

One body,
Many parts

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial data. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The document provides a detailed list of items that should be tracked, such as inventory levels, customer orders, and supplier invoices. It also outlines the procedures for recording these transactions, including the use of specific forms and the assignment of responsibilities to different staff members.

The second part of the document focuses on the analysis of the recorded data. It describes various methods for identifying trends and anomalies in the financial performance. This includes comparing current data with historical trends, analyzing seasonal fluctuations, and identifying areas where costs are higher than expected. The document also discusses the importance of regular reviews and reports to management, providing a clear framework for how these reports should be structured and presented. It includes examples of key performance indicators (KPIs) and how they can be used to measure the success of different departments or projects.

The final part of the document addresses the overall financial health of the organization. It discusses the importance of budgeting and how it can be used to control costs and maximize profits. It provides a step-by-step guide to developing a budget, from identifying the organization's goals and objectives to allocating resources and monitoring progress. The document also includes a section on risk management, discussing how to identify potential financial risks and how to develop strategies to mitigate them. It concludes with a summary of the key points and a call to action for all staff members to adhere to the guidelines and procedures outlined in the document.

Dan can get a little rowdy in his football gear.

Hickman

Dan Hickman is a familiar sight to students around campus, taking walks with his wife and his frisbee-catching dog Buster.

Though Dan may seem an institution here at NC, he's done many things elsewhere, too!

Dan is a local guy, born in Tacoma, WA, to Roy and Lavina Hickman.

He attended Franklin Pierce High School. During the Vietnam War, he served in the Air Force from 1969-1972, and then moved on to Northwest College, where he was a student from 1973-1977.

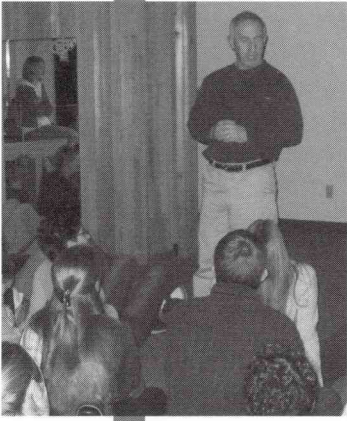

He's been a youth pastor in Nampa, ID; a pastor in Douglas, WY; and the District Youth Director for Wyoming.

Dan is a die hard sports enthusiast and has played or refereed basketball, football, tennis, golf, and baseball. He's also been a radio broadcaster and written a sports column for a local paper.

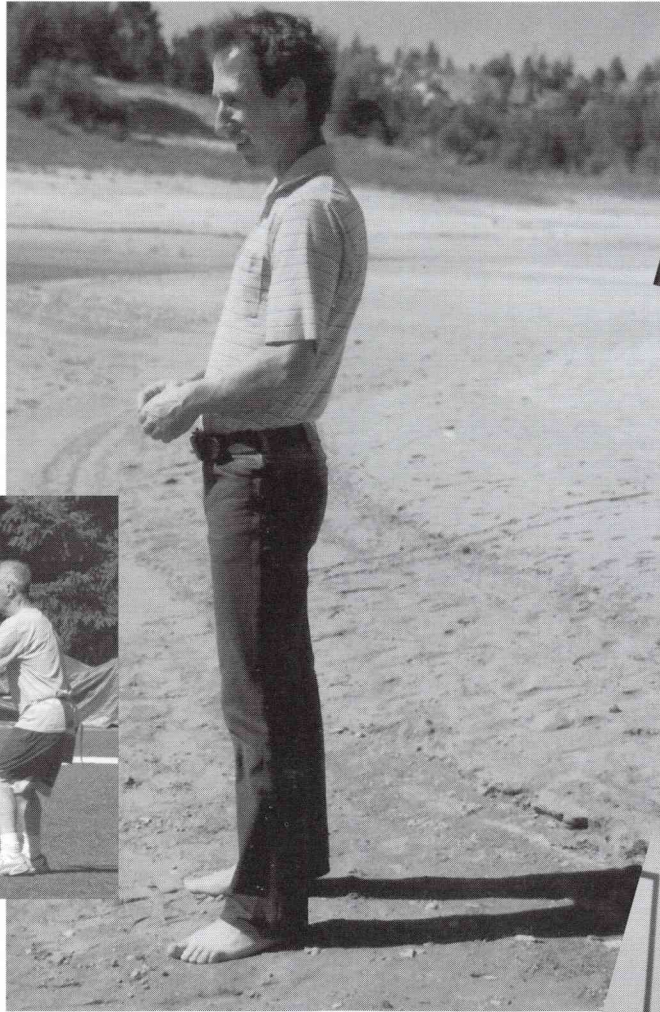

In 1978, Dan married his wife Colleen, from Casper, WY. They have two sons, Chris and Scott.

Dan started working for Northwest College, his alma mater, in 2000. He has served as the campus pastor, the Resident Life Director, and the Director of Student Life.

NORTHWEST COLLEGE THANKS YOU FOR ALL YOUR HARD WORK, DAN! WE LOVE YOU!

Now serving as Director of Student Life, Dan speaks the Word into the lives of many students in the resident halls.

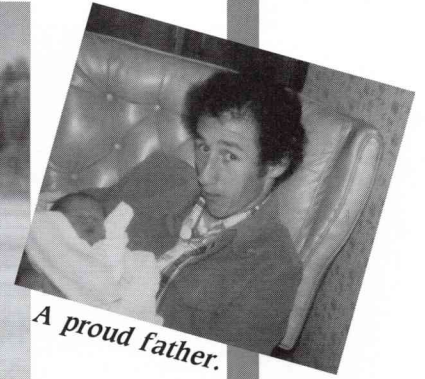

What Dan is contemplating, only he and God know.

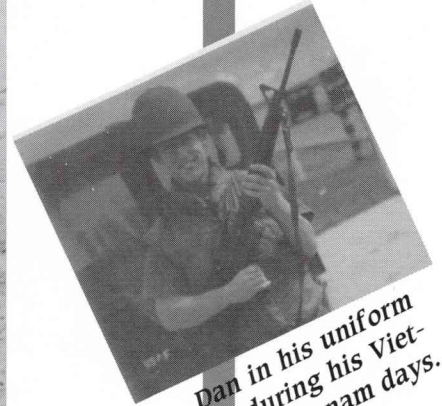

Dan looks forward to the intramural football season every fall where he can just be one of the guys.

