PLEASE PASS THE BREAD—

The theme of the Northwest College faculty retreat this year was drawn from the scene of Jesus' test in the wilderness. The first temptation framed by Satan was: "If thou be the Son of God, command these stones be made bread." (Matthew 4:3) Jesus' response was taken from Deuteronomy 8:3, given to Israel along with the manna, "Man shall not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord . . ." "Not by bread alone . . ." was our theme.

These words were among the first that Jesus would have learned in the synagogue at Nazareth. For they were in the Shema', that body of Scripture first taught to a Jewish lad. It was out of these first Biblical learnings as a "pre-schooler" or a "first grader" that Jesus met and defeated the first temptation! Not only did it meet the temptation to use His miracle power to sustain physical life and "save" Himself—a temptation repeated at the cross—but the principle, "not by bread alone," has broad application today. It speaks forcefully to those who would do the Work of God!

It strikes at the heart of Secular Humanism and its wicked pervasive inroads into much of the educational world. This modern, sophisticated, educated restatement of Satan's flaw, uttered in the word "Hath God said?" and "ye shall be as God's"—seeks to deny the existence of God and His authority, truth and ethic and to enthrone man and his creativity and products. Interestingly, these same ideas moved men at Babel for they said, "Let us build . . . a tower . . . unto heaven," and "let us make a name . . ."

In the humanistic view, man and what he creates are everything. All there is and can be! His "salvation" is to be found within himself, his reason, his science and his international politics—"one world," if you will.

But Jesus said, "not by bread alone!" Just like the Israelites in the wilderness needed the miracle of manna, so man today needs the Living Bread. The salvation and sustenance of man required divine miracle bread.

Sharing the miracle bread and meeting the long standing errors of humanism is something of what Northwest College is all about—

Please pass The Bread!

But Jesus' statement says something else to those who would follow Him and do His work today. It cries,

"Integrate! Weave biblical truth into all subjects taught, setting them in clear perspective. He is truth! He is the Source . . . Creator . . . Sustainer of all things! He is above all things! Without Him there is no meaning! Without Him there is no understanding of beginning . . . of ending . . . of hope! Without Him all learning is bread without life!"

Because Jesus said all men needed the Living Bread and affirmed Himself to be that Bread, the challenge to make the Christian college truly Christian by serving The Bread in every class is so insistent.

It's not enough to teach a subject as it is taught in a secular institution and "tack" a bit of Bible on at the end. This does not make a Christian college. It's not enough until divine revealed truth is seen as the core of all truth, until all learning points toward Christ, the source.

John Henry Cardinal Newman said, "If we could see with the eyes of God, we would perceive the oneness of truth . . ." It's toward this sublime goal that a Christian college should reach with all its might!

Please pass The Bread!

But Jesus' use of God's Word to Israel in the wilderness as He met Satan's temptation says still another thing to us: "More important than learning is living. More important than physical existence is spiritual life. Nothing is more important for the Christian teacher than to 'feed the lambs . . . feed the sheep!' To Peter He said, 'If you love me, feed . . .!'" (John 21)

The spiritual life and growth of the student is the most important thing. And that life and growth comes from feeding on The Bread.

Years ago I heard an evangelist of our fellowship describe a communion service in South America with believers jammed inside and out. The windows were open and the only way they could get the bread and cup to those outside was to pass it from one believer to another and yet to another, on through the windows to those outside until the elements were lost from view.

I never forgot that description! It spoke so eloquently of what the Body of Christ does, in feeding the flock, whether it's to pre-schoolers or to college students. Passing the Bread is what real Christian education is all about!

Please pass The Bread

THE GLOW OF THE BONFIRE

Once a year, the students at N.C. gather around a bonfire at the close of the first day of classes. Oh, it's no ordinary bonfire that burns and quickly passes. The annual bonfire at N.C. is one that burns on and on around the world. Yes, the evidence of that bonfire reveals itself in the lives of men and women who will allow the Spirit of God to burn within them. Let the glow of the light that is within you shine out to a world that is in the darkness.

ADMINISTRATIVE FEATURE:

"Tex" Rutledge

To the students he is "Dean Tex"—a name he earned honestly through being reared in Texas and reinforced by his Texas drawl and his affinity for Western clothing. He is Waymon P. Rutledge, Dean of Students at NC, greatly beloved of the students since he joined the Northwest College family in 1977.

Dean Tex's personal history is unique. After finishing high school in Texas, he joined the army signal corps and served overseas in radio. It was the military that brought him west to California, where he was saved and Spirit-filled in then Bethel Temple in Sacramento. He was later ordained to preaching ministry in the same church.

