Winter Quarter Enrollment 509

Winter Quarter enrollment at Northwest College reached 509, the Registrar's office reported today. This figure exceeds the same quarter last year by nine students and amounts to an increase of nearly 2% over last year.

The Registrar's office notes that nearly 57% of the quarter's enrollment is comprised of men while more than 42% are women. By classes the enrollment of the freshman class holds approximately even with last year while that of the sophomore classification is up by 11 students from last year. Juniors were up by 2 students over last year and seniors by 6 students. Four students are fifth-year students pursuing the Th.B. (Bachelor of Theology) program.

New students joining the ranks of those who are continuing from the fall quarter totaled 61, which stands as one of the highest number of winter quarter entrants on record.

The cumulative enrollment (counting each student once) thus far for the current academic year now stands at 588. It should easily exceed 600 by the time that the spring quarter registration takes place on March 20, the Registrar's office estimated.

The admissions office notes that the versatility of the college's schedule of classes throughout the academic year, facilitates easy adaptation to the curriculum for students to enter the college at the winter and spring quarters. The winter quarter enrollment figure stands as third highest on record in the college's 40-year history.

Dean Frank Rice congratulates Reed Tibbets, one of eighty-three students enrolled at Northwest College to make the Dean's List for the Autumn Quarter. To be eligible for listing students must have completed a full-time academic load on which they achieved a grade average of 3.3 or better. Tibbets, whose home is in Seattle, was among those attaining a 4.0 average.

The Eagles were very tired . . . but were triumphant after soaring to first place in the Pacific Northwest College Conference.

The Northwest College Eagles basketball team emerged from their victorious game January 26 with Multnomah School of the Bible, with a conference tie with Concordia Junior College and Multnomah. Led by John Brown and senior captain Mark Haines the team has demonstrated strong uniform play for the season. Coach Carl Kinney referred to the team as "an exciting group of young people."

Superintendent's Week At N.C.

STUDENTS MAKE VITAL CONTACTS WITH DISTRICT OFFICERS

Oregon students take advantage of Superintendent's Week to get an audience with Reverend N. D. Davidson.

Junior student Bernard Weber from Billings discusses future with Superintendent Robert Brandt.

Frank McAllister lunches with NC students from the Northwest District.

Fifth year student Charles Foster and senior student Kathy Bodtker lunch with District Superintendents Beard of Wyoming and Walkup of Southern Idaho.

Alaskan students enjoy luncheon interview experience with Reverend Willard Leisy of Juneau.

Nine students from NC helped install a new roof on the Sunday School annex of the Bingen Assembly of God as part of Operation Turkey '73. "I've never seen a group of young people as dedicated and determined to get a job done in my life," Pastor Ted Culbertson remarked. "They worked in rain and snow," he added.

The group not only assisted with the physical building needs of the Bingen church but helped in a Coffee House dedication, in a midweek local fellowship meeting, and with singing and preaching in the Sunday morning service.

Pastor Culbertson described the group's visit as the "turning point" of community interest in the church activities, with average attendance now more than triple that of pre-November records.

Alumni Alert!! It's lunch at the Swept Wing in Albany, Oregon, March 14 at noon. It's breakfast at the 4 B's Cafeteria in Great Falls, Montana, March 13 at 7:30 a.m. And it's an alumni breakfast at Roger's Cafe in American Falls, Idaho, March 19 at 7:30 a.m. More about these at District Councils.

Flying Seminar Scheduled For May

The fifth annual Flying Seminar to the Holy Land has been postponed until May 27-June 10 it was announced today at the college. The tour had been set for March but due to the fact that an insufficient number of members could go during March, the May tour is now in planning. Tour plans will call for the basic itinerary of the previous tour except that they will include Petra and Amman, Jordan instead of Turkey. The tour party will travel in company with another tour group from Texas, but will remain under college leadership, President Hurst announced.

Plans call for leaving from Seattle May 27, joining with the other party in New York for flight to Cairo, Beirut, Damascus, Amman, Petra, Jerusalem, Galilee, Tel Aviv, Athens, Corinth, and return to Seattle via New York. Cost of the tour is set at $1,049 from New York.

The College will offer the same instructional program and travel services as had been planned for the previous tour, it was announced. Persons desiring information about the tour are invited to write in to the Office of the President at the College. They will receive full details and news bulletins on the tour as it develops. Write to the Flying Seminar, P. O. Box 579, Kirkland, WA 98033 (Tel. 206-822-8266).

Alumni Musicale Receives "Well Done!"

Bud Tutmarc conducts "Calvary Brass" at Alumni Musicale.

A night of "Musical Jubilation" was enjoyed by many on January 19 following Spiritual Emphasis Week. Joining NC alumni for the variety program was Svante Smedman, violinist and singer from Sweden, the "Calvary Brass" and a fine choir.

Coordinating the program was the Reverend A. L. Baunsgard, Alumni Association President. The Musicale, which was under the direction of Mr. Bud Tutmarc, Alumni Association Vice-President, was held in the college chapel.

Early Childhood Education Course is Popular With Christian Education Majors

Early Childhood Education is currently being offered at Northwest College in response to a growing need for personnel for Christian day schools. The new program is experiencing particular interest among students majoring in Christian Education.

The Early Childhood Education specialization core includes courses in Introduction to, and Fundamentals of Early Childhood Education, Children's Creative Activities, Parent-Education, Evaluation Techniques, Special Topics in Early Childhood Education, Child and Educational Psychology and some key courses in Christian Education. The program is supported by a second major in Biblical studies.

Janice DeBock describes various fruit and offers actual taste experience to first row of students in the popular Early Childhood Education course. Dr. Frank Rice, NC Academic Dean, and instructor Shirley Newton watch the demonstration.

On Top Of It All?

If you have been looking for that exhilarating feeling of being on top of everything, perhaps you should take a lesson from Martin Dormier, Superintendent of Grounds at NC. (The flag rope needed re-threading in the pulley.)