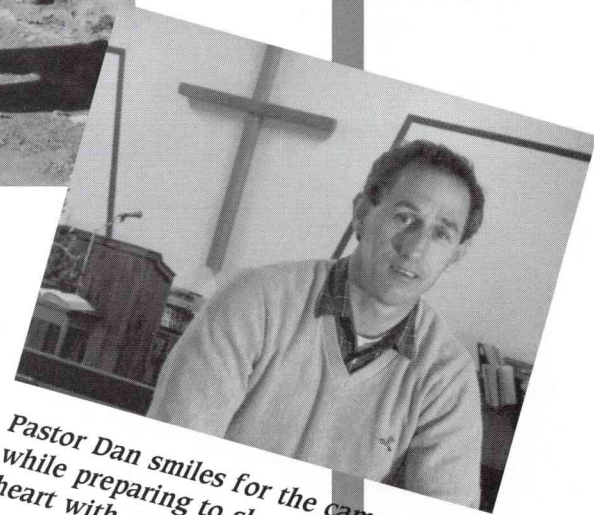

Dan can easily be found in the Pavilion talking with students between sporting events.

A proud father.

Dan in his uniform during his Vietnam days.

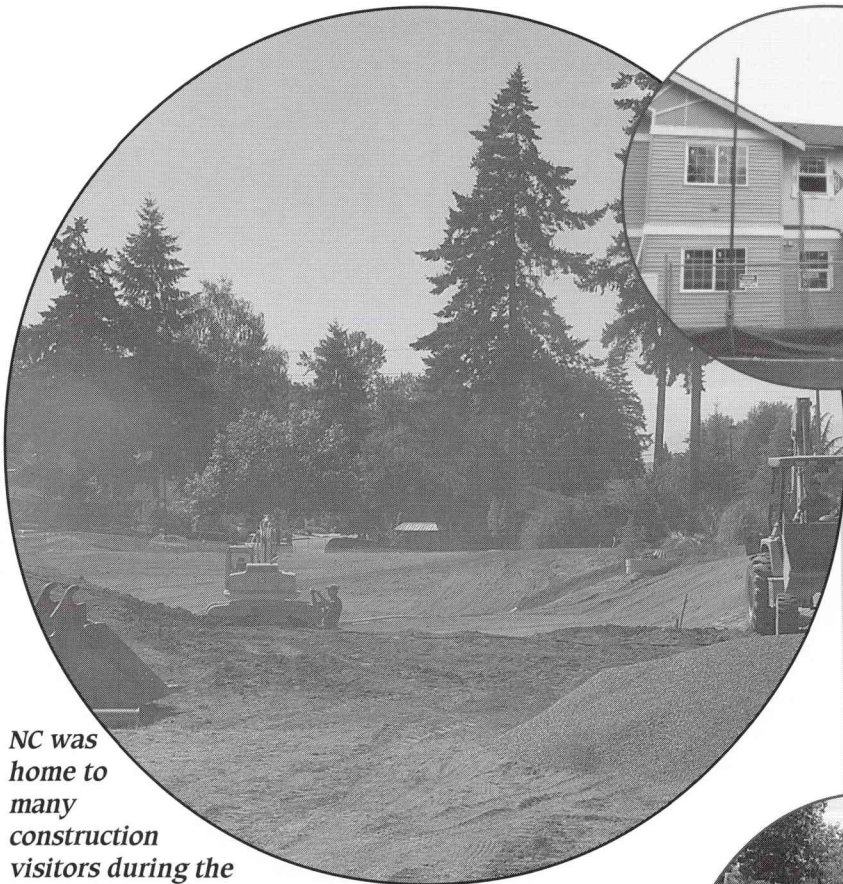

Pastor Dan smiles for the camera while preparing to share his heart with students.

Dan's favorite...

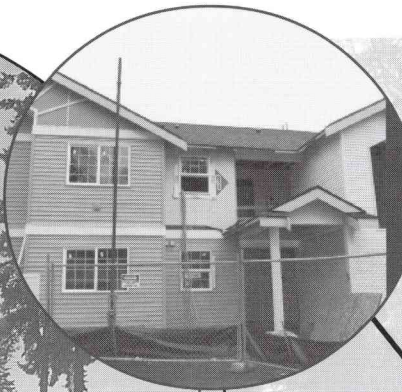

...foods: red licorice, maple bars, Pepsi, and anything Hostess

...music: Simon and Garfunkel, America, Chicago, Carpenters, and anything 60's/70's

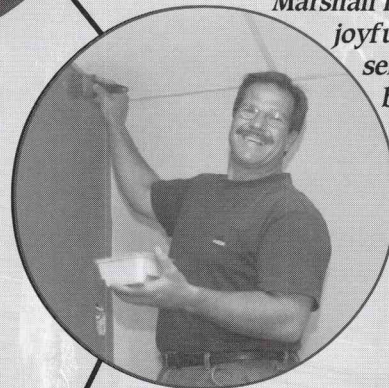

...sports: basketball, tennis, golf, flag football, you name it!

NC was home to many construction visitors during the summer and early fall who worked hard to complete the storm water detention facility.

New student apartments begin to materialize after months of construction.

Marshall Flowers joyfully serves NC by helping paint the Aerie.

Finally complete, the storm water detention facility pond begins to show signs of new life.

Campus Growth

The landscape of Northwest College seems to be changing daily, making way for updated and expanded facilities on every corner. The storm water retention facility - the old "Green" - has become the turning point on which all other campus development has hinged. As bulldozers, dumptrucks and thousands of man hours went into completing this enormous project, future projects have survived, keeping the growing vision of Northwest College alive. With its spectacular westward view of the Olympic mountains and the Seattle skyline, the "new" Green will once again provide flat surface area for Friday afternoon frisbee games and springtime sun-bathing.