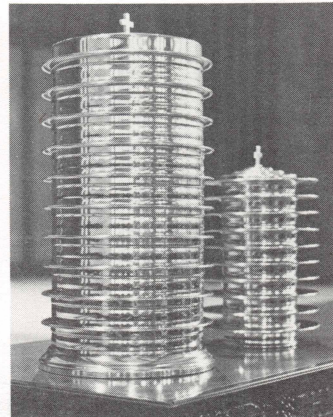

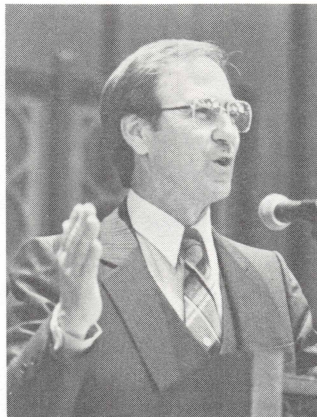

Tex might have been a professional football or baseball player except for God's changing the direction of his life. He had offers to play from both sports. But after his conversion, he never returned to pursue those opportunities. Instead, he entered Glad Tidings Bible Institute to begin preparation for Christian service. He later added to his Bible college diploma a B.A. degree from Willamette and a M.S.Ed. degree in Counseling from Oregon College of Education.

Tex has twenty-seven years of pastoral experience, but at times paralleled a second career in law enforcement—as a deputy sheriff and as counselor, consultant, and project coordinator in the Oregon State Corrections Division. He is no policeman to his students, however, but works to encourage their spiritual growth.

Dean Tex admits to feeling the pressures of decision making in his role as director of student activities, but he balances this against the enjoyment of working with Christian students and observing their commitment to Christian service. "I've never been in such a rewarding experience," he says with a smile. (The non-academic aspects of student life fall within the purview of the Dean of Students.)

Tex and Winni (his wife) now live alone in a home near the campus. Both are within easy walking distance of their jobs, since Winni works for the Northwest District office of the Assemblies of God, adjoining the NC campus. Their three children are now grown and married, and the Rutledges speak of them with pride. But they are proud of their "other children", too—the students at NC!

CONVOCATION CHAPEL OPENS SCHOOL YEAR

Students responding in praise and worship following the partaking of the elements of communion.

NC's new academic year officially began with the annual Convocation on September 28, in which an enthusiastic congregation of students and faculty filled Butterfield Chapel to ask God's direction and blessings upon the year. The faculty were introduced to the student body, then all joined in worship and receiving of communion. Rev. Frank Cole, Northwest District Superintendent, addressed the convocation with a challenge to go beyond mediocrity and obtain God's best!

Experience the thrill of witnessing your church members grow in their Christian stewardship commitment! See your church's ministry multiply as people dedicate their resources to God's work.

N.C. GRADS ACCEPT NEW DIMENSIONS IN MINISTRY

Cal Carpenter

Tom Pendleton

The Northwest District is uniquely blessed because of the large number of N.C. Alumni that have assumed positions within our own district. This says something significant about the quality of training and the character that has been strengthened because of time spent at N.C. During the District Council held in Spokane, Cal Carpenter and Tom Pendleton were elected to prominent positions as departmental leaders. Cal was elected as Northwest District Youth Director and Tom as Northwest Christian Education Director. We at N.C. offer our congratulations.

Tom is a 1973 graduate of Northwest, receiving a B.A. degree in Pastoral Studies. He and his wife, Retha, are the proud parents of two boys, Gavin and Brandt. He accepted this new position having served as Minister of Outreach at Bellevue Neighborhood Church and Minister of Christian Education at First Assembly of God-Life Center in Tacoma. Tom shares these reflections on his days at N.C.:

"Being a new Christian when I entered N.C., I majored in Biblical Literature. I was not yet sure of the specific direction of ministry God was leading me toward. I felt what I needed the most for a full-time ministry was a solid Biblical base to develop a scriptural philosophy of ministry. N.C. provided this, plus resources and personalities, from which I did and still do draw from, to assist the ministry God has placed me in." Tom's capable leadership in the Christian Education office was evidenced by the successful Christian Education Convention which just concluded in Olympia.

Cal Carpenter traveled with his wife Tina in the "Northwesterners" and later graduated in 1976 with a B.A. degree in Biblical Literature. Having served as associate pastor in Yakima's Stone Church for three years, he and his family then ministered on the evangelistic field for two-and-a-half years before assuming the position as Youth Director in the district. Cal and Tina are the proud parents of two lovely girls, Kelly and Chrissy. Cal shared that:

"N.C. gave me a strong Bible foundation on which to base my ministry, and the relationships that were formed at Northwest helped to broaden that ministry." During the recent Youth Convention in Yakima, his past years of ministry and training beautifully manifested themselves as he led the Northwest District youth.

