NC has established a "tuition bank." Parents, grandparents and even children can buy tuition credits at NC's current cost and receive a tuition credit certificate of deposit in the name of a prospective student. Those credits can be used when the student is ready for College. The current cost per semester credit is $151.25 ($1815 for a full semester). To put the tuition bank program in perspective, if a parent would have purchased four (4) years tuition at Northwest College in 1970, the cost would have been $2,640.00. The value of those tuition credits at today's costs would be $14,520.00. A good investment and a great way to save for college. If tuition costs increase at the same rate, a semester of tuition purchased for $1815 in 1986 would be worth $10,205 in the year 2002.

Not only is the program a hedge against increased tuition, but the increase in the value of the credits is non-taxable and therefore the tuition bank may be a better choice than a savings account or trusts since taxes would have to be paid on the interest earned on the savings and in some instances even trusts.

What if the child does not attend Northwest? The actual amount paid into the tuition bank will be paid back if they desire to attend a different educational institution or if the funds are to be used for other purposes.

CENTURIONS HONORED WITH BANQUET

Who are the Centurions? They are contributors to NC who believe in the cause and purposes of NC and who strengthen and support its ministry and whose giving level reaches $1,000.00. They are like the centurion with whom Jesus dealt and who was identified as an intercessor and a man of faith.

NC and its Funding and Endowment Board honored the special group of individuals called Centurions with its annual Centurion dinner on Saturday, October 4, 1986. New Centurions honored included: Jerry and Inga Grothaus, San Jose, California; Jim and

Jerry Grothaus receives his "Eagle."

Kathy Gelder, Olympia, Washington; Harry and Thora Jean Bulger, Bremerton, Washington; Tex and Winnie Rutledge (NC administrator); Rev. and Mrs. Fulton Buntain, Tacoma, Washington.

The short program included Jerry Grothaus of San Jose, California, who shared his excitement in giving to NC. Jerry, a former A.S.B. Vice President, and class of 1956 graduate and his wife Inga work for I.B.M. In addition, President Hurst shared some of the history of the Centurion Fund. Dr. Randy Barton presented the mounted brass eagles to the new Centurions and shared the economic challenges private colleges such as Northwest will be facing the next few years. Student Body President Dareld Chittim stressed the financial challenges facing the students and the need for continued support from the Centurion group.

For information on how you can become a Centurion, contact Randy Barton at the Development Office at (206) 822-8266.

ALUMNI OFFICERS MEET

The Alumni Officers and executive committee of the Alumni Association met in October and announced the following items of interest to all Alumni and Friends:

1. Two additional Alumni Scholarships, would be awarded, bringing the total to six for 1986-1987.
2. The Alumni Loan Program for Students (ALPS) was formally approved. The program established by an alumnus of NC will create funds for low-interest loans to upper division students at NC. Alumni interested in contributing to this fund should contact the Development Office at (206) 822-8266.
3. Because of the conversion to the semester system and the early ending of school (end of April) the annual 1987 Friends and Alumni Banquet and Class Reunion Celebrations will be moved to the Fall. The date of September 25, 1987 has been set and will feature the 50th reunion celebration of the first NC graduating class.

CHANGES IN TAX LAWS

May Suggest a 1986 Charitable Gift

Substantial changes in the tax laws may suggest making charitable gifts before the end of 1986 to obtain maximum tax advantage of your giving. If you have considered a gift of property to Northwest College you should contact Dr. Randy Barton at the Development Office at Northwest College regarding how the tax law changes may affect you.