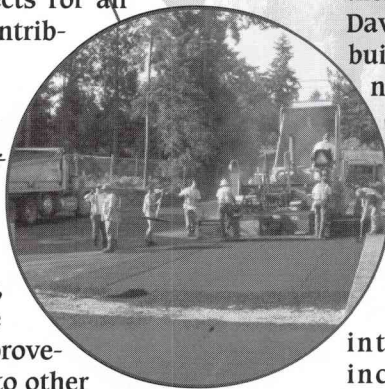

As the storm water project was carved out the earth, the new 32-unit student apartments were added east of the existing FIRS community. Now home to upper-division students, these pseudo-off-campus apartments allow students to leave the resident halls and still be close to campus. If they still miss the on-campus life, excuses can be made to meet friends and grab a cup of coffee at Northwest Java in The Aerie. The joint efforts of the Business Club, Student Development and many others brought about the remodeling of the Pecota Center which has gone commercial, serving Tully's beverages and light munchies.

This inviting nook is well-frequented at all hours of the day where many come to chat, do homework, have study groups and get a good, strong caffeine fix before heading off to class. Special thanks to Curtis Gelotte Architects for all they contributed to this project!

Certainly worth mentioning, too, are the improvements to other areas of campus - Butterfield Chapel, for example. Carpeting, new seating, and a facelift to the platform area make the chapel comfortable and modern, as well as more conducive to performing arts when the chapel isn't being used for, well, chapel. The 6710 building down 108th Avenue is becoming more user-friendly as well, as LEAP and Grad programs start classes there. Furthermore, the Davis Administration building now houses all nursing classes in one convenient place.

Suffice it to say, our college campus is undergoing amazing changes to bring it fully into the 21st century, including a name change in 2005.

We will fondly remember the years of Northwest College and eagerly await the coming age of Northwest University.

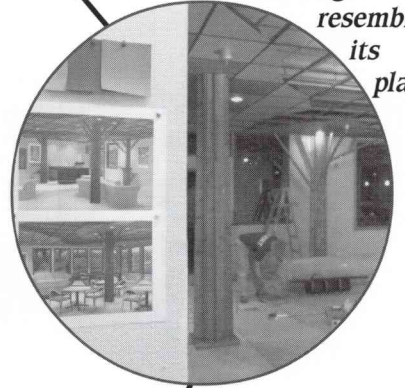

Sheltered from the sloping Green, this pond adds an aesthetic touch to the storm water retention facility.

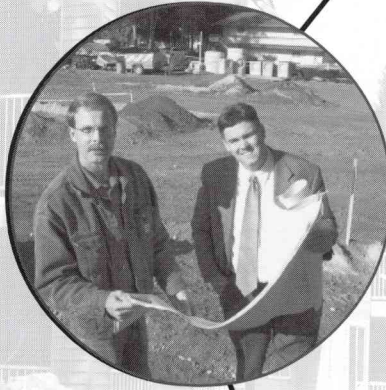

This bulldozer helps remove some of the 10,000 cubic yards of dirt from the storm water retention facility.

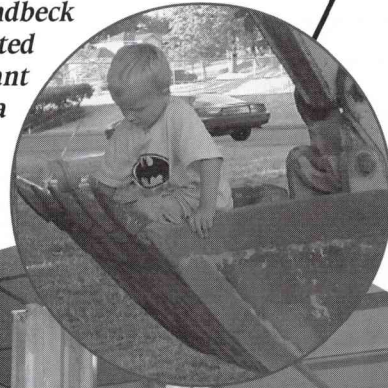

The Aerie slowly undergoes construction and begins to resemble its plans.

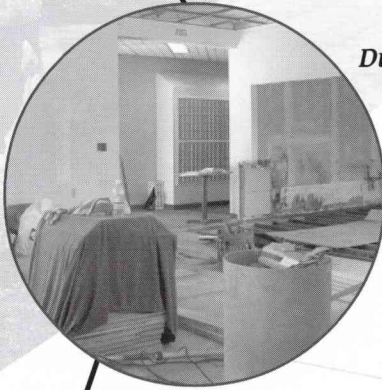

Early in the development, Campus Planning Director, Steve Sankey, and VP for College Advancement, Dan Neary, discuss plans for the student apartments.

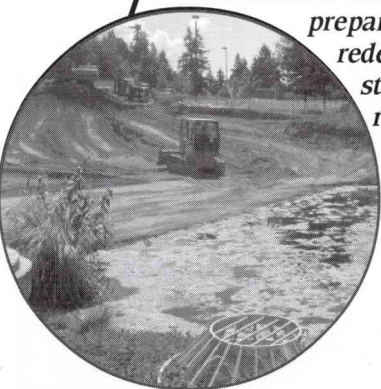

Josiah Lindbeck is fascinated by the giant scoop of a backhoe.

During the summer, construction continued on the Aerie, shaping it to a friendly, coffee-shop feel.

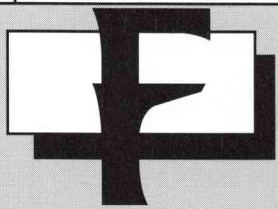

A bulldozer moves dirt in preparation for redesigning the storm water retention facility.

Jamie O'Clock, Chad Baier, Christian Lindbeck, and Nick Gelotte show off their fresh coffee and the finished Aerie.

Welcome Back! ...and so a new year begins!

The 2003-2004 school year got underway with enjoyable and traditional activities such as the Family BBQ and ASB-sponsored ice cream social, and perhaps not-so-exciting (but necessary) activities such as registration. And all too soon, it seemed, the fun of getting to know new roommates and seeing old friends had to give way to the inevitable first day of classes!

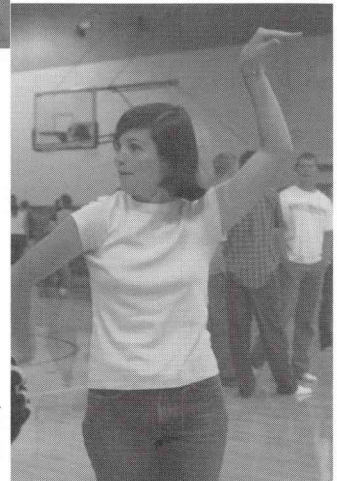

Dr. Flowers visits with Dr. Johnson and Professor Jim Jessup during the rush of registration.