Further inquiry revealed that at the present time, there are eight graduates of Northwest College employed in full-time positions in the district office.

We are happy to be associated with Cal and Tom and we pray that stories such as this will be duplicated many times over in the years that lie ahead.

FRESHMAN LEARN THE JOYS OF COLLEGE LIFE IN A HURRY

"It was never like this in high school!"

Dean Tex and student leaders lead in an orientation skit.

FRESHMAN WELCOME

"Lord, we welcome you to work in our lives this year."

LEADERS JOIN TOGETHER FOR RETREATS

"New Beginnings"

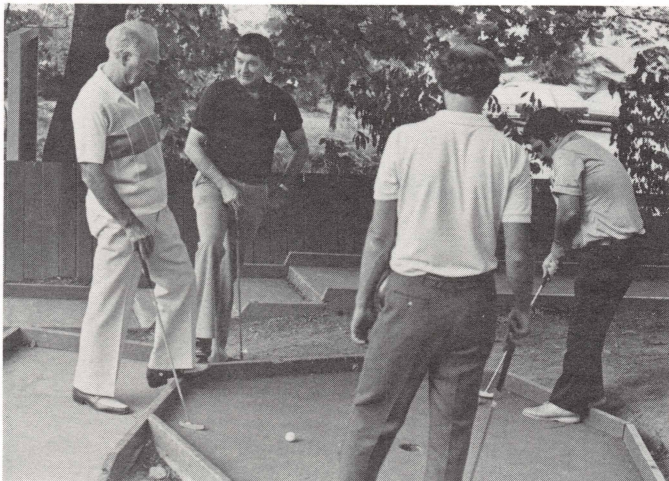

Beautiful surroundings, dedicated people, and a deep sense of need for the enablement of the Holy Spirit all manifested themselves at the leadership retreats just prior to the beginning of school. A new year means a "new beginning". This year's retreat calendar began with the administration secluded for a day of preparation, planning, and seeking God's guidance for the coming year.

Sambica was the scene of the Faculty and the student leadership retreats. First, the faculty joined for a time of instruction lead by various faculty and administration personnel. A time of recreation almost proved to be too much as some pretended to be students once again. Rev. Fulton Buntain from First Assembly-Life Center in Tacoma then shared an inspiring word and the ministry of the Holy Spirit united each one together in a dynamic way. The next day was a nuts and bolts work day on campus for the faculty.

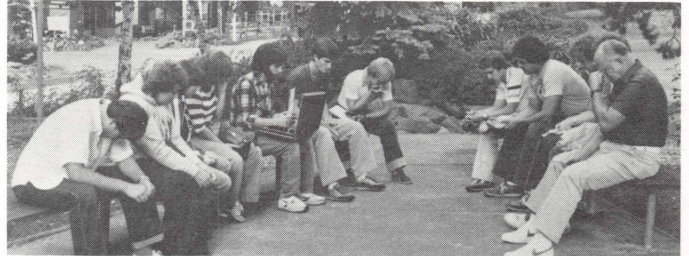

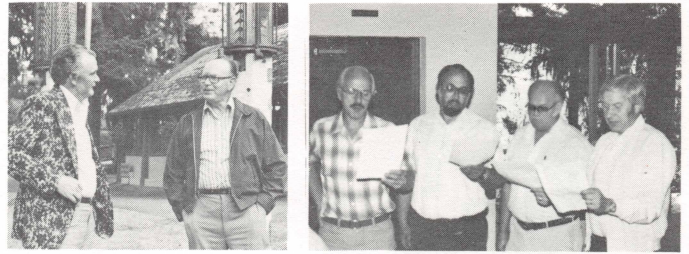

The expectancy on campus by this time was building rapidly as the student leaders began to assemble for their annual retreat. Nearly sixty student leaders gathered and began to share together the goals they have for their particular area of responsibility. The scene shifted back to Sambica for recreation, further small group planning and a refreshing time of worship and introspection as the A.S.B. president, Don Griffin, shared his burden for N.C. for the 1981-82 school year.

The week ended by administrators, faculty, and student leaders all sharing in a delightful banquet in the school cafeteria. A time of Communion was shared around the Lord's table and a sweet awareness of the Lord's presence was sensed by all. We've never walked this way before, so we approach the new year with a new dependency upon Him.

