NU Focus Lecture TONIGHT!

The Welcome Table: Who's invited?

The NU Focus panel discussion on cultural intelligence and Christian hospitality in practice is TONIGHT at 7:30p in HSC104. In response to student feedback, Dr. Brad Embry will begin the time with some conclusions from his last NU Focus lecture. Dr. Jack Wisemore will facilitate and participate in the panel discussion, along with Dr. Suzan Kobashigawa, Dr. Ray Lévesque (who spoke in chapel earlier this semester on Native American Christianity), Darcia Tudor (a lawyer, licensed therapist, and cultural competency expert), and Juan Esparza (who has significant experience working with at-risk youth, in inter-cultural relations, and in an urban environment). One chapel credit will be available for attendance.

Adjusted Class Schedule and Closures

Classes on Wednesday, November 24 will be on an adjusted schedule to allow students time to travel home for the Thanksgiving holiday break. Classes are NOT cancelled, but will be on a shortened schedule. There will be no chapel services on this day. To view this schedule, click here.

Additionally, the EFC will be closed Wednesday, November 24 through Sunday, November 28.

The last meal in the Caf will be lunch on Wednesday, November 24. It will reopen for breakfast on Monday, November 29.

Caf Monthly Special

Our monthly special will be our traditional "Thanksgiving Dinner Warm-up Lunch: on Tuesday, November 23. Enjoy carved turkey, cornbread dressing, and all the other fixings. Don't miss the chance to get ready for the real Thanksgiving feast!

Vocal Jazz Clinic

Northwest University Music presents a vocal jazz clinic featuring NU's Synergy, Contrary Motion Vocal Jazz ensembles and Jazz Rhythm Combo. Clinic features guest clinician & Grammy winner John Clayton.

Clinic is Thursday, November 18 from 11:00a-12:15p in the Chapel. Admission is free and open to the public.