The BBQ line kept people coming back all afternoon.

Chris Overland looks to Dr. Randolph for some last minute advising.

Charmy Buck pulls out "I'm a little teapot" from her bag of tricks during the ASB Ice Cream Social.

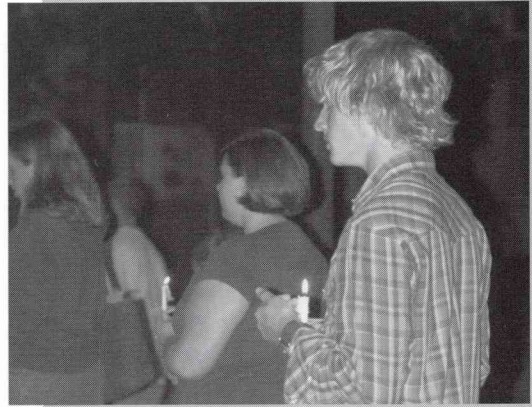

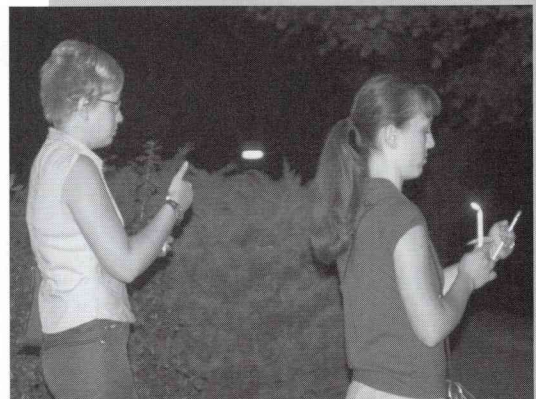

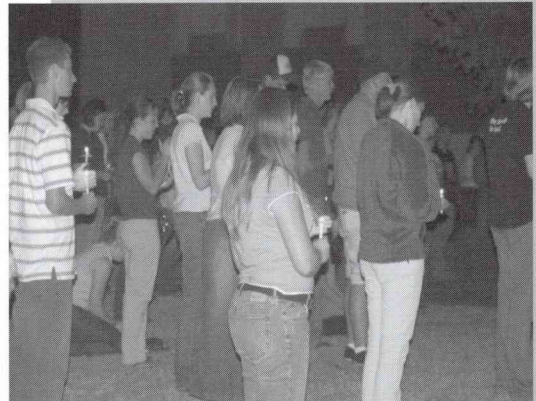

To start the 2003-2004 year out right, students were invited to participate in a candle-lit walk across campus, ending in a time of worship and prayer dedicating the upcoming school year to the Lord.

Thuy Rider shines her light brightly as she makes her way across campus in prayer for the year to come.

Justin Chu tells the story of "The 3 Swine of Most Small Stature," leading to a second-place finish.

"Live from Kirkland... it's Friday Night Live!" This year's Talent Show, sponsored by the senior class, dazzled its audience on October 24th. The show featured a varied sampling of acts - ranging from a performance by one of NC's favorite bands, Poorman's Offering, to a stomp routine performed by the Women's Cross Country team, to a classy rendition of "That Thing You Do." The judges - Christian Lindbeck, Eric Steinkamp, and Jan Hicks - deliberated, and awarded first, second, and third places:

FIRST PLACE: Ja'Niece Law, for her tap-dance routine to "Our God is an Awesome God."

SECOND PLACE: Justin Chu, for his unique re-telling of "The Three Little Pigs."

THIRD PLACE: the band ICON, for their version of "Yellow" by Coldplay.

Congrats to everyone who participated!

A note from Heather Cook, student director...

"This fall's production of two plays - 'Trifles, by Susan Glaspell, and 'The Valiant Villian,' by Robert Combs - has been fun and inspirational. These two one-act plays are vastly different from each other, but combined to bring a wonderful evening of intrigue and laughter to the Northwest College community.

Trifles is a murder mystery which digs into the concepts of abuse and loneliness. In something of a twist, the main characters, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, are never actually seen on stage. In contrast, 'Valiant Villians' is a hilarious melodrama. Jesse Bryan did a wonderful job directing this play, which undoubtedly was difficult, since it has a lot of physical action."

School of Business

The Northwest College School of Business came into existence as a result of the college's academic reorganization during the spring of 2003.

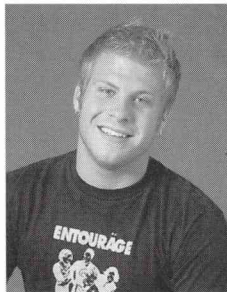

The School of Business is comprised of three academic departments: the Undergraduate Business Management program, the LEAP (Leadership Education for Adult Professionals) program, and the Master of Business Administration program. Combined, these three programs comprise the largest scholastic department of Northwest College.

Because our programs and majors are, to a great extent, reflections of the various challenges that face the leadership of both profit and non-profit organizations, we must focus on what we in business call "continuous improvement." This perspective drives our efforts in regard to changes in the way we do business education. This year we hope to conclude a recasting of the undergraduate business management major and the intended rollout will include changes in core courses, program concentrations, informational technologies, and field internships.

Arts and Sciences

As part of the development of Northwest College toward achieving University status, the College has organized its academic units into several professional schools (education, business, ministry, and nursing) and placed the remaining undergraduate academic programs in the newly formed College of Arts and Sciences.

The College of Arts and Sciences serves the students of Northwest by providing the core of General Education courses with the goal of developing well-educated Christians who are prepared for service and leadership. It also enables students to pursue fields of study such as Communication, Drama, English, History, Law, Music, Political Science, Environmental Science, Religion, and Philosophy. Through the many concentrations in these majors, students are able to tailor their programs to suit their vocational goals and calling. Graduates study in top-level graduate programs and pursue careers in fields such as literature and writing, philosophy, public relations, environmental science, education, vocational ministry, and law.