STUDENT LEADERSHIP SHARE GOALS

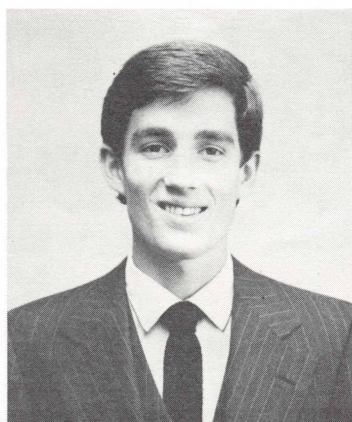

Don Griffin

ASB President

"Northwest College is a place for many people—but not all people. It is a place where men and women are prepared for active ministry and for lay work in our church bodies. Success at Northwest takes discipline, dedication, and consecration unto Jesus Christ and to the College as a whole. We strive to put on the image of Jesus Christ as well as learn practical ministry here on campus.

This year is not an exception to this attitude and goal but is in fact the opposite. We in the student leadership are stressing ministry, growth, dedication to the student body, and being a loving example to all others. We are dedicated to this cause and to our College. We believe in the College and in what she is doing. We will learn and grow; minister and serve. By the end of the year NC should be stronger and even more dedicated to the cause of Jesus Christ and His will."

Steve Dill

W.O.M. Chairman

"World Outreach Ministries is the students of Northwest College reaching out to the world with a desire to meet people's needs. W.O.M. consists of these Ministry Interest Groups: Missions, Children's, Gospel Teams, Community Service, Campus, Servicemen's, Youth Ministries, Evangelism, and Publicity. Every student that attends Northwest has an opportunity to become involved in some form of ministry. It is my desire and goal to see each student fulfilling the Great Commission in one of these areas of outreach. I will work toward this end."

FLYING SEMINAR - '82

PETRA—the name means “Rock”, and for good reasons as this photo shows. This famed ancient city is nestled in the rugged mountains of Mt. Seir between the Dead Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba, a wing of the Red Sea. The Prophet Obadiah describes the ancient Edomites as taking pride in the “clefts of the rocks”, as an eagle nesting “among the stars”, where they took refuge from the potential enemies (Obad. 1:2-4). The vast construction chiseled out of the perpendicular walls of this canyon “hideout” was largely done by the Nabateans who followed the ancient Edomites here. Some students of Biblical prophecy believe that this rock-walled city is reserved as a sanctuary for the Jewish people in the period known in the Bible as the “Great Tribulation”. It is on the itinerary of places to be visited by the College’s Flying Seminar to Israel, Jordan, Egypt, and Rome next March 12-25, 1982. For further information, contact the College by mail or telephone (206-822-8266—Ext. 245).

PROFESSOR TEACHES SEMINAR

Leroy Johnson, associate professor of history and political sciences at Northwest College, recently conducted a seminar for the Northwest Convention of the Association of Christian Schools International. The seminar was held at the Seattle Center on October 1 & 2 and was attended by faculty members, administrators, and interested personnel from Christian schools throughout the Northwest area. The title of the seminar was “Christian Involvement in Social Action” and was intended to stimulate Christians to see social awareness and involvement as one of the imperatives of Christian living.

CAMPUS IS ALIVE WITH ACTIVITY

Everybody lends a hand on move-in day.

The campus is alive with the sound of students and the excitement and challenges of a new year. New beginnings for freshmen and the broadening of relationships for returning students make the atmosphere one of keen anticipation.

As students started arriving in the middle of September, they were greeted by the new H.W. Crowder Residence Hall. This, along with the fresh paint, new grass and shrubbery, blends with an individual enthusiasm shared by each student, administrator, faculty and staff member. All of this points forward to an outstanding year at N.C.

When registration began on September 21, it was evident that the Fall quarter was going to be another large enrollment. When registration closed on September 30, 761 students made up the Fall quarter enrollment roster.

The sounds of students are not just noise because of the busyness of a new year. It’s because the air is filled with expectations of something great about to happen. The new students are facing the “new beginnings” with a zest that expresses the attitude that they will lead the way. They are believing that they can be used to help bring about a revival. The returning students are determined to make it happen. That is excitement personified.

DR PARLOTZ RECEIVES APPOINTMENTS

NC’s Director of Counseling, Dr. Robert Parlotz, has recently been the recipient of two “extra-curricular” appointments of note. He is now the Protestant Chaplain, with rank of captain, to the 446th Military Airlift Wing (Assoc.) (AFRES) at McChord Air Force Base. Following his appointment, he spent five weeks in officer and chaplain orientation courses at Maxwell AFB in Alabama. Despite the unwanted heat and humidity there, he reported profit and enjoyment from the time spent at the Air University.

As a result of his involvements in the medical and educational communities, Dr. Parlotz was also asked to serve a three-year term as member of the King County Health Administration Board. The Board is responsible to plan and administer community mental health programs for the county, including emergency intervention day treatment and therapy services for children, adults, the aged, and minorities. His appointment by County Executive Ron Dunlap has now been confirmed by the King County Council.