Most of the majors in this division are relatively new to Northwest College. With the exception of two majors - Religion and Philosophy, and Music - all have been added since 1999. Their addition marks the College's move toward a full liberal arts curriculum and now toward a university curriculum. Other majors are under study for their feasibility and fulfillment of the mission of Northwest College.

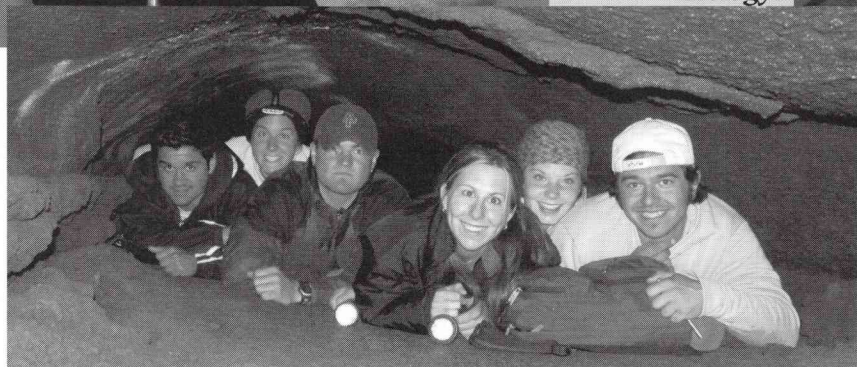

Through the Debate team, the Drama department and its presentations and plays, the Music department performances, the Writing Lab, and various clubs, the College of Arts and Sciences contributes to the whole community - enabling Northwest College to become an exciting learning community of committed Christian students.

northwest ministries

summer ministry teams

During the summer of 2003, Northwest College sent four summer ministry teams around the western United States: ACTS, Poorman's Offering, Peanut Butter 'n' Jesus, and Awkward. Through music and drama, these NC students changed the lives of hundreds.

Missionary in Residence Steve Pecota

With a passion to teach and lead worship through song, Steve Pecota returns to Northwest College from Germany where he and his family (wife, Karen and children, Kevin and Kathryn) have been serving in ministry since 1989.

Kevin and Kathryn are also at Northwest this year, having three c a m p u s a bit like it years ago. time, Steve student; his Dan Pecota, sor; and his Esther, the manager.

While many, Steve establish a ministry network on the University of Hamburg campus, served as the national director for the student ministry organization, and helped to bring a Pentecostal church to the city of Norderstedt, Germany. Currently, Steve is working on his Doctorate of Missiology. Northwest College is thrilled to have Professor Pecota share his ministry experiences as teaching tools for our future missionaries!

Pursuit

...seeking God in prayer & worship

On just about every Monday evening, the Butterfield Chapel resounds with the heartfelt songs and praises of over a hundred Northwest College students.

These Monday night gatherings are called Pursuit - a student-led time of prayer and worship. Wes Dunn is responsible for how the service has flourished this past year, beginning and ending each evening with prayer.

With different bands and campus worship groups playing choruses, and Scripture readings from various students, nearly all NC students who attended Pursuit this year found themselves uplifted and refreshed in their spiritual walks.

Several NC students gather together in supportive prayer.

See You at the Pole

Early on a cold September morning, a handful of Northwest College students met in Perks Lounge and dispersed to local high schools, like Lake Washington, to stand in support of the handful of students who were taking a stand of their own. Together in corporate prayer, the mix of students lifted their hearts in worship to the Lord. The students said collective prayers for the nation; its leaders; their schools and teachers; and the choices they must make in the school year ahead. It was a time of true community-building, not only among the NC students who had newly started school, but also between those same NC students and the high-schoolers.

Lindsay Fosner clutches hands with other students to pray.

"And when you pray, do not be like the hypocrites, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the street corners to be seen by men. I tell you the truth, they have received their reward in full. But when you pray, go into your room, close the door and pray to your Father, who is unseen. Then your Father, who sees what is done in secret, will reward you."

Lake Washington Football

Go

Kangs!

The NC students ministering at the Lake Washington football game once again blessed the school by picking up trash after the game.

In a tradition that grows in popularity each and every year, Northwest College students visited neighboring Lake Washington High School's stadium to cheer on the Kangs, Lake Washington's varsity football team. In spite of the crisp autumn weather conditions, NC students spent the whole game with the crowd of LW students, and then helped pick up trash after the game was over.

Triumph Ministries this year took a rewarding trip to Maple Lane, a maximum security facility for sexual offenders. Northwest College students played sports - basketball, ping-pong, and pool - and other games with the inmates - kids - before participating in a "rock and roll service." These kids, as Triumph leader Ben Phillips puts it, "have been thrown away by the system, and have come to the end of the line, Maple Lane. It was an honor to be a part of their life. They aren't garbage, and as someone told them that night, 'Jesus is in the recycling business.'"

Hope Ministries

Katie Uberti, leader of Hope Ministries recalls her experiences throughout the year: "First and foremost, can I just say that God is so amazing; Hope Ministry is only one of many things that can testify to that. A group of seven people - Sara Smaaladen, Shanna Lafollete, Caroline Adkins, Jennifer Klahn, Christine Pockock, Shannon O'Brian and myself- are involved in this small but powerful ministry at an assisted-living center in Redmond. This year, through Hope Ministry, we got to be Jesus. We went to this place where there was heartbreak, sorrow, loneliness, and depression, and we got to bring Hope into lives.

"This year, we got to be Jesus."
- Katie Uberti

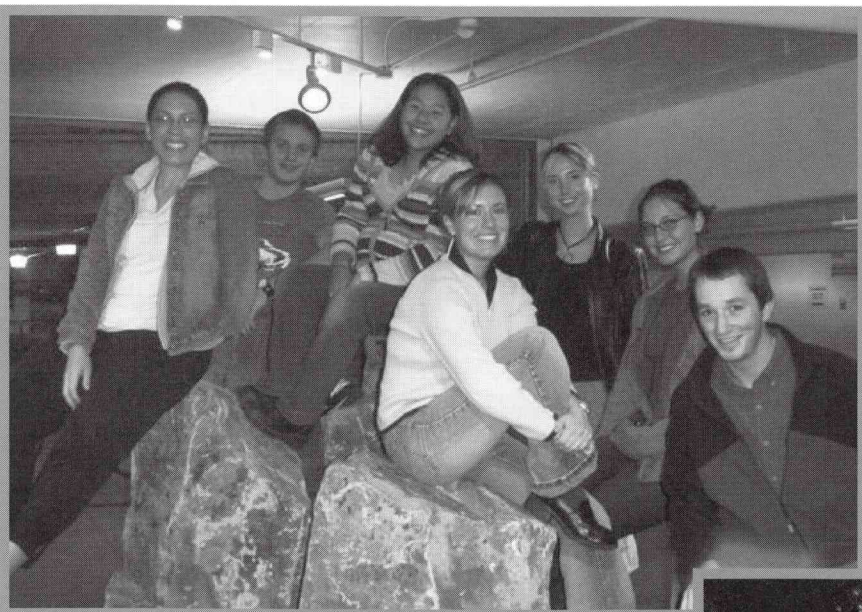

I can remember the first time I went to the center and I was helping out by serving coffee to one of the residents. As I walked by one of the tables, a lady touched my arm and broke out in tears. I knelt down beside her and asked what was wrong she replied, 'I am just so glad you are here,' and continued to sob. I didn't lead that woman to Jesus that day, but I do know that for one moment she saw him."

Rarely indoors, the faithful members of the Lighthouse ministry took a moment to pose for the camera on their way to the University district in Seattle where they hit the streets every Friday night. They aim to share the love of Christ through tangible means, such as warm clothing and food.

Cross Country

Under Coach Bill Taylor and Assistant Coach Tabetha Taylor, this year's Northwest College Cross Country team had yet another outstanding season. The team, comprised of twelve women and one male, was consistently ranked number one in the nation, a place they defended with integrity throughout the season.

"I couldn't be prouder of this team."

- Coach Taylor

Making it count

The lady Eagles follow last year's success with another impressive season.

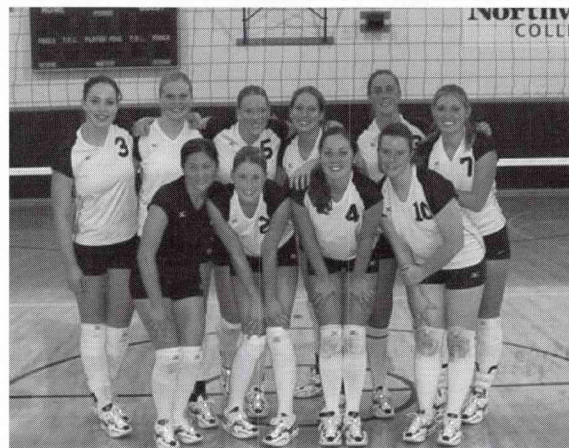

Pre-game prayer unites the hearts and minds of the Lady Eagles.

The women's volleyball team steamrolled to another successful year. The Eagles finished the regular season with a 15-12 record, showing that last year was not a fluke. Head Coach Shaun Kupferberg built on last year's team, which with a few exceptions and a few additions, remained intact. The team's unity and familiarity with each other led the Eagles to another terrific year.

However, good news does not stop with the Eagles' great year. The future of volleyball looks bright. Only two seniors, Christina Pablo and Stephanie Gilbert will graduate, leaving the team with one senior and a slew of sparkling, talented juniors, sophomores and freshmen. Yes, the future looks bright indeed.

"Volleyball is a great blessing, but I feel like God's called me here for a greater reason. I'm trying to do my best in today and look not at yesterday or tomorrow, but what's going on today."

- Brittney Baker, freshman

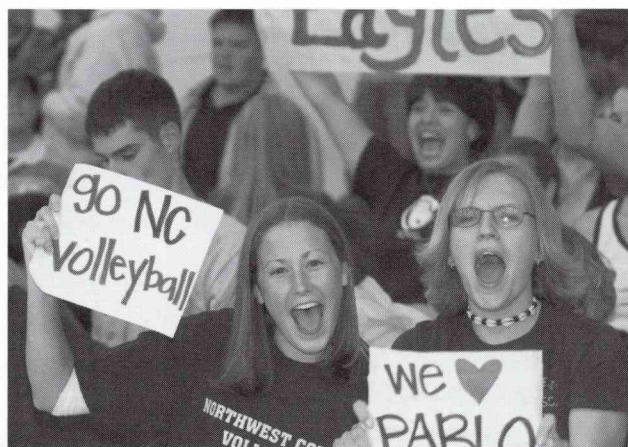

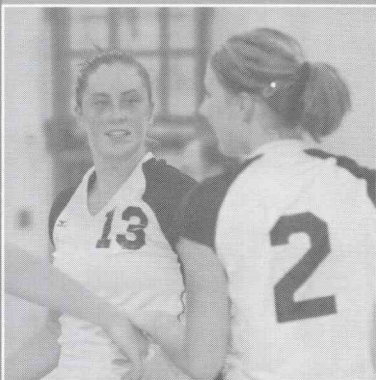

"The experience of playing volleyball at NC has been invaluable for me. I love the girls on my team and they have made my senior year unforgettable."

-Christina Pablo, senior

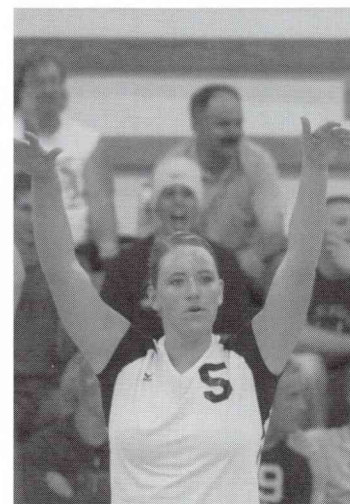

"This year was awesome! I love my team; the girls had such great chemistry on and off the court which made this year really fun. I had a blast and I'm looking forward to next year."

-Kelly Clarke, sophomore

Krista Fosse, Olga Gayvoronskaya and other student body members go wild during a home game.

A tough season of close wins and even closer losses tested the men's basketball team this season. They battled for wins in every game this season and displayed their resiliency by consistently finishing strong. The men not only displayed their commitment, but also their competitive spirit and will to win, as shown by their late season resurgence. By mid-season, they had found their groove and began a string of encouraging upsets against top-ranked schools. Much of the talent pool should be returning next season to give the men's basketball program another chance at a successful season.

“The spirit, the will to win, and the will to excel are the things that endure. These qualities are so much more important than the events that occur.”

-Vince Lombardi

Women's hoops

Go lady Eagles! Crowds chanted this mantra many times during the lady Eagles basketball season. The women gave their fans plenty of reason to shout. The lady Eagles pieced together an incredible season, filled with postseason play. In fact, the women set themselves up to make history by hosting a first round playoff game for the first time ever. The ladies' stellar shooting vaulted the ladies to one of their best seasons ever. The rewards of intense training and discipline are paying for the women, and hopefully, will continue to pay off for the next several years.

Chrissy Erickson calls out a play during a loss to the University of Puget sound.

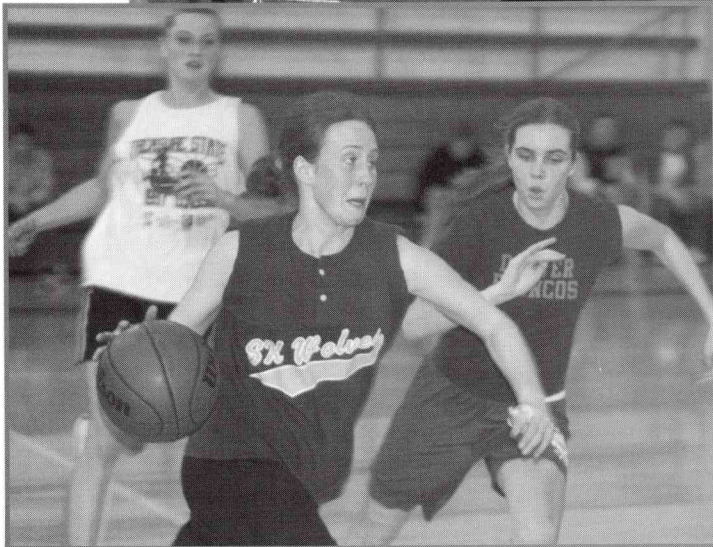

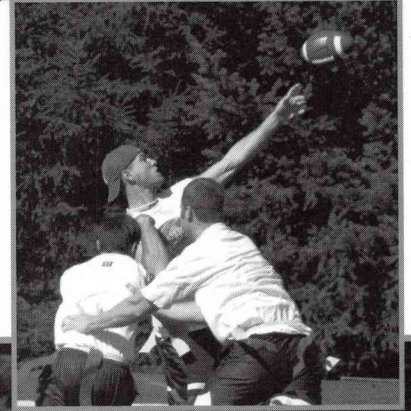

“The rewards are going to come, but happiness is just loving the sport and having fun performing.

*Christina Pablo,

This year's ASB officers are a unique blend of seriousness and hilarity, hard work and good times. They are excited to serve the student body by helping build up old ministries, establishing new ones, providing opportunities for students to have fun, and getting to know each other better at various activities. Collectively, they function as the voice of the student body to the administration of Northwest College. As Mikey Purcell rather wryly puts it, "If this year's student body were a big purple dinosaur, the ASB officers would be the two small arms with three fingers."

This year's class officers were responsible for some great events around campus. The senior class put on the wildly successful "Friday Night Live" Talent Show, which showcased some of NC's song, dance, and drama stars. The sophomore class sponsored the school's annual Christmas party, which saw dozens of students gathered together in Perks Lounge to hear a holiday message from Dan Hickman, write letters to American soldiers abroad, enjoy some good Christmas refreshments, and count down the hours until Finals were over!

Unfortunately, the junior class event, the Sports Kick-Off, was cancelled, but hopefully the juniors will come back with a strong showing at the Talent Show next year! The freshmen, too, have a lot to live up to next year as sophomores - this year's Christmas party was a blast!

Junior class officers: Leah Stephens, President; Shannon Keough, Vice President; Kelsey Hawk, Secretary/Treasurer; Jan Hicks, Class Advisor

'03-'04 Karisma Yearbook Staff

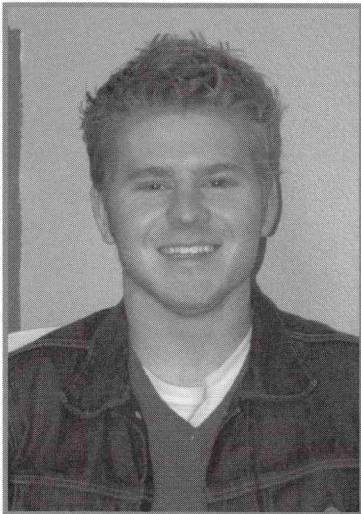

Casey Kilpatrick, Lisa Truemper, Desha Givens, & Beth Olson

Trusty Editor Lisa is always hard at work in the Karisma Office.

Casey Kilpatrick,
Assistant Editor

Assistant Editor Casey, besides layout, is also responsible for some of the trickier graphic effects seen throughout the pages of the yearbook. This is Casey's second year on Karisma.

Beth, Assistant Editor, spends a lot of time on the computer laying out pages, writing copy, and placing pictures, as well as contacting people for information to put on their respective pages. This is Beth's first year on Karisma.

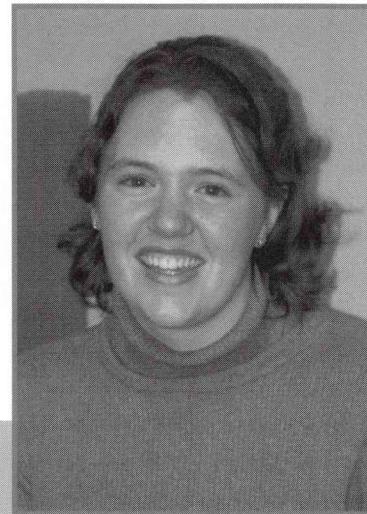

Beth Olson,
Assistant Editor

Desha Givens,
Photographer

The Karisma Photographer, Desha, is a familiar sight around campus, always snapping photos at floor events, dining hall activities, chapel, and just about anywhere else you can think of! This is Desh's first year on Karisma.

As Editor, Lisa is responsible for overseeing all Karisma staff, keeping in touch with Christian Lindbeck, making sure that deadlines are met, keeping everything organized, and lots of details that the rest of the staff doesn't have a clue about! This is Lisa's second year on Karisma.

The Talon

student newspaper

“This has been the first full year that The Talon has been “in business.” Everyone on The Talon staff is excited to become a part of Northwest College history.

“And as history in the making, we want to see The Talon become an integral part of NC students’ lives. We want The Talon to become not only a student’s forum, but also a student’s information source!

“The Talon is but a small monthly paper now, but in ten or twenty years we can look back and know that we were part of something that changed the NC campus.”

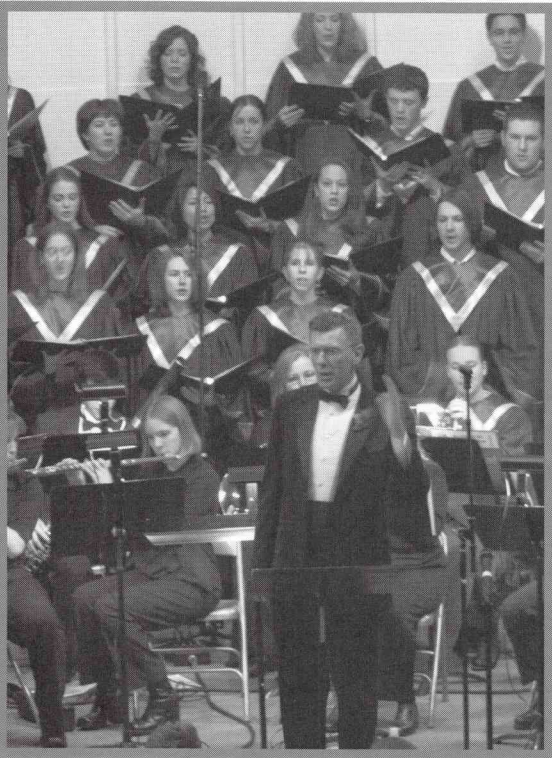

- Becky Wilson
Talon Editor

Psi Chi & Psychology Club

What is Psi Chi?

Psi what? That is a typical response from many NC students concerning Psi Chi which is one National Honor Society offered at Northwest College. Psi Chi is a member of the Association of College Honor Societies, and an affiliate of the American Psychology Society, which makes it the National Honor Society in Psychology. Founded in 1929, Psi Chi strives to encourage, stimulate, and maintain excellence in scholastics, as well as promoting and advancing the field of psychology. Anyone who makes psychology a key interest of study in their lives, are in the upper 35 percent of their class, have a culminating GPA of 3.0 or higher, and demonstrate high standards of personal behavior is eligible for membership in this society that loves psychology, but most of all, just love to have fun.

Lindsey Clark writes in a journal at a Psi Chi Ceremony.

What is Psychology Club?

Psychology Club is available to all NC students currently in, or interested in the psychology program. It is led by students in the psychology program. The club provides opportunities for an active learning environment and engaging discussions outside of the classroom. Psychology Club has sponsored several "Movie Nights" throughout the year. Student leaders include: Emily McCarty, President; Davida Freeze, Vice President; Amber Greer, Secretary; and Kelsey Hawk, Treasurer.

Three members of Psi Chi examine some documentation pertaining to the group and its members.

Counseling

Mission statement: "The Northwest College Counseling Services support and encourage students in their spiritual, psychological, social, vocational, and academic development. Counseling services are both preventative and redemptive in nature. We believe that God is fulfilling a redemptive story in our lives, and at times we need help as our stories unfold. Integrating counseling practice with Biblical faith, we endeavor to assist students to be better equipped to live Christ-centered lives in service, vocation, and community."

Student Development

Mission statement: "At Northwest College, Student Development is governed by total commitment to the Lordship of Jesus Christ. Therefore, the vision of Student Development is based on the daily practice of five commitments:

- Live an authentic faith in Christ;
- Believe in and model the Word of God;
- Participate in mentoring and discipleship;
- Participate in ministry and Christian Service;
- Live in community with the attitudes of faith, hope, and love (1 Corinthians 13:13).

The commitments will help establish a foundation for a lifetime of service through spiritual, intellectual, social, and physical development."

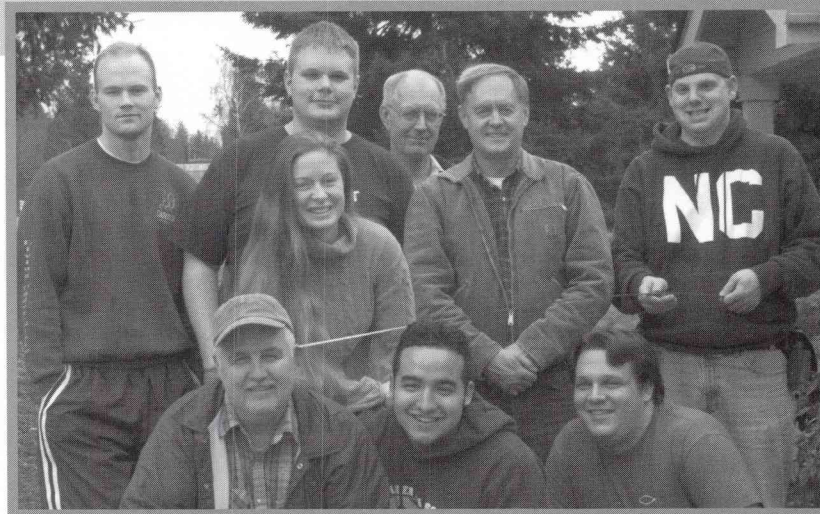

Jan Hicks and Christian Lindbeck
